ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

Much gratitude and appreciation are due to numerous persons who helped to make this book a reality. Among those that must be mentioned are the following:

....My husband, DAVID A. PERDUE, who has helped more than anyone else. Without his assistance and understanding, I could not have finished the book.

....Three groups of Perdue descendants who furnished material for three chapters of the book:

(1) GLADYS HARDY-CARTER, Granbury Texas--who wrote the chapter on her grandfather, David Blacksher Hamilton Perdue;

(2) MARIE AND ARNOLD PERDUE, Smackover, Arkansas--who wrote the chapter on Arnold's great-grandfather, John A. W. Perdue;

(3) LUCILLE BARNES-COOK, Plain Dealing, Louisiana, and LILLIAN BARNES-Hope, Shreveport, Louisiana--who wrote the chapter on their grandmother, Theodocia Perdue-Barnes.

....SHERIE MEOLA, Syracuse, New York, who sent the newspaper clipping that helped me to locate the Texas, Louisiana, and Arkansas Perdues.

....DAVID CARSON BARNES (1878-1953), who traveled extensively, worked in many places, visited relatives in several states, and took many pictures of his relatives. Throughout this book, there are copies of letters, documents, and pictures that he saved. To him, I am deeply indebted.

PREFACE

It is not the purpose of this book to trace the Perdue lineage to its origin in Europe or to the immigrant ancestor who came to America. Perhaps if more time and effort could be expended, it would be possible to attain that desirable goal. The immediate purpose in compiling the data on JAMES A. PERDUE (b. ca 1822, Ga.) and his descendants is to record the amassed data that have been collected so that it will not be lost to future generations. Those of us who have researched and collected the material found in this book did the research with the anticipation that future descendants of Perdues would continue the Perdue lineage search.

This book has become a reality due to several incidents that happened unexpectedly and sequentially. For many years I had been searching for the "missing" sons and daughters of James A. Perdue. From the 1850 Census of Houston County Georgia--also from other records and relatives--I had learned their names. My husband's father, George Ervin Perdue, Sr., had told me that his "Pa" had three or four brothers who went away to the Civil War and that only one returned--Blacksher--who moved to Texas, married two or three times, and had seventeen or eighteen children. That was all that he knew about them.

In 1980, I submitted names of several ancestors whom I was researching to the "Roots Cellar," and they were published in the "Genealogical Helper." Sometime in 1981, a Perdue researcher from New York contacted me after reading that I was researching James A. Perdue. She sent me a 1935 newspaper clipping from Cisco, Texas, that she had received from another Perdue researcher in California. This article proved to be the "light at the end of the tunnel!"

The article was written about David Blacksher Perdue, his family, and his experiences during the Civil War. Further correspondence revealed that the article was sent to California by a granddaughter of Blacksher who lived in Texas. Through her, I learned about two more of James A. Perdue's children--John A. W. Perdue and Theodocia Manson Perdue-Barnes. A year or two earlier, descendants of John A. W. Perdue were in Texas, called a few Perdues in the phone book, and located descendants of Blacksher Perdue.

In 1981, my husband, two of his sisters, and I attended the Texas Perdue Reunion. Later that year, we attended the John A. W. Perdue Reunion in Louisiana. Those were joyous affairs as we met the Perdue relatives, who had the familiar facial and personality characteristics of the Georgia Perdues.

It was a fortunate coincidence that descendants of each of the three children of James A. Perdue--that settled in Arkansas, Louisiana, and Texas--had been researching their ancestors just as I had been researching the four children who remained in Georgia. We decided to compile our information, and this book is the result of those efforts.

There were still two children--James E. Perdue and Virginia Perdue--on whom we had very little information. Lillian Barnes-Hope of Shreveport, Louisiana, came to Georgia in the summer of 1981 to visit relatives of her grandmother, Theodocia Perdue-Barnes. While in Tift County, Georgia, she discovered information about James E. Perdue's son, Jasper, who had lived there. She also found a picture of James E. Perdue in an old trunk that belonged to her relatives.

Additional information was learned about James E. Perdue's only child, Jasper Perdue, when my husband and I visited Kelley descendants in Tift and Colquitt Counties, Georgia--and in Florida. Their Kelley ancestor was a cousin to Jasper's mother, and his wife was a sister to Jasper's wife; therefore, they knew a lot about the Perdues. One of the Kelley boys and his family had lived in the home with Jasper and his wife for several years before Jasper and his wife died. Thus, the mystery of another child of James A. Perdue was solved.

The only information that we had about Virginia Perdue--daughter of James A. Perdue--was that she had a son named Robert C. Holland, who had written a letter in 1938 from Rhine, Georgia, to his cousin, Carson Barnes. Hoping that some Holland descendants still lived at Rhine, Georgia, my husband and I went there and actually found one of Robert's daughters, who helped with information on all of Robert C. Holland's children.

Searching for the ancestors of James A. Perdue and for his descendants has ultimately "brought to light" much knowledge about Perdues in many places. Although much information has been collected on many of the early Perdues who lived in Georgia, Maryland, Virginia, Alabama, North and South Carolina, it is impossible to submit it all in this book. Others are researching the Perdues on a more global scale, and it is anticipated that they will publish their material. Therefore, I have chosen to limit the material in this book to James A. Perdue and his descendants and to those items of research that relate to him. With all of the information collected, it is regrettable that I can not determine, with any degree of validity, who the parents of James A. Perdue were.

Many genealogies in this book were prepared from public records and data furnished by descendants. Although a diligent effort has been exerted to eliminate errors--typing errors, incorrect dates, and misspelled names--there will be errors, although honest ones, from having obtained information from such a wide array of sources. Numerous pictures have been included. Not all of them are sharp or clear because the originals were not good; however, it was felt that pictures--even though poor prints--would enhance the knowledge of what our ancestors were like.

Collecting the information for this book has led me to the homes of unknown relatives, to remote family cemeteries, to dusty books in many courthouses, to several genealogical libraries, to the Georgia State Archives, and to the National Archives in Washington, D. C. Not every trip or endeavor was successful, but a shred of information obtained here and there always gave me an incentive to keep searching.

The frustrations--getting no replies from inquiries for information, researching "leads" that led to "dead ends," finding old pictures with no names on them, and meeting a few disinterested persons who didn't care to share information--were infinitesimal when compared to the exhilaration and sense of accomplishment derived from a new discovery. Meeting so many "newly-found" relatives, who have enthusiastically contributed pictures and family information, has truly been the highlight of my research.

Digging for lost ancestors has been far more than simply collecting names of ascendants and descendants. In the course of my excavations, I have increased my genuine respect for history, enhanced my geographical knowledge, been introduced to legal ramifications, improved my research techniques and methodology, learned to think like a "detective," and become a great admirer of my ancestors.

Ultimately, we must not forget the fact that our ascendants were human beings, not merely names which have survived in musty old records. They lived and breathed, worked and played, had their tribulations and pleasures--however different these may have been from ours. Moreover we have found that they took their part in the affairs of their times and contributed in some way to the development of our civilization. By learning more about them and their times--good or bad-- we become wiser in knowing "who we are, why we are like we are, and how we got this way!"

IDENTIFICATION SYSTEM AND RELATIONSHIPS

In order to catalogue each of the Perdues and their descendants as they come down through succeeding generations, a system of identification has been chosen that employs Letters to designate the Generations and Numerals to designate the various Children as they come therein. This system--which gives each person an identifying mark--was chosen because it is flexible enough to allow the insertion of additions, when missing links are found, without disturbing their order or number. Additionally, later generations can be added easily to the existing numbering system by simply continuing through the alphabet. The system also allows one to find his or her relationship to others in the book.

One can find his or her relationship to the ancestor, JAMES A. PERDUE, as follows:

I - JAMES A. PERDUE

A = Children	D = Great-Great Grandchildren
B = Grandchildren	E = G-G-Great Grandchildren
C = Great Grandchildren	F = Etc.

The order of children within a family are represented by numerals as well as their generation Letter. The numerals show the order of birth of the children. An example is as follows:

I - JAMES A. PERDUE
- A-1 JOHN A. W. PERDUE (oldest child of James A. Perdue)
  - B-1 JAMES MADISON PERDUE (oldest child of John A. W.)
    - C-1 GOSPER LAFAYETTE PERDUE (oldest child of J.M.P.)
      - D-1 MINNIE VIOLA PERDUE(oldest child of G.L.P)
      - D-2 ALBERT ADDISON PERDUE(Second child " ")
      - D-3 WILLIAM MADISON PERDUE (Third child " ")
    - C-2 ROSA LEE PERDUE (second child of James Madison)

Consequently, there will be many different names with the same letter and number, indicating the same descent from the common ancestor, JAMES A. PERDUE, but who are separated from each other by many years, long distances, and by many different family lines. This will cause no conflict, whatever, when their correct preceding letters and numbers are considered.

To find one's relationship to individuals in other chapters, or within a chapter, the chart on the following page should be used.

ABBREVIATIONS used in this book are: b.= born; d.= died; m.= married; ca = about, approximately.

DIRECTIONS: To find your relationship to others, put a COMMON ANCESTOR in block 1, with his direct descendants across the top and sides of the form. For instance, if the common ancestor is your great grandfather, place your name in block 4, your father in block 3, your grandfather in block 2. Then put your grandfather's brother in the side block 2 with his son in block 3, etc. An example has been done using descendants of James A Perdue's oldest and youngest sons, John A. W. Perdue and Philip Tess Woodson Perdue. Using the chart, where columns converge, the relationships can be determined. For example: Brandy Hayden Perdue and David Alfred Perdue, III, are fourth cousins, once removed; David Alfred Perdue, Sr. and Arthur Jennings Perdue are second cousins, etc. (COUSIN-FINDER chart by N. CHAPTER

WHENCE - SO - EVER THEY CAME

WHENCE-SO-EVER THEY CAME...

Throughout many different branches of the PERDUE family, one often encounters the tradition of the earliest Perdues being Huguenots, and that they left France for England prior to coming to America. Some researchers refute this tradition while others cite it as factual.

Historians and researchers generally agree that the Perdues are of a very old lineage. The "Perdu" name was found in England 400 years before the Huguenot migration. The name is probably Norman in origin and was borne by persons who had a right to "bear arms." The name was used as a war cry by raiding Normans over 800 years ago. As early as 1273, the name is mentioned in records in Cambridgeshire, England. Perhaps a reasonable explanation of the Perdue name is that it was a motto of the Norman family who bore it. In its original form, the motto was probably the Latin "Per deum" meaning "by God's help." Webster's Dictionary gives this definition of perdu (masculine) or perdue (feminine): "Remaining out of sight, concealed, to lose, a soldier assigned to extremely hazardous duty." Throughout history there have been various spellings in both Europe and America: PERDEUX, PURDUE, PURDEW, PARDUE, PERDEW, PURDE, PURDEU, PERDEAU, and PERDUE.

"Purdues" were prominent bell founders in England and Ireland for more than a century--from 1560 to 1710. Bells cast by Purdues were found in many English and Irish cathedrals and churches. There was one William Purdue buried in Limerick Cathedral, England, and his epitaph was:

"Here a bell-founder, honest and true,
Till the Resurrection, lies Purdue."

(Perdue Records: Mormon Library, Salt Lake City, Utah)

The "Perdeux" name is mentioned in many accounts of French history. There were two noble families with the surname "Perdeux" during the first reign of the Normans. Pierre Perdeux, a native of Angers of Anjou, died in 1631 and left a large family, The third son of Pierre, Henri (b. 1625), was among the 300,000 Calvinist French Protestants called Huguenots, who left France and went to England because of the persecution by the Catholics.

After about four years in England, Henri Perdeux, at age 36, his wife, and three children came to Elizabeth City, Virginia, in 1661. They settled soon afterward in Worcester County, Maryland, where the Calvinist family had promised religious freedom to a settlement of Huguenots. For over 300 years the Perdues have continued to be a part of the history and development of the Worcester and Wicomico Counties in Maryland.

(A Solid Foundation by Frank Gordy, 1976; The Fooks Family: Perdue section by Ronie Walston Venables)

Some of the descendants of Henri Perdeux migrated to Georgia, and were in Hancock County by 1794. Several of these early Perdues moved about 1818 to Lowndes County, Alabama, but others stayed in Georgia--moving to Jones, Baldwin, Monroe, Lamar, and Pike counties.

Tradition in another branch of Perdues who settled in Canada is that they came from England to Ireland in the latter half of the 17th Century. They left Ireland, came to Canada, and settled near Toronto in the earliest part of the 18th Century. This group of Perdues were convinced that they were not of Huguenot origin. (Research done by Chief Justice Perdue, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. He had done extensive research by 1928--which is recorded in the Mormon Library, Salt Lake City, Utah.)

Quite early there were clusters of Perdues in Virginia. One branch, John Perdue, from Henrico and Chesterfield Counties, moved to North Carolina, and his descendants populated that state plus South Carolina, Georgia, and Alabama. As early as 1737, there were Perdues in Craven County, North Carolina. By the early 1800's, marriage bonds of North Carolina show that there were large numbers of Perdues living in Guilford, Craven, Rockingham, Warren, Wilkes, and other counties.

There was also a Dr. William Perdue, who came to America from County Antrim, Ireland, around 1737 and settled in Chester County Pennsylvania. He had two children: Folliard Ridge Perdue and Mentor Pim Perdue. (Perdue Records: Mormon Library, Salt Lake City, Utah)

As land in Georgia was opened for settlement, many Perdues from several states chose to move there. Based on data from records researched in several Georgia county courthouses, books, microfilm records, genealogical libraries, the National Archives, and the Georgia Archives and History, the following Perdues were among the earliest ones to migrate to Georgia:

Name	Born	Ga. County	Date first found in Georgia
PERDIEU, Morris	?	Greene	1791
PERDUE, John	1760, Md.	Hancock	1794
PERDUE, George	1757, Md.	Hancock	1794
PARDUE, William	176?, N.C.	Jefferson	1796

PERDUE, WILLIAM	1780, N. C.	Hancock	1805
PERDUE, JOHN D.	1780-90	Baldwin	1809
PERDUE, ISAAC	1787-90, Md.	Jones	1811
PERDUE, JOSHUA	1790, Md.	Jones	1811
PERDUE, JAMES	1783, Md.	Jones	1811
PERDUE, JAMES H.	1794, Md.	Jones	1812
PERDUE, JOHN BAILEY,	1788, Md.	Baldwin	1813

By 1820 some of these Perdues had moved to other Georgia counties and to other states. The 1820 Georgia Census shows that there were sixteen Perdue families living in Georgia. They were: James A. and George Perdue, Baldwin Co.; Huston Pardeu, Camden Co.; Daniel and John Perdue, Greene Co.; Benjamin, James, John, and William Pardue, Jefferson Co.; James, William, and Isaac Perdue, Jones Co.; John and Joseph C. Perdue, Putnam Co.; William Perdiew, Richmond Co.; and John D. Perdue, Wilkinson County.

At the end of the 19th Century, the United States entered a difficult expansion period. The government bartered, bribed, and forced the Indians westward. Georgia followed the lead of others in its efforts to claim and to settle its frontier which resulted in the "Trail of Tears" and a series of land lotteries.

Over six lotteries were held in Georgia. Treaties with tribes of Indians were signed in 1802, 1817, 1819, 1821, and 1825. After each a lottery parceled out the ceded lands to white taxpayers.

The Treaty of Fort Wilkinson in 1802 ceded land between the Oconee and Ocmulgee Rivers to the United States for the use of Georgia. This land was divided into three counties--Baldwin, Wilkinson and Wayne--with thirteen districts marked off into 202½ or 490 acres. A lottery was used, and all eligible citizes shared a chance to own land for small fees. At least five Perdues applied for land during this lottery.

The land, acquired from the Creeks by the Treaty of Indian Springs on 8 January 1821, was divided into five counties: Henry, Fayette, Monroe, Dooly, and Houston. Subsequently, the land was surveyed, divided into land districts and lots, and a lottery was held.

Perdues who were fortunate drawers in the 1821 Land Lottery of Georgia were as follows:

Name	Co. of Residence	Location of Grant	Lot	District
PERDIEW, JOHN D.	Wilkinson	Monroe	236	13
PERDUE, JOSEPH C.	Putnam	Houston	128	12
PERDUE, JOSEPH C.	Putnam	Houston	231	10

PERDUE, John	Jefferson	Houston	151	2
Orphans of William PERDUE	Franklin	Monroe	275	15
PERDUE, Ruth	Franklin	Houston	57	4

No records have been found in the Houston County Courthouse that show any of those above ever moved there. Joseph C. Perdue sold his 202½ acres of land to William Whitfield for $70.00 on 31 August 1827. (Houston Co., Ga., Deed Book C, p. 410)

Any discussion of the James A. Perdue family outlined in this book necessitates knowing the origin and history of Houston County, Georgia, because the Perdues were among the earliest settlers and have remained an integral part of the history of the county for about 150 years. Today, there are still numerous descendants of James A. Perdue residing in Houston County.

Houston County was organized on the 21st of December 1821. As originally laid out, Houston's eastern boundary was the Ocmulgee River; its western, the Flint. At that time, it included half of the city of Macon, Georgia, most of Bibb County, all of Crawford and Peach Counties, a part of Upson, over half of Macon County, and a large part of Pulaski County. Houston remained for ninety years one of the largest and most populous counties in Georgia.

The Georgia Gazateer gave the population of Houston County in 1829 as follows: whites, 1448; blacks, 325; total 1773. By 1850, as recorded in the Houston County Census, the population had increased as follows: white males, 3360; white females, 3152; free colored males, 7; free colored females, 7; slaves, 9,924. This was pre-Civil War days when large and small plantations thrived in Houston County and slaves outnumbered other residents. In 1980, the census showed that the population had soared to nearly 78,000.

The earliest settlers in Houston County experienced a life that was very primitive--no roads, schools or churches. These early "comers" were men of small means, but they were soon followed by planters, who with their slaves, opened up large plantations. A large group of influential planters came from South Carolina. Many families of lesser means came from North Carolina and a few from Virginia. Also, many moved to Houston County from other Georgia counties in search of better farming land. Houston County deed records show that the first deed was recorded on 5 January 1822.

The first Perdue land deed in Houston County was the previously mentioned deed by Joseph C. Perdue of Putnam County in 1827. The next deed was by James Perdue of Jefferson Co., Georgia, to Gabriel Smith in December 1829, as follows:

"One-sixth part of a tract of land lying in the 10th District of Houston County containing 212½ acres, Lot 27, it being drawn by William P. Rowland and granted to him to have and to hold 1/6 part of said lot, which part is owned by the heirs of William Perdue, Jr., the above tract of land unto him, the Gabriel Smith, his heirs and assigns forever." (Houston Co., Ga., Deed Book D., p. 347)

The above deed concerns James Perdue of Jefferson County, Georgia. He was guardian of the children of his deceased brother, William Perdue, Jr., of Jefferson County. The land had been granted to the father of William Perdue, Jr.'s wife. These Jefferson County Perdues never lived in Houston County, Georgia.

Neither the 1830 Houston County Census nor the tax digests showed any Perdues living there at that time; however, in the 1840 Census, James A. Perdue--the progenitor of the Houston County Perdues--was listed. He had previously married in 1838, Bibb County.

A search of the tax digests, 1829-1860, of Houston County showed that the first Perdues to pay tax there were James A. Perdue and John Perdue in 1841. James was living in the 11th District, no acreage shown; John was living in the 10th District and paid tax on 101½ acres in Houston and 490 acres in Appling County, Georgia. John had other land transactions in 1842, 1845, and 1846.

The 1840's and 1850's were prosperous times in Houston County, but this came to an abrupt end during the Civil War. Every eligible white male volunteered to serve in the Confederate Army for what they believed to be a great, noble cause--to save the South. James A. and Sarah Perdue's hearts were surely saddened as they watched their three oldest sons--John A. W., James E., and David Blacksher--volunteer and leave home for service in the Army.

Near the end of the war when the fighting strength of the South had become so reduced, a company of old men and young boys was formed in Houston County and sent to Savannah, Georgia. It is possible that James A. Perdue--who was listed in the 1840 and 1850 Houston County Censuses and in the Houston County Tax Digests from 1841-1860--was among that group. At least, one James A. Perdue enlisted at Macon, Georgia, on 22 September 1863, and served until 1865, when due to illness he was sent home to Macon, Georgia.

With most of the men away at war, the women, children, and slaved continued to operate the farms and plantations. These courageous women of the Confederacy worked day and night for the Cause and the soldiers. They wove cloth, made clothes for the soldiers, and grew food to send to the army. As the war progressed, many women devised ingenious substitutes for many scarce items such as tea, coffee, candles, salt, sugar, cocoa, and stationery.

Hundreds of Houston's population did not return from the war. James A. Perdue's son--John A. W.--got killed during the war, but two other sons--James E. and David Blacksher--returned home to Houston County. Unfortunately, James E. Perdue returned home in 1865 and died there in 1866.

The surviving soldiers who did return found that reconstruction was as bad or worse than the war. The same fertile lands were in Houston County, watered by the same abundant streams, but poverty and chaos were everywhere--money gone, credit no good, and slaves freed.

A garrison of Federal soldiers was stationed in Perry, Houston County, Georgia, and a Freedman's Bureau was established. Carpet Baggers moved into the county and organized the blacks, promising them that the land would be taken from the whites and divided among them. The blacks left the farms and congregated in the towns. When blacks were given the ballot, two ex-slaves were elected to serve in the Constitutional Convention of 1868. The whites felt that they had no one to represent their interests. Problems arose, and as a result, the Ku Klux Klan was created. (History of Houston County, Georgia, by Warren Grice, 1934)

Gradually through the years, farms began to flourish and life once again returned to stability. However, the days of the large plantations in Houston County had passed.

The first railroad to come to Houston County was in 1850. Later, in the 1880's, the Georgia Southern and Florida built a railroad through the entire length of the western side of the county. The railroad provided access to markets in other areas.

The first schools in Houston County were called "Old Field Schools." The Legislature appropriated the "poor fund" to pay the tuition of those who were financially unable to do so. Many who were poor were proud; therefore, would not avail themselves of the schools and hence their children got no schooling.

The Perdue descendants can be justly proud that their ancestor, James A. Perdue, took advantage of those "Poor Schools," by sending his children to them. On 5 July 1858, four of his children were listed in the Houston County Poor School eligible list. Evidently most of his children received some education. Letters written by several of his children have been found.

One of the earliest and largest of the county's manufacturing plants was the Houston Factory. Some of James A. Perdue's children worked there. It has been documented through old letters that many of his grandchildren also worked there as loom operators.

The following is taken from a description of the factory that appeared in the county's newspaper, Houston Home Journal, on 22 March 1873, and which was recorded in the Houston County History by Warren Grice, pp. 137-38:

"...The basement of the factory building is devoted to the dyeing department, the laths and other implements used in repair of machinery. Here the bales of cotton are opened, passed through a ponderous machine which cleans it and reduces it to a fine open condition. It is then run through another machine which reduces it to broad sheets of batting, which are rolled up into cylindrical form, placed in the elevator and carried to the second floor, where it is carded in a machine that has more sense than some men we know. It is framed into rolls which are gradually drawn into smaller ones and ultimately into threads, which are spooled, warped, sized, slayed, and placed in the looms, which last are more wonderful in their construction than the steam engine--the mechanism being so delicate that the breaking of a single thread will stop the loom, notwithstanding it is driven by a fifty horse-power turbine waterwheel. The second floor is devoted to the carding, spinning and warping machinery; the third floor to the sizing, weaving and packing; and the attic to the rope walk.

"The factory was built in 1843, was burned and rebuilt twice and considerably enlarged since the Civil War. It is furnished with the best machinery, which cost $42,000.00. There are about 2,500 spindles in operation and sixty looms. During the month of January, 1873, about 15,000 pounds of cotton were consumed, which produced 35,000 yards of 4-4 sheeting, 2,000 pounds of cotton yarns and 800 pounds of sewing thread (balls). Over $1,200.00 were paid to laborers in January, 1873. Nearly all the goods manufactured here are shipped to Cincinnati, Ohio, where they sell well. The Factory gives employment to a large number of poor people. They have comfortable homes, churches, etc., are all convenient, and their happy faces show that they are happy..."

The Houston Factory played a vital role in the economy for many years, and it provided income for many families who were struggling to make a living by farming.

There was also a Houston Factory School, where some of the Perdues probably attended school.

Houston County remains an agricultural county although the major industry and source of income since World War II has been Robins Air Foce Base, located in the northern part of the county. Today, nearly 20,000 persons are employed there.

The descendants of James A. Perdue who remained in Houston County have continued to be upright, contributing citizens, who have held important positions in government, agriculture, and education.

ANCESTRY OF JAMES A. PERDUE

As stated earlier, the ancestry of James A. Perdue--the subject of this book--has not been proven although extensive investigations have been made. For the benefit of descendants who may continue research on his ancestry, it seems appropriate to delineate some of the efforts already made to ascertain who the parents of James A. Perdue were.

To narrow the possibilities of who could have been the father of James A. Perdue (b. ca 1822, Ga.), the fourteen Perdues who were living in Georgia in 1830 were researched. Only six Perdues were found to have a son the right age to have been James A. Perdue. They were: WILLIAM and JOHN D. PERDUE, Bibb Co.; JOHN PERDUE, Jefferson Co.; THOMAS and JOSEPH C. PERDUE, Putnam Co.; and DANIEL PERDUE, Greene County.

Several of the above persons have been eliminated as the father of James A. Perdue. Brief information about them is as follows:

JOHN PERDUE

JOHN PERDUE, b. 1797; d. 1884, Jefferson Co., Ga.; the son of Judah and William Perdue, Sr., Jefferson Co., Ga.; m. 23 Mar. 1820, to Martha Beasley, b. 1800. They had the following children: (1) William C. Perdue, b. 22 Mar. 1822; (2) Jackson M. Perdue, b. 12 Sept. 1826; (3) Jane Perdue, b. 31 Mar. 1829; (4) Nancy E. Perdue, b. 1832; (5) Rebecca A. Perdue, b. 1834; (6) Judy Perdue, b. 1840; (7) John F. Perdue, b. 1840; (8) Martha Perdue, b. 1841. (Names of children supplied by Jefferson Co. Census records and Mr. LeRoy Lewis, Louisville, Georgia.)

A search of the Jefferson County Tax Digests shows that John was listed the first time in 1819, with no acreage shown. In the 1821 Georgia Land Lottery, he drew Lot 151, Sec. 2, Houston County.

He paid tax on this property from 1822 through 1836; however, the last two years his property in Houston County had become a part of Crawford County. He also paid tax on 202½ acres of land in Dooly County, Georgia, from 1831 through the 1850's. He acquired 202½ acres of land in Jefferson County in 1825, and increased that acreage to 900 acres by 1837. Although John owned land in Houston County, he never moved there; neither did he have a child named James. (Jefferson Co., Ga., Tax Digests, 1819-1850; Houston Co. Tax Digests, 1829-1860)

DANIEL PERDUE

Daniel Perdue, b. ca 1780, Virginia; d. ca 1855, Greene Co., Ga.; wife, Mary. He was the son of Ezekiel and Mary Perdue of Chesterfield County, Virginia. Daniel married Nov. 1815, Greene County to Rebecca Houghton, who died before 1839. In 1839 he married Mary S. Findley, Greene County, Georgia. Daniel's children were: William J., John T., Edwin C., Albert A., James H., Seaborn S., Mary Ann Perdue-Wheat, Crawford, Lafayette, and Henry. Daniel had a son named James H. Perdue; therefore, he would not have had a son named James A. Perdue.
(1850 Greene Co., Ga., Census; marriages, Greene Co.; History of Greene County; Will of Daniel Perdue, dated 10 Feb. 1855, Will Book G., pp. 52-53, Greene Co., Ga.; Dr. Charles L. Perdue, Jr., Madison, Virginia)

THOMAS PERDUE

Thomas Perdue, brother to Daniel Perdue, was the son of Ezekiel and Mary Perdue of Chesterfield County, Virginia. He was listed in the Putnam County Tax Digests from at least 1824 through 1841. He owned land in Putnam, Talbot, Cherokee, and Houston Counties. Although he owned 202½ acres of land, District 13, Lot 123, in Houston County in the 1830's, he never lived there. He was listed in the 1830 Putnam County Census with wife and eleven children. The children, all born between 1809 and 1826 were: William Gaston, Mathew Gaston, Ezekiel N., Mary, Ann, Nancy Ellen, Levi W., Littleberry, Emily W., John Franklin, and Alexander Robert Perdue. Thomas Perdue probably died about 1842, intestate, in Putnam County. His sons, Ezekiel N. and Levi W. Perdue, were made Administrators of his estate in 1842.
(Putnam County Tax Digests, 1824-1842; Annual Return Books, Inventory & Appraisement Books, Bond Books, Putnam County, 1842; Names of children by Dr. Charles L. Perdue, Madison, Virginia; 1830 Putnam County Census)

JOSEPH C. PERDUE

Joseph C. Perdue was listed in the 1830 Putnam County Census, (b. between 1790-1800), with his wife, two sons, and one daughter. The children were all under ten years of age. He was not listed in the 1840 Putnam County Census. Records show that he sold the land in Houston County--land he drew in the 1821 Lottery. In Putnam County where he lived, the tax digests showed him listed 1824 through 1833, with no acreage. Children of Joseph C. Perdue have not been obtained at this time.
(Houston County Land Deeds, 1827; Putnam County Tax Digests--1824, 1827, 1830, 1832, 1833, 1838; 1830 and 1840 Putnam Co. Censuses)

From research that has been compiled, it appears that the most likely candidates for the father of James A. Perdue are: JOHN D. PERDUE and WILLIAM PERDUE, both of whom lived for a number of years in Bibb County, Georgia; and JOHN PERDUE, b. ca 1794, N. C., who lived in Houston County from 1841 until he died in 1855.

Descendants of William Perdue always called their Perdue neighbors in Houston County "cousin." They knew they were related, but they never knew exactly how they were related. William and John D. Perdue were living next door to each other in the Bibb County 1830 Census, and they were about the same age--indicating that they could have been brothers. The other John Perdue, who was born in North Carolina and who lived in Houston County from 1841 to 1855, was the right age to have been the father of James A. Perdue--possibly by a first marriage.

To expedite future research by others, some of the data that have been obtained concerning John D. Perdue, William Perdue, and John Perdue will be given.

WILLIAM PERDUE

1780 - born in North Carolina

1813-1827 - lived in Jones Co., Ga. (Records indicate that the William in Jones Co. is the same William living in Bibb Co., Ga., from 1830 to 1850.)

1820 - listed in the Jones Co., Ga., Census as follows:
WILLIAM PERDUE

	1 (26-45)

1830 - listed in Bibb County, Georgia, Census as follows:

1850 - listed in Bibb County Census, page 415.
WILLIAM PERDUE, age 70, farmer, b. N. C.
Elizabeth, 60, b. N. C.

Sarah A., 15, b. Ga.
G. A., 12, b. Ga.
Martha, 9, b. Ga.
James, 6, b. Ga.
Julian A., 2, b. Ga.
Messer (Mercer), Sarah, age 25, b. Ga.
Vance, James, 30, b. Ga., Laborer (m. Catherine Perdue)
(It is believed that Sarah A., G. A., Martha, James, and Julian were grandchildren living in William's home.)

1850-1860 - William Perdue died in Bibb Co., Ga. No will or estate transactions have been found in the Bibb Co., Ga., Courthouse. His widow, Elizabeth, was living with a daughter-in-law, Caroline, in the 1860 Bibb County Census. The only children of William Perdue that have been verified are William G., John L., and Catherine Perdue.

JOHN D. PERDUE

1780 - 1790 - born probably in North Carolina. (No proof)
1819 - paid tax in Baldwin Co., Ga. (At least, one John D. did.)
1820 - listed in Wilkinson County, Ga., Census as follows:

JOHN D. PERDUE	Males	Females
	3 (0-10)	1 (26-45)
	1 (26-45)

1821 - 1823 - John D. Perdue, Wilkinson County, Georgia.
25 July 1821 - 7 June 1823
MR - 1808-1829, p. 73
(found on index card in Georgia Archives and History)
1821 - drew Lot 236, Dist. 13, Monroe Co., Ga., in 1821 Land Lottery. He was living in Wilkinson Co., Ga., at that time. (1821 Georgia Land Lottery)
1825 - bought Lot 237, Dist. 13, Bibb Co., (formerly Monroe Co., Ga.) for $280.00 from William Hardy of Wilkinson Co., Ga. (Bibb Co., Ga., Land Deed Book D., p. 220, 5 Feb. 1825)
1830 - listed in the Bibb Co., Ga., Census as follows:

JOHN D. PERDUE	Males	Females
	1 (5-10)	1 (-5)
	2 (10-15)	1 (5-10)
	1 (16-20)	1 (10-15)
	1 (40-50)	1 (30-40)

1835 - sold Lot 236, 13th Dist., Bibb Co., (formerly Monroe Co.) to Henry G. Lamar for $2,500.00.
(Bibb Co., Ga., Land Deeds, Book D., p. 362)
1840 - listed in Bibb and Meriwether Counties' Censuses. It has not been proven that the John D. Perdue in Meriwether County is the same person as the John D. Perdue in Bibb County. There are some discrepancies in the ages of children listed in the two censuses. The Census listings are as follows:

MERIWETHER COUNTY

JOHN D. PERDUE

Males	Females
1 (5-10)	1 (5-10)
1 (15-20)	2 (10-15)
1 (20-30)	1 (40-50)
1 (50-60)

BIBB COUNTY

JOHN D. PERDUE

1 (10-15)	1 (15-20)
1 (15-20)	1 (20-30)
1 (50-60)	1 (50-60)

1847 - John D. Perdue died in Meriwether County, Georgia.
15 July 1847 - Inventory of goods of John D. Perdue, Meriwether Co., Francis Pliny Perdue, Administrator.

One John D. Perdue married Hettie White in 1812, Baldwin Co., Georgia. It is believed that he is the same one who died in Meriwether County in 1847. The John D. Perdue, who was in Wilkinson County in 1820 is definitely the same John D. Perdue that was in Bibb County in 1830 and 1840. No records were found in the Bibb County Courthouse concerning estate records for John D. Perdue. Since the tax records for Bibb County were burned, verification of the years he lived in Bibb County could not be made.

JOHN PERDUE

1793 - born in North Carolina, probably Lenoir County.
1812-1814 - served in the War of 1812 from North Carolina.
1840 - bought two town lots, Perry, Ga., from James Holderness for $200.00. (Land Deeds, Houston County, Georgia)

1855 - John Smith applied for Letters of Administration on estate of John Perdew, who died intestate. $4,000.00 bond, with Larry M. Tooney as security, was made. Appraisers appointed: Edward J. Smith and Turner Smith.
(Houston Co., Ga., Appraisements and Sales, Book B, pp. 370-72)

1855 - John Smith, Adm. of John Perdew's estate, received leave to sell, transfer, and assign Land Warrant # 9223 for 120 acres, which was issued to the said John Perdew, Private in Capt. Kilpatrick's Co., N. C. Militia, War of 1812.
(Houston Co., Ga., Minutes of Court)

1855 - John Smith, administrator, sold property of John Perdew's estate. Property sold for $2,144.56. Among those buying property were William Perdue and Gatlin Perdue.
(Appraisement and Sales, Book B, pp. 370-372, Houston Co.)

1855-1858 - Annual Returns were filed by John Smith, Adm. of John Perdew's estate. (Houston Co. Min. of Court, Feb. 1852-May 1861, pp. 247, 301, 390)

1856 - Seventy-five acres in NE corner of Lot 4 and twenty-five acres in SE corner of Lot 5, Dist. 9, John Perdew's estate, were auctioned at a public sale held at the courthouse, Perry, Georgia, after being published in the Macon, Georgia, newspapers for two months. Highest bid was $500.00 by Clarborn Bateman. (Houston Co., Ga., Deed Book)

1859 - John Smith requested dismissal as Adm. of John Perdew's estate, stating that heirs were of full ages and their shares had been fully settled. (Min. of Court, Houston Co., Book K, p. 444)

(Houston Co., Ga. Appraisement & Sales, p. 579)

1862 - Inventory of rights and credits of Nancy Perdue was filed.

John Perdue was a Private in the War of 1812. He served in Captain Francis K. Patrick's Det. Co., of Militia drawn from Lenoir County, North Carolina, and was stationed at Beaufort, N. C. He volunteered at Kingston, Lenoir County, North Carolina. He may have been the son of Dennis Perdue of Lenoir County, N. C. In the 1800 North Carolina Census, Dennis had a son in the 0-10 age bracket, which was the right age to have been John Perdue, born 1793, in North Carolina.

He probably moved to Houston County about 1841. The tax digests there showed that he paid tax from 1841 until he died in 1855. It is possible that he had sons named Gatlin and William Perdue, both of whom bought some of John Perdue's estate in Houston County. His marriage to Nancy Andrews in 1843, Houston County, probably was his second marriage. James A. Perdue could have been John's son by an earlier marriage--although no proof has been located.

==========

Further research needs to be accumulated in order to determine conclusively who the father of James A. Perdue was. Indications at this time lead the author to assume that his father was probably WILLIAM PERDUE or JOHN D. PERDUE of Bibb County, Georgia, or JOHN PERDUE, who was born in North Carolina and who lived in Houston County during the 1840's and 1850's.

JAMES A. PERDUE

ca 1822 - 186?

James A. Perdue's life remains an enigma as far as knowing in what county of Georgia he was born, who his parents were, or when and how he died. Several assumptions can be made--based on the meager records of his life that have been found.

Records from 1838 through 1865 provide the only authentic information known about James A. Perdue. He was found in the following records: 1838 marriages, Bibb Co., Ga.; 1840, 1850 Houston Co. Censuses; 1858 Poor School Eligible Lists, Houston Co.; 1850 Land Deed Records, Houston Co., Ga.; 1841-1860 Tax Digests, Houston Co.; and 1863-65 Civil War Records.

James may have been living with his parents in Bibb County when he married Sarah Hall there. They had moved to Houston County by 1840, where all of their seven children were born between the years of 1841 and 1857.

The Houston County Tax Digests showed him living in the 11th District in 1841 and 1842. From 1843 through 1860, they lived in the Upper 5th District. In 1859 and 1860, they lived in the Busbayville area, 771st G. M. District, Upper 5th District. Evidently they lived in the same general area all of those years.

According to the tax digests, James never owned any land. He must have "share-cropped" as he was listed as a farmer in the census. In 1850, he and his family were living in the home with James A. Pringle. No relationship has been found between them. James Alger Pringle, b. 1819, S. C., was an attorney and farmer. Probably James and Sarah Perdue moved in Pringle's home shortly after Pringle's first wife, Patsy Ann Lofton-Pringle, died on 11 May 1847, at age 23. Patsy Ann, the youngest daughter of Joel and Nancy Lofton, had married Pringle on 1 Feb. 1845 in Houston County. On 3 June 1863, Pringle married the second time to Leonora E. Cooper, and they had one child before he died in August, 1864, leaving an estate consisting mainly of a law library and office furniture.

James and Sarah Perdue didn't live with Pringle very long because the 1853 tax records showed them living alone. By 1859, James is shown owning $250.00 worth of merchandise, which indicates that he had a small country store. One letter has been found that was addressed to Perdue, Georgia. Many times in those days, a small country store served as the post office for a community.

Although James and Sarah Perdue have not been found in the 1860 Houston County Census--or in any other county's census--the Houston County Tax Records show that he, indeed, was living in the Upper 5th District in 1860. He had five children between the ages of six and eighteen, $100.00 money, $250.00 merchandise, and $40.00 other property. He never appeared in any other tax record after 1860.

He probably is the James A. Perdue who enlisted in the Confederate Army in 1863, Macon, Georgia, was ill throughout the Civil War, and returned home in 1865. No later records have been located about him.

His wife, Sarah Hall, lived in Bibb County, Georgia, when they married. She may have been the daughter of John, b. 1786, N. C., and Mary Hall, who were living in Bibb County in the 1840's and the 1850's. Sarah was found in the 1850, 1870, and 1880 Houston County Censuses. She was listed in 1870 with four of her children and one grandchild. By 1880, at age 70, the only child still at home with her was Virginia. The last record of Sarah was a letter she wrote to her daughter in 1887, only twenty-seven days before she died on 21 May 1887. Virginia completed the letter after Sarah's death and stated that her mother was buried at Shiloh Cemetery, Houston County, Georgia.

A search of Shiloh Cemetery did not reveal her grave, although there were many unmarked graves. Shiloh Cemetery--an old, rambling cemetery--is located near Highway 41 in the woods with peach orchards near it. Although the church has been destroyed for many years, the church site and some of the graves are kept clean, while other graves have been neglected for years. The only known person found buried there was Thomas Philip Tucker, who served in the Civil War with Sarah's son, James E. Perdue. In a pension application affidavit for the widow of James E. Perdue, this T. P. Tucker stated that he had known James E. Perdue before he married and was with him at their discharge from the Confederate Army.

From evidence located, Sarah Hall Perdue had a struggle to provide for her family. During the Civil War, with three sons and possibly her husband in the Confederate Army, she was left alone with four children. The oldest son left at home was only fourteen years old.

James A. and Sarah Perdue's descendants became scattered--some remaining in Georgia and others moving to other states. Their oldest child, John A. W., had gone to Arkansas, married, enlisted and died in the Civil War. His only child was born and lived in Arkansas. James and Sarah's second child, James E., died soon after returning from the Civil War, and his only child settled in Tift County, Georgia. The oldest daughter, Theodocia, lived in Dodge County, Georgia. Her children settled in Dodge and Tift Counties, and in Louisiana. James and Sarah Perdue's third son, Blacksher, lived in Terrell County, Georgia, and in Alabama before settling in Texas. Only three of James and Sarah Perdue's children remained in Houston County. Virginia married in Houston County and then died there a few years afterward. James and Sarah's two youngest sons, Mitchell and Woodson, lived and died near their birthplace in Houston County, where most of their descendants still live.

In order to reconstruct the lives of James A. and Sarah Hall-Perdue, a chronological listing of data based on official records has been prepared. Additionally, the few documents that have been located will be included on the ensuing pages.

JAMES A. PERDUE'S DESCENDANTS

James A. Perdue and Sarah Hall-Perdue have 1282 descendants recorded in this book. Probably two or three-hundred descendants are not recorded because they could not be located or they failed to send their family information.

The Table on the following page shows James A. and Sarah Perdue have seven children, 39 grandchildren, 145 great-grandchildren, 331 great-great grandchildren, 507 great-great-great grandchildren, 227 great-great-great-great grandchildren, and 26 great-great-great-great-great grandchildren--for a total of 1,282 descendants that have been recorded.

The totals across the side of the Table show the number of descendants of each of James A. and Sarah Perdue's children. The totals at the bottom give the number of James A. and Sarah's children, grandchildren, great grandchildren, etc.

The Table also reveals some interesting information. Three of James and Sarah's children had only one child each (to live); Blacksher had the most children--seventeen; Mitchell (Mitch) had the most descendants; only two of the children--Blacksher and Theodocia--married twice; and, Blacksher was the only child to have decendants in the "G" category, which represents seven generations from James A. and Sarah Hall-Perdue.

It is quite a solemn and provocative thought to realize that those children in the "G" category (g-g-g-g-g grandchildren) have 128 ancestors' blood mingled in their veins--all of this taking place in a short span of approximately 162 years--from the time of James A. Perdue's birth to the 1980's.

Another sombering fact is if you look forward into the future (assuming each person had only two children) for 300 years, you would have 2,048 possible descendants!!

FOREWORD

We are very appreciative of all the assistance that we have received in compiling this information about John A. W. Perdue and his descendants. We have gone places that we would never have gone, and met people that we would never have met had we not done the research for this portion of the book.

We have enjoyed collecting information from sources close at hand and from distant places: from a forgotten out-of-print book that was learned about just by chance; from a doctor's book that just happened to be open at a certain section, under glass, in a battlefield museum; from census records; from service records after a name was found in a military company report; a word here, a phrase there—slowly the pieces were falling into place. And then a letter, written by John A. W. Perdue to his sister, Theodocia, in Georgia, was the most treasured find of all. The letter, still in its envelope addressed to Perdue's Post Office, Georgia, was found in a trunk that belonged to Carson Barnes. (How far do you think the same letter would go today? It had no street address, no box number, no route, no city, not even a zip code number! And no postage! It was sent postage due.) Cousin Carson Barnes, the son of Theodocia, to whom the letter was written, is no doubt known by most of the descendants of James A. and Sarah Perdue. How we appreciate the daughters of Carson Barnes, Lillian and Lucille, for sharing their findings with us!

We have really enjoyed putting this information together, and we have enjoyed meeting and becoming acquainted with those we did not already know. If we have contributed anything to add to the history of this family, our time, efforts and means have been rewarded. It has been aptly said, "The learning is in the searching."

ARNOLD JENNINGS PERDUE and MARIE KLIPPERT-PERDUE

Arnold, Marie, and Randy Perdue

I, ARNOLD JENNINGS PERDUE, was born at Doddridge, Miller County, Arkansas, August 15, 1925. Doddridge is about five miles north of the Arkansas-Louisiana state line and about nine miles east of the Arkansas-Texas state line. My paternal grandparents lived on a one hundred and sixty acre farm near Ida, Louisiana, about three miles south of the Louisiana-Arkansas state line. My maternal grandparents lived near Doddridge, Arkansas. A Dr. Glass attended my birth, which was at my grandfather's house on his farm. My mother's grandmother was a practicing midwife and baby doctor. I was a sick baby (jaundice), so my mother's mother and grandmother doctored me two or three days and nights before I was well. My grandfather's farm was located on the west side of the Sulphur and Red Rivers at the confluence of the Sulphur River with the Red River. My father owned a farm two miles north on the Sulphur River.

I started to school in 1931 at Cauthorn School, a two-roon, six-grade country school. The school grounds was land donated by my mother's great grandfather, Francis Marion Cauthorn, who was an early settler from Georgia to Miller County, Arkansas. Bright Star was a community near the Texas state line where the high school was located. We pupils were transported to school by bus over graded country roads. After two years of high school at Bright Star, my family moved to Ashdown in Little River County. After one year in school at Ashdown, my family moved in 1941 to Smackover, Union County, Arkansas. The Second World War was a disrupting force. In 1942, I went to Ida, Louisiana, to my father's old home place to live with Uncle John. There, I went to school at Ida and helped farm.

In October, 1943, I was inducted into the United States Navy. After boot training at San Diego, California, and two technical schools at Norman, Oklahoma, I was sent to Lake City, Florida, for flight training as an air crewman. I later served in patrol squadrons in South Carolina and Washington State. I was assigned to a patrol bombing squadron and went to the Pacific Theater. At Pearl Harbor, Midway and Johnston Island, the Squadron did sea patrol and anti-sub patrol. I completed high school in the Navy. I was discharged at Memphis, Tennessee, April 1, 1946.

I returned to Smackover, Arkansas, where my parents operated a small business. My two sisters were married and my younger brother, Charles, was at home. I went to work for Cross Oil and Refining Company April 20, 1946, and I am still employed with the same company as Manager of Engineering and Maintenance.

On February 14, 1948, Marie Klippert and I were married in her parents' home. We have three children. Randy is an electrical engineer, graduate of the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville, and is employed by Arkansas Power and Light Company at Little Rock. He is married and they have three children and live in Sherwood, North Little Rock. Lynn graduated from Southern Arkansas University with a B. A., and she is teaching Spanish and English at Lakeside High School in Hot Springs, Arkansas, and she is earning hours toward a Masters degree. Beth graduated from Southern Arkansas University with a B. A. in psychology.

My mother and father still live at Smackover, Arkansas.

I, JENNIE MARIE KLIPPERT-PERDUE, was born on a farm in southern Union Co., Arkansas, the seventh of twelve children. My dad was born and raised in Rochester, N. Y. He came South as a young man, met and married my country, farm-girl mother, and stayed in the country, determined never to live in or raise his children in the city. He was not a farmer, so had to finally acknowledge as much, and resort to other means of livelihood. He took correspondence courses and became a carpenter and electrician. Even so, income during my growing-up years was meager. Too, they were the years of the great depression. I finished high school just as the United States got into World War II. I wanted to go to college, but that was completely out of the question; so I got a job in a lawyer's office. There were only two attorneys in the small town of Smackover, Arkansas, and in a place like this, I was receptionist, secretary and typist. I didn't like this sort of work very much, so when a position was available for the Municipal Water Company and City of Smackover, I applied for and obtained that job. There, I was clerk, secretary and bookkeeper. I worked there until Arnold and I were married. I think my top pay while working for the lawyer (1943) was eight dollars a week. When I left the employment of the City in 1948 after five years, my combined salary from City and Water Company, five and one-half days a week, was one hundred and twenty-five dollars a month. I've never been permanently employed since.

Arnold and I started dating when he returned from serving in the United States Navy and married after two years. We have owned three different homes—two in Union County and one about two miles into Ouachita County. We have raised three children of which we are very proud. All three were high school honor graduates, obtained college degrees, and are now trying to "make their mark in the world."

Since being married I've been content to remain at home and attend to the duties of a homemaker. Because of the improved standard of living since World War II, we have not had difficulties while raising our family that I'm sure our parents and grandparents had in their time.

I am very thankful for my good husband, a great grandson of John A. W. Perdue.

Thus, begins the story of the family of one insignificant young man, the oldest child of a family of seven children, whose life on this earth was a short one—twenty-one years—; but it made such an impact on so many people. In fact, his short life was the means of their life—one son, twelve grandchildren, thirty-six great grandchildren, one hundred and four great-great grandchildren, more than one hundred and fifteen great-great-great grandchildren, and at least twenty-eight great-great-great-great grandchildren.

But he never did get to see his son, much less any of his grandchildren. He was killed in the Battle of Richmond, Ky.,* and now lies at rest in the Richmond Cemetery, Richmond, Ky.

But the family, even his wife and son, didn't know that he had been killed and was buried at Richmond. In fact, until the above letter was found in 1980 in a trunk of possessions of the sister to whom he was writing, the family wasn't sure that he even knew he had a son. The children of that son were always told their grandfather was in the Civil War, was wounded in battle, someone started home with him, but he died and was buried at Caddo Gap, which is near Mena, Arkansas. Our first indication that this information was not factual was when our son, Janik Randall Perdue, (a great-great grandson of John A. W. Perdue) was a student at the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville. He, with some other students, visited the Pea Ridge National Military Park and noted in a doctor's book on display that the doctor treated a John A. W. Perdue and he recovered. We didn't know how to go about obtaining information and records of Confederate soldiers until we got into a mini-course on Family Research. After more research, we obtained the personal records of John A. W. Perdue from the National Archives, Washington, D. C., and a book written by W. L. Gammage, Brigade Surgeon of the Fourth Arkansas Regiment, C. S. A., which is a history of the Fourth Arkansas Regiment from its first organization.

On August 16, 1861, at Miller's Springs, Lawrence County, Missouri, eight companies from southwest Arkansas arrived to be sworn in to the Confederacy. They were sworn in on August 17, 1861. John A. W. Perdue was in Company D, from Lafayette County under Captain Joseph C. Tyson, numbering seventy-three men and known as The Bright Star Rifles. The Regiment totaled six hundred and eighty-three men. On the 18th. day of August, they marched to Mount Vernon, Missouri. It was one of the "fightingest" and "marchingest" of the Arkansas regiments.

The major engagements that Pvt./Corp'l./Sgt. John A. W. Perdue's Company D took part in before he was killed were Pea Ridge,

ARNOLD JENNINGS PERDUE standing by Memorial Marker

This Memorial stands on the Battlefield of Richmond in Memory of the fallen Union and Confederate soldiers, Aug. 29-30, 1862. After burial for nearly six years in the Richmond Cemetery, the 241 Union dead were removed to Camp Nelson National Cemetery, Jessamine Co., Ky. The smaller number of Southern dead remain in the Richmond Cemetery.

TEARS AND LOVE FOR THE GREY."

--Jesse M. Dykes, Post 12
Richmond, 1950

At 9:00 a. m. of August 30, 1862, the Confederates fought the first engagement at Mt. Zion Church; then at White's Farm on toward Richmond, they fought another thirty-minute battle, and advanced toward the city which was two miles away. There, the Federals had set up another line of defense through the cemetery and out toward Lancaster Road. After a fierce battle, the Confederates were victorious and encamped for the night in the edge of Richmond. The following day (Sunday) the men rested and participated in religious services.

But our ancestor, JOHN A. W. PERDUE, had been mortally wounded, shot in the lungs, during the fierce battle on Saturday, August 30, 1862, and died Sunday, August 31, 1862, in a hospital. The hospitals were the courthouse, the Female Academy, and numerous private homes. Those killed, both Confederates and Federals, were buried in the Richmond Cemetery. Six years later, the Federal dead were removed to Camp Nelson National Cemetery thirty miles to the west at Perryville.

The Southern soldiers remain buried in Richmond Cemetery, Richmond, Kentucky. There is one small marker about 18" x 7" x 2" that identifies the 40' x 40' plot, inscribed "The Southern Dead." A larger individual marker is inscribed: "Erected in Memory of Jas. K. P. Scott, son of Andrew and M. D. Scott, born in Maury Co., Tennessee, April 9, 1835, died September 28, 1862, of a wound received in the Battle of Richmond August 29, 1862."

Killed 4; Wounded 14; Missing 00; Died of Wounds 3; Total 18.

The actual fruits of the victory may be summed up in a few words.

We lost only 84 killed on the field, and 365 wounded. We killed 402 men dead on the field, wounded over 1500, captured 5200, 9 cannon, about 15,000 stands of arms, over 100 wagons and other teams, together with about $7,000,000 worth of Quartermaster's, Commissaries, Ordnance, and Hospital stores. But the remote and probable advantages of the battle were far greater, for we broke the chains of despotism which bound Kentucky and her people to a hated and tyranous union; we drove the enemy almost out of the State, and unlocked the gates of a more than "golden treasury" to our people, if we consider the immence granaries, the thousands of fat bullocks and horses, the great abundance of meat and bread, and clothing, that has flowed into the South since then, and last, though not least, the universal gladness which filled every Southern heart when the telegraphic wires carried, as if "upon the wings of the wind," the glorious news that "Kentucky was at last about to be free."

Where every soldier did his duty, it would seem unfair to make distinctions, but there is one commander whose gallant conduct

JAMES MADISON "MATT" PERDUE

JAMES MADISON "MATT" PERDUE was born near the beginning of the War Between the States, after his father had gone to war; therefore, he never saw his father and his father never saw him. JOHN A. W. PERDUE, his father, was killed in the Battle of Richmond in August, 1862, when Madison was ten months old. It is rather ironic—(1) John A. W. Perdue joined with a company of men from Lafayette Co., Arkansas. Lafayette was later to be the name of his first grandchild; (2) he was killed in Madison Co., Kentucky—Madison being his son's name; and (3) when he was killed, his one year enlistment was over by two weeks—August 17.

The baby boy and his mother, Margaret, lived with his grandparents, the Hortmans, until she married Robert Spencer. He was a mysterious stranger in the community, and after a few years he disappeared. From then, Madison and his mother maintained a home and farmed until he married and had his family. Margaret lived with his family until she married Joe Taylor. With Mr. Taylor and his daughter, Artis, she had a good life until his death when she again lived with Madison and his family until her death.

James Madison Perdue was a man of high-standing in the community. He homesteaded one hundred and sixty acres of land, raised a large family, and died within a few miles from where he was born. As far as is known, he never traveled farther than one hundred and fifty miles from his birthplace. He was a mild-mannered, jovial person who enjoyed having people around him. He attended and served in the Bethsaida Baptist Church in Ida, Louisiana, and the following tribute was made to him at his death.

He met his death on his way home from a Fourth of July celebration at Ida. He was riding on a flat-bed truck with several other people when a wheel hit a pot-hole in the road and he was bounced off. His head hit the asphalt pavement and he died three hours later without regaining consciousness. (He fell at 4:00 p. m. and died at 7:00 p. m.)

Following is a tribute to him by the church:

"James Madison Perdue, born 10 Oct. 1861, Caddo Parish, Louisiana, died 4 July 1926, Caddo Parish, Louisiana, was elected Clerk of the Bethsaida Baptist Church, Ida, Louisiana, in July, 1923. He wrote his first church letter in July, 1923, and his last letter 12 June 1926.

"Whereas in His divine wisdom it has pleased Almighty God to take from us our beloved Brother J. M. Perdue, who was called to his rest on the 4th day of July of this present year, 1926. Therefore, be it resolved that it is the sense of this Church that in his death, we suffered loss that cannot be repaired, that his life was that of a most exemplary Christian and worthy to be emulated, that we extend to his bereaved family our deepest sympathy, father to the fatherless and a husband to the widow.

"Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our Church Book with minutes of today's proceedings and a copy rendered the family of our deceased Brother whose loss we mourn this the 13th. day of November, 1926."

GOSPER LAFAYETTE PERDUE

Uncle "Fate," Gosper Lafayette Perdue, was the oldest child of Grandpa Perdue. I remember him as an older man with a large family of grown children. He liked to hunt, and when he was younger, he was a "market hunter" and guide for sportsmen from Shreveport, La. My father was taught to hunt and was employed by him. I enjoyed hearing their stories about hunting on the lakes of north Caddo Parish in the early years of this century. Uncle "Fate" was an active man and a rather grandiose person. He at various times owned several farms. He, along with another brother and a brother-in-law, homesteaded one hundred and sixty acres each in Miller Co., Arkansas, in the early 1930's. This was one of the last homestead land in Arkansas.

After Aunt Annie Belle, his wife, died in 1941, he quit farming. During the Second World War, he worked in defense plants even though he was near retirement age. In his latter years, he lived in the home of his youngest son, Jim, until he went to a nursing home in Vivian, La. He died in a hospital in Shreveport, La., in 1975, at nearly 89 years of age.

ROSA "ROSIE" LEE PERDUE

Aunt "Rosie," Rosa Lee Perdue, ran away from school when she was thirteen or fourteen years of age and married a Tom Middleton. She soon learned that her husband and his father wanted her chiefly for a servant. When she finally strongly objected to their treatment of her, her husband left her down in Louisiana, went back to Ida, Louisiana, and told her father if he wanted her he could go get her. They got her.

Later she married William "Will" Calvin Cantrell and raised their family. When Uncle "Will" died, she and the children worked hard and kept a farm. When she married Henry Hawmon, she had one daughter at home and he had three daughters: Nellie, Madeline and Vergie "Bug." The step-daughter, Nellie, married, mothered 14 children--eleven of which are still living--and lives in Orange, Texas. Madeline drowned, but "Bug" remained as her daughter until Aunt "Rosie's" death. Therefore, "Bug's" family is included in this family history.

CHILDREN:

D-1 WILLIE LORENE HOFFMEISTER

D-2 FLOSSIE JEAN HOFFMEISTER

Aunt Lucy, Lucy Lemley Perdue, is an unassuming person of warmth and concern for others. It seems to me that she has changed but little in the more than fifty years of my remembrance. This is not to say that she is old; rather, that she is ageless. I remember that she, her husband and their family established a home and farm under less than ideal conditions. She kept flowers and walks around her home that was much appreciated by her visitors.

I am told that before her marriage she was a telephone operator. Now, in the early years of this century, this position was one of the few in the business world open to ladies. This office was referred to as "central." To make a call, one simply rang central, and central would connect you with the party to whom you wished to talk.

Aunt Lucy has adapted to change and yet remained the same. We wish for her the fulfillment of all her desires.

ROBERT ORAL PERDUE

Uncle Oral, Robert Oral Perdue, was the only one of Daddy's brothers who was in the service during the first World War. He didn't have to go to Europe. He did, however, "battle the flu epidemic" which took so many lives. There wasn't enough medical facilities, so Uncle Oral used his own remedy even though he worked at a hospital. He believes quinine, which he prescribed for himself, kept him from contracting the flu.

After the war, and when he was married, Uncle Oral worked in the oil fields. He, with his family, lived at Louann, Arkansas, while he worked in the oil field during the Smackover boom. Louann is about three miles northwest of Smackover.

He was a homesteader in the early 1930's. Later, he worked in defense plants during World War II.

Uncle Oral has always had good recall and excellent family information. He is a thoughtful and considerate man with a goodly amount of dry humor.

He, now a widower, lives with his oldest son, Clayton, on the family place. While he used to be active and was a deacon in the Bethsaida Baptist Church at Ida, La., he now doesn't go out much.

At the time of this writing, late July, 1983, Uncle Oral has sustained a fall and is now hospitalized with a broken hip. We hope for the best possible recovery for him.

JOHN CISRO PERDUE

Uncle John, John Cisro Perdue, is one of the persons of my early remembrance about the old Perdue home. He lived at home with Grandma Perdue and Aunt Lois. We would visit a lot on Sundays when both my Grandmother and her Mother, Grandma "Duck," were still living. Uncle John had a big touring car with white wall tires and a big temperature guage on the radiator cap. I enjoyed riding to Ida, Louisiana, with him.

Another thing, he would always have several big watermelons stashed away in a cool place in the summer when we visited. Uncle John drove a school bus for many years. He was drafted for service during World War II even though he was in his forties. This was before he and Aunt Lois were married. They now live on land adjacent to the old home place, one of several parcels of land that he acquired over the years.

Uncle John traveled and visited relatives quite a bit before they were married. They now visit their daughter, Judy, and her family who live in Kansas City. He says now at eighty-five years of age that he is going more places than ever before.

He has just undergone surgery from which he is recuperating very well.

ARTHUR JENNINGS PERDUE

My Daddy, Arthur Jennings Perdue, I like to think of as a link between pioneer days and the present. Having been born in 1900, he has lived through that period of time that has seen a greater portion of man's achievements.

While growing up on the farm, he learned and used many pioneering techniques, such as shingle making, hewing of timbers with a broadax, wagon repair, and some blacksmithing. He was also taught beekeeping by his father. The family owned and operated a large syrup mill powered by a horse, which they converted to an engine driven mill about 1916.

Daddy went to work in the oil fields about 1920. He worked in the El Dorado boom of 1922-1923. After he and my mother were married, he owned a farm. He enjoyed farming, beekeeping, and making syrup. The farm was sold in the early 1940's, and he returned to what he called "public work." This included work at a sawmill at Ashdown, Arkansas, and Henry H. Cross Refining Company at Smackover—the company for which I've worked since I returned from serving in the U. S. Navy. He and my mother operated a small business at Smackover until he went to work for a construction company. Daddy retired from this job in 1962. Since retiring, he has spent his time building hoop nets for local fishermen. The hoops that he made from selected oak were preferred by everyone. He has continued to keep bees. He liked to raise a big garden, and last, he has enjoyed hunting—especially deer hunting.

Now, at eighty-three years of age, Daddy spends more time reminiscing of past activities.

JAMES MARION PERDUE

Uncle Marion, James Marion Perdue, was the youngest son of Grandpa's children. He was in some ways a different person from his brothers. He was a little more jovial, more carefree. He liked baseball. As a young man he played with local ball clubs. When radio became prevalent, he enjoyed listening to broadcasts of ball games. Aunt Lois, his sister, said to me when I was learning to become an airplane pilot, "Arnold, if Marion were living, he would be right in there with you."

He enjoyed hunting and fishing. I recall a letter we received from him when he was hospitalized at the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota. He said from his window he could see the ducks and geese on the river and sloughs, and he would sure like to be out there hunting.

Uncle Marion was a truck farmer. He was a good one, too. He was noted for watermelons—both for ability to raise them and to have them ready for the market early. He owned a Model T "Huckster" truck with which he delivered produce. He also drove a school bus.

Uncle Marion lost a long battle with cancer at the age of thirty-five. As is always the case, his death left a void that couldn't be filled.

THEO DOCIA PERDUE

Aunt Docia, Theo Docia Perdue, moved as a young bride with her husband, Uncle Jess, to the oil fields in "Boomtown," Smackover, Arkansas. This was truly a "boom town" with all the temporary and rough elements normally associated with the oil fields of the time. If one can appreciate the word "temporary," then, a tent or a shotgun house for a dwelling will be understood. One of Aunt Docia's children was born in a tent on the Laney lease near Smackover, Ark. The Laney was a well known, high producing lease. There were numerous "camps" composed of tents and other temporary dwellings.

Aunt Docia lived in the oil fields and raised her family through Smackover's growing-up to become a quiet town with an oil industry. Then in the early 1950's, she moved to Golden Meadow, Louisiana, where Uncle Jess was superintendent of an oil company. They moved to Hosston near the old home at Ida, Louisiana, for retirement.

Aunt Docia now lives near a daughter, Billie, with an oil well in her back yard. She has been associated with oil wells since early adulthood.

She is a very calm and gracious person.

Aunt Pearl, Pearl May Perdue, lives in Orange, Texas, near her son, Donald. I have always remembered her and Uncle Joe, her husband, as living in Texas, and we would see them on special occasions or at vacation time.

Aunt Pearl is always a gentle person. She has typical characteristics of her brothers and sisters—a twinkle in her eye, easy going, and just enough independence to cause everyone to like her. Her family has been her life's work. Her children all reflect a job well done.

I hope Aunt Pearl will not be offended for this one little revelation: Uncle Joe's pet endearment for her was "Flapper."

James Madison, his wife, Mary Tallulah, and their son, Arthur, were at the cow pen milking the cow late in the afternoon. Lucy was in the kitchen, which was detached from the rest of the house. The house was made of logs and was the first one lived in by the family on the property. The kitchen built away from the house was the style of the time.

Docia and Pearl, who were small girls, were tending the baby in its cradle in the fireplace room. They were burning something in the fireplace and somehow scattered some fire, which caught the baby's bed clothing on fire. The little girls screamed and ran for help. Lucy was the first one there, picked the baby up, ran outside to a tub of water, and dipped the baby into it to put out the fire. The baby was burned so badly she died a few days later.

This account of the happening was given by Arthur, who, when they heard the girls scream, jumped over the gate at the cow pen and ran to see what was wrong. As he got near the house, he called back to his parents that something was on fire in the house. There was no damage to the house.

Aunt Lois, Annie Lois Perdue, being the youngest child of Grandpa and Grandma Perdue, is of all my aunts and uncles the one I remember as a young lady before her marriage. I recall visiting Grandma's home and Aunt Lois making lemonade for refreshment on a warm Sunday afternoon.

After her marriage to Uncle Charles, they lived for a few years on the old home place. They moved to California for a short period of time and lived near Uncle Charles's mother, who lived at Newport Beach. Aunt Lois recalled that Uncle Charles came in one day after he had been down at the beach and said that he had met a man digging for clams who introduced himself as James Cagney.

Aunt Lois and Uncle Charles have lived for many years now at Ida, Louisiana, on land they purchased next to the old home place. Aunt Lois raises and enjoys flowers. I asked my mother once if any of the children resembled Grandpa very much. She said that Aunt Lois perhaps exhibited more characteristics, although most of them have some: love of people, patience, and mild manners. Aunt Lois has all of these characteristics and more. She is a very gentle and kind person.

JAMES E. PERDUE

(Second Child of James A. and Sarah Hall-Perdue)

A-2 JAMES E. PERDUE, b. 1842, Houston Co., Ga.; d. 5 Aug. 1866, Houston Co., Ga.; m. 3 July 1859, Houston Co., Ga., to Martha Jane Kelley, daughter of William O. Kelley and Elizabeth Moore-Kelley. James E. and Martha Jane had three children: two girls died as babies; and one son, Jasper (Jap) Alexander Perdue.

JAMES E. PERDUE

James E. "Jim" Perdue was born in 1842, Houston County, Georgia, to James A. and Sarah Hall-Perdue. James E. Perdue's parents were living in Houston County when the 1840 and 1850 Georgia Censuses were taken. Also, James A. Perdue was listed continuously in the Houston County Tax Digests from 1840 through 1860. However, the death certificate of James E. Perdue's son, Jasper A. Perdue, stated that Jasper's father was born in Jones County, Georgia. Records in Jones County were searched, but no records of James A., James E., or Jasper Perdue were found.

It is sad that so little is known about James E. Perdue, who died young at the age of twenty-four. The chronological data on him was constructed with the meager documentary evidence found.

At the age of seventeen or eighteen, James E. Perdue was married in 1859 to Martha Jane Kelley in Houston County, Georgia. Her parents had moved between 1850 and 1858 to Houston County from Jones County. They probably met each other in Houston County.

They lived in Houston County when he enlisted in the Confederate Army. According to relatives, they had two daughters who died young with pneumonia. Later in 1861 they had a son born--Jasper Alexander Perdue. James E. Perdue enlisted in the Georgia State Troops in November, 1861, and was mustered out in April, 1862. Later, in May 1862, he enlisted in the Ga. Infantry, Confederate Army, where he served until his discharge in May, 1865. He evidently went back home to Houston County where he died in 1866. Records do not give any indication of illness so the cause of his death is unknown at this time.

In March, 1862, he wrote a letter to his sister, Theodocia Perdue. It was found in the trunk of her son, Carson Barnes. It must have been written while he was enlisted in Co. E., 7th Regt., Ga. State Troops, although in the letter no mention is made concerning where he was at that time. (See pp. 115, 117 for letter)

Living a short life, James E. Perdue died at the age of twenty-four. Most of his married life was spent in the Confederate Army. He enlisted when his son, Jasper, was a baby, and he lived only a little over a year after he was discharged from service.

Although his life span was cut short, he left behind him a legacy. His son, Jasper, grew up to become a highly respected man who was loved by those who knew him.

CHRONOLOGICAL DATA OF JAMES E. PERDUE

SYNOPSIS OF MRS. JAMES E. PERDUE'S LIFE

Martha Jane Kelley-Perdue (Owens) was born about 1842, Jones Co. Ga., to William O. and Elizabeth Moore-Kelley. In 1850, Jones Co. Census, she was eight years old. Her family moved to Houston Co. during the 1850's because William Kelley's children were listed in the 1858, Houston Co. Poor School records. She probably met James E. Perdue in Houston County, where they married in 1859. They may have moved to Jones Co. Ga., as their son's death certificate stated that he was born in 1861, Jones Co., Ga.

Her husband, James E. Perdue, joined the Confederate Army when their son, Jasper, was approximately six days old. James E. Perdue came home from the Civil War in 1865, and died in Houston Co., Ga., in 1866. No records have been located to determine where Martha Jane and her young son, Jasper, lived between 1866 and 1880. In 1880, she was living with her Uncle Miles Kelley in Jones County, Georgia. Her parents and family had moved to Louisiana and Arkansas in 1859, and she was the only child who remained in Georgia.

Martha Jane had moved back to live with relatives in Houston County when she married Jonathan P. Owens in 1881, in Houston County. She and Jonathan lived in Coweta County, Georgia, from 1892 until 1899, when he died. In 1905, she moved to Tift County, Ga., where she lived with her son, Jasper, until she died at age 73.

Mrs. Lillian Goodrum, an employee at the Agrirama, Tifton, Georgia, stated that her mother "laid Mrs. Owens out." In those days there were few funeral parlors and when someone died, a neighbor or good friend would "lay the deceased out." This meant preparing them for viewing and burial. They would bathe and dress the deceased. A board--sometimes a door was taken down and used--would be placed across two chairs and covered with a quilt and white sheet. The deceased would be "laid out" on it and covered with a white sheet. Martha Jane's son, Jasper, fixed a headstone for his mother's grave from fat "lightwood," and inscribed her birth and death dates on it. Relatives and friends remember Martha Jane as a remarkable lady.

Martha Jane's relatives from Jones County were intertwined with the Perdues in several ways. Evidence indicates that her father, William O. Kelley, was a brother to Sidwell, Miles, and Washington Kelley--the sons of Samuel "Sam" Kelley of Jones County, Georgia. Sidwell Kelley was the father of Franklin Madison Kelley, who married the sister of Jasper Perdue's wife; and Sidwell was also the father of Narcissa Kelley, who married James E. Perdue's brother, Philip Tess Woodson Perdue.

According to a legend that abounds among Kelley descendants, there were two or three Kelley brothers who came to America from Ireland. They sailed into the Columbia River, Columbia, South Carolina. One of the boys had a gristmill, blacksmith shop, sawmill, etc. He dammed up a tributary of the Columbia River for power to run the grist mill. During the Civil War, the Union Army destroyed everything he had. Two of the boys hid the horses and a wagon in the swamp, and when they could, they loaded up what furniture they could and moved to Jones County, Georgia. Some of the earliest Kelley men in Jones County were Sam, Randol, James, Joseph, and John Kelley.

JASPER ALEXANDER PERDUE'S home, which was originally constructed with logs, was donated to the Agrirama, Tifton, Georgia, by the Kelley relatives. Overseers at the Agrirama stated in 1981, that they had used the logs to construct another log cabin for the Agrirama, an early Georgia farm life village.

JASPER "JAP" ALEXANDER PERDUE

Much of the personal information about Jasper "Jap" Perdue and his wife, Martha, "Aunt Mat," Harvey-Perdue was learned through visits in 1981, with Kelley relatives in Florida and Georgia.

Mrs. Harvey Kelley (Georgia Ann Gray-Kelley), of Lake Wales, Florida, said that when they first married they lived in a house on Jap Perdue's land near Chula, Georgia. Harvey Kelley was the son of Franklin Madison Kelley, whose wife was a sister to Jap Perdue's wife.

Mrs. Harvey Kelley was born in 1895, and she was 86 years old in 1981. She was a small, spry, charming lady who seemed to have excellent health. She possessed a good memory of present and past events. She shopped, bought groceries, and kept house for her son, Owen Kelley, and herself.

She recalled that Jap Perdue always called Sidwell Kelley, "Uncle Sid." She didn't remember hearing exactly what the relationship was between Sidwell Kelley (her husband's grandfather) and Martha Jane Kelley-Perdue-Owens (Jap Perdue's mother), except that they were related. She had been told that Sidwell Kelley's wife was Ann Wilson. Sidwell was the father of Franklin Madison Kelley and of Narcissa Kelley, who married Phillip Tess Woodson Perdue. Mrs. Harvey Kelley recalled that Martha Jane had two brothers, and that one of them was named Joseph. She had heard Martha Jane say that she married Jonathan P. Owens to take care of his children by a former marriage! Martha Jane was described as a small woman, with black hair, who was always cheerful and full of energy.

In Jacksonville, Florida, Russell Kelley (son of Benjamin Franklin Kelley and grandson of Franklin Madison Kelley) supplied additional information about Jap and Mat Perdue. He remembered when his father and his family lived in the house with Jap and Mat to take care of them in their old age. Russell's job was to "look after" Jap Perdue. He recalled listening for hours as Jap related events in his life to him. He told Russell that the Kelley ancestors, two brothers, came to America from Ireland. One of the brothers was in the Merchant Marine and got passage on a ship. They came to Charleston, S. C., and from there to Jones Co.,Ga.

In Ty Ty, Georgia, Mrs. Clem Kelley, "Aunt Minnie," spoke fondly of Jap and Mat Perdue. Clem Kelley was a son of Franklin Madison Kelley. "Aunt Minnie," 80 years old in 1981, was an exuberant and interesting person, who shared family data and pictures. She lived alone in a spacious home that her son built for her in Ty Ty, Ga.

Clem Kelley died when their oldest child, Clifford Darrow, was eighteen years old, and their youngest child, Erie Eugenia, was eight years old. "Aunt Minnie" worked in a World War II factory to support her children. She found time to instill in her children a desire to become outstanding individuals. Many of her descendants live in the Tift and Colquitt County areas.

Seth Kelley, son of Benjamin Franklin Kelley, lived in Chula, Georgia, near Jasper Perdue's farm. Seth, having lived in the home with Jap and Mat Perdue, remembered them well. He stated that Jap was an outstanding person, "who meant what he said when he spoke!" He spoke sadly of how Jap and Mat had been invalids for many years before they died. Jasper's wife, Mat died in 1931, with an overdose of morphine. She had been in ill health and couldn't sleep. The doctor had been giving her morphine, and one night she took an overdose and fell asleep. When they couldn't wake her up, they got the doctor, who tried to walk her around and to give her coffee for several hours. Finally, they put her back to bed, and she died later that night.

Two years later at age 71, in 1933, Jasper Alexander Perdue, died at his home. His death certificate stated that the principal cause of death was an overdose of H.M.C. Contributary causes were listed as general bad health and injury to the spine of several years standing.

Seth Kelley said that they buried Jap and Mat at Leila Cemetery in Colquitt County, Georgia, because that was where Franklin Madison Kelley and his wife, Nancy Louizer Harvey-Kelley,were buried. Nancy and Mat were sisters and Franklin Madison Kelley and Jap Perdue had lived and worked together in Jones, Houston, and Tift Counties.

Leila Cemetery, in Colquitt Co. Ga., is a beautiful cemetery, with hundreds of elegant tombstones, and located behind the Leila Methodist Church. Jasper and Mat's graves are located almost in the center of the cemetery, and they are buried next to Franklin Madison Kelley and his wife, and other Kelley descendants.

A granddaughter of Franklin Madison Kelley, Florene Kelley Sumner (Mrs. Jake Sumner) of Chula, Ga., also remembered living in the home with Jap and Mat Perdue. She is the youngest child of Benjamin Franklin Kelley. She had many beautiful old pictures of the Kelley family.

A composite picture of Jap and Mat Perdue emerged from talking to those who had lived with them or who knew them. They were great Christian persons, who were benevolent neighbors and close friends to all who knew them. Although Jap and Mat had no children, they loved and cared for the Kelleys as if they had been their own children.

JASPER A. PERDUE'S LOG CABIN

The Daily Tifton Gazette, Monday, September 16, 1974

This 1876 log cabin is being moved to the Georgia Agrirama site by Reese Housemovers of Albany. The cabin was donated by Clarence Smith of Tifton and will eventually be placed on an access road leading to the tourist attraction. (Special Photo to The Gazette) Note: The picture would not reproduce.

Smith Donates Cabin To Georgia Agrirama

Clarence Smith of Tifton has donated an 1876 log cabin to the Georgia Agrirama, according to Dr. Frank P. King.

The cabin was built by an old fashioned 'house raisin' when Jasper A. Perdue bought a 10-acre plot of land in Northwest Tift County.

Perdue and a good friend, Ben Franklin Kelly, Sr., picked the spot for the cabin, cut and hewed the timbers for the foundation and then invited the neighbors to the 'house raisin', according to Seth Kelly, grandson of B. F. Kelly, Sr.

Perdue, a blacksmith and furniture maker, lived in the cabin with his wife until their deaths in the early thirties.

Before his death Perdue gave the cabin and plot of land to Ben Franklin Kelly, Jr. because the Kelly family had taken care of him and his wife in their later years.

Kelly and his family moved into the cabin in the early 1930's and later made some additions to the house. Although Kelly died in 1959, Mrs. Kelly lived there until her death in 1970.

One interesting feature of the house, although it could not be moved to the Agrirama site, was the mud chimney built when the cabin was constructed. According to Seth Kelly, the chimney took about a year to build because only one to one and one-half feet could be constructed at a time.

The builder had to wait for the mud to dry, usually for a week or 10 days, and then build up another foot or two. The chimney stood about 30 feet high.

Dr. King stated the cabin has been temporarily located near the village area, but upon completion of the access road, it will be moved.

"We hope to use it, and several other cabins, along the access road to decelerate our visitors thoughts out of the Twentieth Century and into the late 1800's," he said.

"The Agrirama is a state-wide project, dependent upon all Georgia citizens to help preserve our rural heritage. We certainly appreciate this donation that Mr.Clarence Smith has made. In addition to the log house, Mr. Smith has donated several interesting artifacts including a very old wooden-beam, two-horse turning plow.

The Georgia Agrirama, planned to open in 1976, will be a recreated wiregrass farm and village of the late 1800's carrying out day-to-day activities of that period.

OBITUARY OF MRS. JASPER A. PERDUE

Copied from obituary printed in the Tifton Gazette

MRS. JASPER A. PERDUE DEAD

On Saturday morning, June 13, 1931, at 11:00 o'clock at her home on Route Seven, the spirit of Mrs. Martha B. Perdue passed to the great beyond. She was one of the pioneer citizens of this section, having lived at the home place, which she and her husband settled, since 1887. She was spared by an all-wise and loving heavenly Father to bless the lives of those with whom she came in contact for more than the allotted three score and ten years, she being 87 years old when she died.

"Aunt Mat," as she was affectionately called by relatives and friends alike, was born near Eatonton, Ga., in Putnam County, May 16, 1844. She joined the Missionary Baptist Church in girlhood and later transferred her membership to Zion Hope Church in this community. May 3, 1885, she married Jasper A. Perdue, who still survives her. Theirs was a happy married life and they became well known for the quiet, simple, neighborly lives they lived, numbering their friends by their acquaintances.

Besides her grief-stricken husband, she is survived by one sister, Mrs. Emma Dupree of Headland, Ala.; three nephews, Ben, Harvey, and Clem Kelley, and two nieces, Mrs. Annie Griffin, of Omega, and Mrs. Jennie Robinson, of Zolfo Springs, Fla., besides a large number of more distant relatives.

Funeral services were conducted at the graveside in Leila Church Cemetery, Colquitt County, where most of her relatives are buried. Mr. T. S. Rigdon, who had known her since his childhood days, paid a beautiful tribute to her memory. Many beautiful flowers demonstrated the esteem in which this noble Christian woman was held by friends and relatives. Those from out-of-town attending the funeral included Mrs. J. W. Robinson and family, of Zolfo Springs, Fla.; Luke Kelley and wife and Pelham Kelley and little son, of West Palm Beach, Fla.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY MARTHA "MAT" PERDUE

In order to gain a better understanding of the lives of Jasper "Jap" A. Perdue and his wife, Martha "Aunt Mat" Perdue, copies of letters that "Aunt Mat" wrote are being reproduced.

Tifton, Ga., Jan. 29, 1906

Dear Sisie, Em, and Batie,

I was glad to recive Bs letter. It told me all was well. This leaves us all well but verry sad we recived news today that Mr. Kelley's (Franklin Madison Kelley) house, smoke house and syrup house was distroyed by fire last Wednesday night at 8:30 O'clock. He Mr Kelley wrote they saved only the beding and bed cloths. It was quite a shock to me untill I reflected & went to my God with it. Sisie, Em and all of you pray God that him & his children may take it for the best and not give up. God will be with us in prayers if we love and obey him. Now Sisie read this & you & brother Alt. go to Ems get together and pray each one of you to God for the family to be braced up. He said in his letter he was ruined, pray for such thorn to be removed. We can by the help of God do great things so get together and help Jasper and me pray for them. Ben & Mary (Benjamin Franklin Kelley and wife) went down there to see Ginnie married yesterday knowing nothing of the trouble they would find the family in. Don't know if she married or not. Mr. Kelley wrote that people was helping build back. Jasper will go round & see if any one will give any help here some will I feel sure. Jasper will help build as soon as he gets his renter moved in. Also help them to a barrel of syrup, can of lard & some meat. By the help of our Farther in heven we are able to help him some. Harvey (Franklin Madison Kelley's son) was going to Moultry after Lis when the house burned. Candy was here helping Ben move Jinnie, Clem, and Jesie (children of Franklin Madison Kelley)was the help he had to save what they saved. Think of it old feeble and poor. Pray dear sisters and brothers with all of your power for the upbuilding of the family. MRS. OWENS (Jasper's mother) is with us. She came the day Ben's babe was born, Dec. 23, 1905, and has been a source of help & pleasure. Hope you are all well. Write soon to your loving sister.

Mat. Perdue

P.S. It is another boy.

POSTCARD DATED FEB. 1, 1926 TO MARTHA DUPREE

Dear Martha, just a few lines. I was down very sick when I got your letter about your papa being so low under the promise that you'd let me hear again but I haven't had no hearing. I am getting Sarah Barnes to answer the letter as I am not able to write. I am up now and able to creep out to Mr. Barnes. I did wrong I reckon because the ground is wet here. I am up but Jasper is in feeble health. Earnest and his family are all well. Let me hear from you.

Aunt Mat

LETTER TO MARTHA DUPREE FROM "AUNT MAT" PERDUE, DATED 15 Feb., 1926

Tifton, Ga.
Feb. 15, 1926

Dear Martha,

I got your card and was not surprised but much grieved for you and your mama, but he's only paid the debt we've all got to pay sooner or later, but I'm one that's willing and ready to pay that debt, because I'm so feeble I'm no good to myself and to the world. I wrote to all of Nannie's (wife of Franklin Madison Kelley and "Aunt Mat's sister) children about the death. Ben, Jennie and Jessie are all living in Florida near Lakeland.

Have you still got the three children and how are they getting along? Jasper and myself are both very feeble.

What is your employment now? Do you know anything about Sissie and Alec and if so where are they now? I haven't heard from them since they went from here to Vienna. They wrote me from Vienna but when they left there I didn't know where to address him at.

I want to see you and your mama mighty bad. Ben's two oldest boys are at West Palm Beach in the fire department. His oldest girl is married- Nannie Lou. Also Jennie's oldest girl is married. Jennie and Nannie both is grandma, which both have a married daughter.

Did you receive my card in answer to yours that your papa was sick? Write to me as quick as you can and let me hear from you.

Love to all,
Aunt Mat

KELLEY FAMILY DATA

(Relatives of Mrs. James E. Perdue)

From letters found in a trunk that belonged to Edward Barnes (son of Theodocia Perdue-Barnes) in Tifton, Georgia, some new information has been learned about the parents and family of Mrs. James E. LETTER FROM JOSEPH B. KELLEY TO MARTHA JANE KELLEY-PERDUE-OWENS

June 23, 1880, Okolona, Clark County, Arkansas

Dear Sister, I got your letter day before yesterday, the first I have received in ten years. I was overjoyed in hearing from you. In answer to your questions regarding the family, I will give you the particulars as near as I can. FATHER died 28th of February 1873, from inflammation of the stomach. MA died 27th of November, 1876 of pneumonia, and I have had charge of the children ever since until last winter. I turned them over to JAMES. The children are all living so far as I know and are well. James married a Miss Mayo and has two children living--Lenora and Delany are their names. His oldest one is dead. SARAH married a man by the name of Weaver and he died in a short time afterwards and she has since married an Englishman by the name of Parker. She has one child which she calls Willie Ciceso, who is not married yet. He is living at Boughton. Was over to see me night before last and brought the letter from you. JINNIE is married to a man by the name of Barley and is living in the yard with me. She has one child. They call him Robert Lee. (LOURENNA, MELLISSA, MILES) and the twins (ALLEN and LAFAYETTE) are with James and getting along very well. They are living about 15 to 18 miles from me in Hampstead County. SARAH and JACKSON are both living in Columbia County. Jackson had three children living the last I heard from him about a month ago, and now to myself.

I was married on the 22nd of July 1869 to Miss Julia Elizabeth Chisolm and our first one, Valdivia Octavia, was born October 19, 1875, and our baby--we call him Robert Bruce--was born January 27, 1878. These are all the children I have had born to me since I've been married.

You requested to know how far and in what direction I live from Little Rock. I live about 85 miles southwest of Little Rock and ten miles north of Boughton on the line of the St. Louis Iron Mountain and Southern Railroad. I live about sixty miles from where SAM KELLEY lives and as soon as I get through working my crop, I am going to give them a call. MARTHA, you must try to get out here if you possibly can. It won't take more than $50.00 to bring you and JASPER (Perdue) out here. Save all the money you can and sell all that you can't conveniently bring and try to get here by the first of September as that is the time to make money here picking cotton. Get some one to find out what an Emigrant's ticket would cost from Macon to Little Rock. It will cost only about five dollars from Little Rock to this point and if you can't possibly raise the money, I will try to help you what you lack. Crops are good. I will make 50 bushels of corn per acre and if the seasons hold out, I will make a bale of cotton per acre. Crops are very good here at this time. Cotton where it has been worked is waist high. I have about 16 acres in cultivation, about 3½ in corn and about 12½ in cotton. The seasons have been very favorable this year. So far though, I am afraid we will have too much rain. This land requires but little rain and the soil in some places is over five feet deep and will last for a century. If I make a good crop I can't gather over half of it myself. I have had one or two good starts since I have married, but I have managed to get through with it in various ways which to borrow a scripture phrase. If I was to undertake to write it all the books in the world could not contain it and now I am forced to work on shares, but nevertheless if you want to come out here and will come, I will help you all I can and I believe I can raise the money. Give my best wishes to Uncle MILES and Aunt Martha. (Martha Jane was living with Miles Kelley in 1880, Jones Co., Ga.) Tell then to write to me and I will answer any and all letters. Tell Henry Kitchens I shall expect a letter from him as I have written him about three which never have been answered. Julia sends her best love to you and says she wants you to come out here and make this country your home. Tell the family connection that I remember them all with gratitude. Tell Uncle Miles that I would be glad he would move out to this country and see some natural land that will make three times as much as his will with fertilizers applied. Tell any and all that any information they want concerning this county, I will give it freely and truthfully and am willing to make an affidavit to what I say concerning it.

Write as soon as you get this and direct your letters to Okolona, Clark County, Arkansas and I will get them.

Your Devoted Brother,
Joseph B. Kelly

P. S. This leaves myself and family well at this time. Uncle Gosper Hortmans family (Gosper's daughter married John A. W.Perdue) were all well a few months ago. Aunt Polly, Nancy and Mary are all dead. William Smith that married SISTER ELIZABETH is also dead and Jack has got her little girl. She was named after her mother, Elizabeth.

Your Brother,
J. B. Kelly
To Martha Jane Perdue

P. S. (at bottom of page 2 of letter)
This is as fine a farming country as ever saw. You and Jasper can make from 25 to 30 dollars per month at most any kind of work and picking cotton, you can make even more. Write to me as soon as you get this and let me know what you can do and I will try to help you all I can.

In the letters Joseph B. Kelley wrote to Martha Jane Perdue and others in Georgia, he seemed anxious to have many of them move to Arkansas. In another letter dated 8 August 1880, he wrote Martha Jane another letter in which he said: "...When you hear from Jasper, let me know whether he wants to come out here or not Tell BLACKSHER, MITCHELL, and WOODSON (sons of James A. and Sarah Hall-Perdue) if they don't own land there to come out here as there is plenty of land here unoccupied at government prices and it will cost but little to get here. Write me whether Uncle Miles intends coming by public conveyance or by wagons, whether he intends moving or coming to look at the county. If he intends moving I can have the money ready and you can come with him. Write soon, this leaves us all well. Your brother, Joseph B. Kelley to Martha J. Perdue."

==========

Another brother, W. J. Kelley wrote to Martha Jane Perdue in 1895. He was living in Welcome, Arkansas.

31 July 1895
Welcome, Arkansas

Dear Sister:

I take pleasure in answering your kind and welcome letter which I received today and was glad to hear from you once more for I had not heard from you in so long that I thought you were dead or moved clear of this land. Us all up though not very well. Dear sister, I have had a great deal of trials since you heard from me in June, 1893. I lost my wife with the typhoid fever. Three of my children were sick with it at the same time and I came near losing a crop that year and it came cear breaking me up and I don't know whether I will ever get over it or not financially.

(Page 2 and 3 of this letterwere missing.)

Well, Martha, I recon you would like to know what I am doing for a house keeper. I married a second wife a while back, a widow lady by the name of Strickland. She has three children too with her. Martha, I was glad to hear that Uncle Miles was still living. I am going to write him. I would like to see him once more as he is THE OLDEST ONE OF FATHER'S BROTHERS. Dear sister, I would be the proudest in the world to see you. I could talk a week and not get tired. It has been so long since I saw you. Write as soon as you get this and tell me all about all the connections, where they are and what they are doing. Well, Martha, I will now tell about our crops. Corn is as good as one could wish, our cotton is not so good. We are having too much rain for cotton. Peas, potatoes, and cane look promising. You wrote to know where the rest of the children are. Joe (Joseph B.) P. O. is Okalona, Clark Co., Ark. James P.O. is Amity, Clark Co. Cicero is Boughton, Nevada. Well, sister I will have to close for this time. Write soon to your devoted brother.

As Ever,
W. J. Kelly

WILLIAM J. KELLEY

The above picture of William J. Kelley, called W. J., was found in family pictures that had belonged to Jasper "Jap" A. Perdue in Tift County, Georgia.

The letter on the preceding page was written by him in 1895 from Welcome, Arkansas, to his sister, Martha Jane Kelley-Perdue-Owens, in Tift County, Georgia.

FOREWORD

It was in 1980 that I started looking for the names of my ancestors and their living descendants. On Mother's Day of that year, My sister, Lucille, received a large family Bible with a family history to be completed. This was when we realized how little we knew about our grandparents, and that we knew nothing about anyone earlier.

Lucille opened Papa's (David Carson Albert Barnes) trunk that had not been opened since he died in 1953. There was an invaluable treasure of information in it. The oldest letter was written in 1862 from John A. W. Perdue to Theodocia Perdue-Barnes. A copy of the letter is in the chapter on John A. W. Perdue--on page 47. In the trunk there were many negatives and pictures. Some of the pictures had names and dates on them, but there were some that did not. Traveling and photography were his hobbies, and I inherited his love for the same hobbies.

On the last Saturday in October of 1980, we went to the annual John A. W. Perdue Reunion in Vivian, Louisiana. We found that the descendants--one in Georgia, one in Arkansas, one in Texas--of three brothers of our Grandmother, Theodocia Perdue-Barnes, were all working on their family history so we started pooling our information.

After my youngest son married in 1981, I decided to find as many cousins as I could. I had been a widow for seven years, and I could go where and when I wanted to go. I have taken many trips in the last three years. On the trip through Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, and South Carolina, I visited Eddie Barnes's children in Tifton, Georgia. Theykept talking about "Uncle Jap Perdue" that was a cousin, not an uncle. After doing some searching, I found that Theodocia's brother, James E. Perdue, had married in 1859 and had a son, Jasper Alexander, born in 1861 before he served in the Civil War. "Jap" had married and moved to Tifton, Georgia. Richard Barnes gave me a picture of James E. Perdue so that I could share it with all of you. You will find it in the chapter on James E. Perdue--on page 113.

I thank each one of you who has opened your home to me and who has shared information and pictures. Lillian, my sister, loves to travel and do research also, but her time is more limited than mine because she has her husband and children still at home.

---Lillian Barnes-Hope

LILLIAN MARIE BARNES-HOPE

I was born 11 January 1932, in Doddridge, Miller County, Arkansas. We moved to Ida, Louisiana, three years later. I went to school a year and half at Ida before we moved to Plain Dealing, Louisiana, where I finished my schooling. When I was eleven years old, my father led me to accept Christ as my Savior, and I joined the Baptist Church.

I met C. J. Hope and in 1947, we were married. He was a precious husband and a wonderful father. He was a quiet man and very dependable. He worked at the Air Reduction Oxygen Company from December, 1947, until his death in 1973. We moved to Shreveport, Louisiana in 1948, and we have lived here ever since.

We had four children: Mariea, b. 1948; Robert, b. 1951; Glynda, b. 1959; and Paul, b. 1961.

My children love to travel also. Mariea married an oilfield man and their son was born in Tehran, Iran. They lived in Saudi Arabia, Nigeria, and in the Canary Islands before making their home in Campti, Louisiana, where they opened a gun shop. Glynda married James Long who went into the Army one week later. They have lived in Massachusetts, Okinawa, and presently live in North Carolina. Their little girl was born in North Carolina. After Paul finished high school, he went to work for an offshore drilling company in the Gulf of Mexico. He is waiting for the opportunity to go overseas--and to see the world. He married Danna Stewart, and they had a son born in Shreveport, Louisiana. Robert is a bachelor. His only traveling is on vacations. He works for the State Civil Service in Shreveport, Louisiana.

I started working at Western Electric in 1969, and it has been my security since I became a widow. I have worked in shipping, receiving or central trucking since 1971. I love to drive my little fork lift.

My hobbies are doing special things for my children and grandchildren, traveling, crocheting, and making friends with my many cousins I am meeting since I started working on genealogy in 1980.

EMMA LUCILLE BARNES-COOK

On 30 September 1928, at Ida, Caddo Parish, Louisiana, I was born--the oldest child of David Carson and Ola Sharp-Barnes. Since my father liked to travel and to visit relatives, my first birthday found me in Georgia, where we were visiting my namesake, Aunt Emma Horton, and other relatives. I still have a lovely doll given to me by Aunt Emma, who had received the doll when she was twelve years old.

We moved from Ida, Louisiana, to Doddridge, Arkansas, about 1930. Later, my parents had two more daughters: Lillian, b. 1932; Mildred, b. 1933. I started to school at Cauthorn School, a one-room school with grades one through eight. School was open only part of the year due to lack of funds, so Papa moved back to Ida, Louisiana, where they had a better school system. Papa believed in getting a good education.

We visited our Texas relatives several times, and in the summer of 1937, we visited relatives in Georgia again. Then, in December of that year, I had a little brother born--George. In 1939, when I was in the fifth grade, we moved to Plain Dealing, Louisiana. I graduated from high school there in 1945. The following week, I began work with Southern Bell Telephone Company and Floyd worked with Convair Air Craft.

Our daughter, Denise, was born in 1955 and another daughter, Joyce, was born the next year. I enjoyed being a mother and yearned to quit work to be home with my children; however, expenses were too great for me to quit work. In November, 1961, we decided to move back to Plain Dealing, Louisiana, to farm.

We had two more girls born: Karla in 1962, and Tina in 1965. Meanwhile, we continued to farm until 1975. It became impossible for us to make a living farming. Fortunately, there was a small oil boom in this part of the country, and Floyd started pumping oil wells, which he continues to do.

My interest in genealogy really began about 1980 when we opened Papa's trunk and found a "gold mine" of treasures--pictures, negatives, records, and old letters from relatives. Through the information gleaned from things that Papa had in his trunk, we have come to really appreciate the "love" that Papa had for traveling and for his interest in keeping in touch with his relatives in several states.

L. THEODOCIA MANSON PERDUE & JOHN ALBERT BARNES

L. Theodocia Manson Perdue was born 30 January 1844, third child of James A. and Sarah Hall-Perdue. Pictures of her show that she was a very beautiful young lady. When she was 20 years old, she married John Thomas. They had one little girl, Emma Louisana, born 20 May 1865. The 1870 Census, Houston Co., Ga., shows Theodocia and Emma were living at home with Theodocia's Mother, Sarah. Emma says that her daddy went to the war and never came home.

On 12 Dec. 1876, Theodocia Perdue and John Albert Barnes were married in Crawford Co., Ga. Albert, b. 12 Sept. 1847, was the son of John Thomas Barnes and Rebecca King-Barnes. Albert was a brother to Sarah Barnes, Blacksher Perdue's first wife.

"JOHN ALBERT BARNES IS REMEMBERED AS AN INTELLIGENT MAN. HE READ A LOT AND KNEW A LOT. HE TOOK A GREAT INTEREST IN CHURCH WORK, AND AT ONE TIME, HE HELD A COUNTY OFFICE WITH THE CHURCH. IT IS SAID THAT HE COULD SIT AT A DESK WRITING, LISTEN TO ONE OF HIS CHILDREN RECITE HIS LESSON, CORRECT HIM IF HE MADE A MISTAKE, AND TALK TO SOMEONE ALL AT THE SAME TIME. THE BARNES FAMILY ORIGINALLY CAME FROM ENGLAND."

Albert and Theodocia moved to Clinton, Jones Co., Ga. They had three sons: Edward Randolph, born 10 Aug. 1877; David Carson Albert, born 29 Oct. 1878; and George Paul Alexander, born 8 July 1881. George Paul, called "Big Boy," died April 1887, three months before he was six years old. He died due to complications from measles. He was the first child to be buried in Orphan's Cemetery, Eastman, Dodge Co., Ga. A lock of long, curly hair is preserved in Emma Horton's old trunk, with a card that has the date of birth and age of death. It hangs from the cork in a tall bottle.

Albert and Theodocia opened their home to other young people. Albert's youngest brother, Clay Barnes, lived with them for a few years soon after they married, before he moved on west to Colorado, to work on the railroad. Clay married Netty Vangalder in 1890, and they had four children: John, b. 1893; Neomi, b. 1901; Grace, b. 1903; Florence, b. 1905. Clay homesteaded land in Madison Co., Arkansas.

Theodocia and Albert lived in Jones Co., Ga., when the 1880 Census was taken, but moved to Eastman, Dodge Co., Ga., before July, 1881. In 1887, they were back in Crawford Co., Ga., when Albert wrote to his brother, R. R., in La. about their parent's 50th Wedding Anniversary.

In 1895, Theodocia's sister, Virginia Holland, wrote to her to come to take care of her son, Robert C. Holland, after her death. Theodocia took Robert, age four, into her home and raised him like her own son. Virginia had been in bad health since her Mother's death.

In 1899, David Carson Barnes bought a home for his parents in Eastman, Dodge Co., Georgia. (Letter from Mary E. Barnes) In the 1900 Census, they were still living in Dodge Co., Ga., where Albert was farming. Carson paid taxes on the home through 1907. (Receipt). John Albert Barnes died 9 May 1903.

Emma had gotten married in 1899, to William H. (Bud) Horton. Theodocia lived near her or with her for the rest of her life. Theodocia traveled around visiting kin-folks a lot. By 1920, they were living in Rhine, Georgia.

L. Theodocia Manson Perdue-Barnes died 17 Mar. 1924, in Tifton, Ga., and she was buried in Orphans Cemetery, Eastman, Dodge Co., Ga. She was visiting her son, Edward, when she died.

"MUDDY (Theodocia) WAS A VERY NICE LOOKING WOMAN WHO DRESSED WELL. SHE WAS A CHEERFUL, OUT-GOING PERSON WITH A GREAT SENSE OF HUMOR. SHE HAD A BIG LAUGH AND WAS ALWAYS LAUGHING. SHE WAS NICE TO EVERYONE AND I NEVER HEARD HER SAY AN UNPLEASANT WORD. MAMA SAID SHE CAN'T REMEMBER HER SAYING AN UNPLEASANT WORD. SHE WAS ALWAYS SMILING OR THAT IS THE IMPRESSION ONE GOT. EVERYONE WHO KNEW HER LOVED HER."

Quote by:
SARA BARNES-CANTRELL

"Muddy" was known for her good cooking ability. She was always bringing great big tea-cakes to Edward's children—one to each child wrapped in a great big white napkin.

Emma Louisiana Thomas was born 20 May 1865, the daughter of Theodocia Perdue-Thomas and John Thomas. She looked very much like her mother when her mother was young—very pretty. Emma was 11 years old when her mother married John Albert Barnes.

On 26 December 1899, Emma married William Harris Horton. William was born 11 Sept. 1875. His parents were Robert and Mary Dawkins-Horton. Emma and William Harris (Bud) lived in Eastman and Rhine, Dodge Co., Georgia. They moved to Tift Co., Ga., in Jan. 1929.

They had one son, William David J. Horton, born 28 Jan. 1902. Bud was a farmer and a carpenter. He raised cotton, corn, hogs, hay, and cane for syrup. He seemed to have problems with his health. In all of the letters that he wrote to Carson Barnes, he was either sick or getting better. Their son, William David, married Jewel Cobia on 27 December 1920. Their first son died the same day that he was born. The second son, born in 1922, lived only two months.

The winter of 1922-1923 was very bad on Emma and all of her family. "Every one in the house was in bed sick. One of the brethren from Friendship Church happened to come and hauled a load of wood. When they came and found what a condition we were in and as good luck would have it--the next Sunday was preaching Sunday. They told the brethren how we were and they came and took our cane and made it up. (into syrup). We made a total of 71 gallons of syrup." (Letter from William David Horton to Carson Barnes)

William David Horton had five more children: Carl Eugene, Alver Harrell, Robert David, Evelyn Zonnie. All were living in Tifton, Georgia, in 1983. Nina Susana died the same day that she was born in 1926.

Emma and Bud came to Louisiana to visit Carson and Ola Barnes more than one time. On one of these trips in 1936, they all went to visit Blacksher Perdue and his family in Texas.

William Harris Horton died 30 January 1945, Tifton, Georgia. Emma Thomas-Horton died 8 January 1948. Both of them are buried at Oak Grove Cemetery, Tifton, Georgia.

==========

MARRIAGE OF EMMA THOMAS-BARNES

(From Newspaper, January 3, 1900)

"Will you let me tell about the wedding? On the 26th, first according to invitation, I drove over to old man Al Barnes's home. I found the people gathering. You know Miss Emma is pretty well known and her friends were gathering around. But when the preacher, Brother D. F. Miles, arrived--followed by the groom, Mr. William H. (Bud) Horton, and attendants and friends--there was not room in Uncle Al's little cottage home for all. So they marched out in the yard for the ceremony. Mr. Ed Barnes with Miss Leila Horton, Mr. Bascolm Bradford with Miss Tandy Fonds. The girls in spotless white, the gents in black, formed a picture which was admired by all. After the ceremony, we joined the procession that attended Bud home, and joined around delicious ham and turkey, bollowed by many other good things. All were done feasting except Grandma and the babies--who had got to the last course of cake--when crack, crack, went a whole pack of firecrackers. Some mischievous boys work, but it was too dark to see who. Then a trumpet set up a deep solemn note.

All eyes exchanged glances. The preachers looked grave. Was it Gabriel? The Bible says in the last day there will be marrying and giving in marriage.

"Great herds of sheep and cattle struck a stampede and began promenading around Uncle Bob Horton's house, and stranger still, every one had on a bell. Gabriel had about six attendants blowing lusty and sonorous notes when the guns began firing and the riddle was out. A whole "round up" of Bud's friends were giving him an old time serenade. After about fifteen minutes all came in and joined in singing. From a distance, I noticed Mr. Davis of Monroe County, brother of Mason Davis, and Miss Mary Perdue, cousin to the bride. Our congratulations and best wishes for the happy pair."

EDWARD RANDOLPH AND FLORENCE ESTELLA MCDANIEL-BARNES

50th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Edward Randolph Barnes, oldest child of John Albert and L. Theodocia Perdue-Barnes, was born 10 August 1877. Florence Estella McDaniel, wife of Edward Randolph Barnes, was born 11 Feb. 1889, the daughter of Wiley T. and H___G___ McDaniel. They lived next door to each other in Dodge County, Georgia.

"Eddie kinda waited for Stella to grow up. Once, when Stella was fourteen years old, she and Eddie were at the well getting a bucket of water and taking advantage of that time to talk a little, when her daddy went out and dashed the bucket of water on her. Stella got married when she was sixteen and Eddie was 28 years old.

Quote by: Sara Barnes Cantrell

Edward and Estella were married 20 September 1905. They made their first home on a farm near Moultrie, Georgia. He raised cotton, tobacco, and gathered turpentine from the long leaf pines on his farm.

About 1914, Eddie moved his family to Tifton, Georgia, and bought a farm next to Jasper Perdue's land. Eddie farmed and raised his children there.

The children went to school in Chula and Tifton, Georgia. Once, Sarah received a five dollar gold piece for winning 1st place in an essay contest. Her essay was published in the Chula School News.

WHY I GO TO SCHOOL

"I go to school for the development and training of my mind, for instruction, manners, and discipline, which will prepare me for usefulness in my future station. I go to school for the education that the schools give me.

"People call going to school getting an education, and in a way, it is. In another sense, it is just preparing you for an education, and equipping your mind with the tools with which you are going to learn and make your living in the future. It develops your mind and intellect, your understanding and appreciative qualities. Then, when you have finished school and started out in life, your real education has just begun..... Last of all, I will say that I go to school for my future welfare and my future benefit."

After Eddie's health failed him, he rented his farm to a sharecropper. Richard had been away in the Army and had come back to Tifton, Georgia, to help take care of his parents. Eddie had built a new house in the late 1940's. They lived in it the rest of their lives. Leonard was living in Tifton, and had his own business—small electric motors. Then, he had a generator shop. Dora moved back from Florida in 1971. Edward R. Barnes died 23 May 1965. Estella Barnes died 10 Feb. 1977. Both are buried in Oak Grove Cemetery, Tifton, Georgia.

After Stella's death, the homeplace was divided, and four of the children made their home there. Sara stayed in Tifton, Ga., until she moved to California to be near her only daughter, Sally June James-Richardson. Dora had a trailor, but she and her husband were caretakers for a very large mansion in Ocilla, Georgia, and they would come out to the homeplace to fish. Carson A. and Edith lived in a trailor on the corner lot. Their daughter, Gwendolyn, lives next door and has taken care of her father since Edith's death. Richard had a nice trailor overlooking a large pond, where he caught lots of fish. He died January, 1982. Leonard and Ernestine built them a home on their land. When he died, he was still making improvements on his land. After James Donald retired from the Army, he and Billie opened a business and made their home in Hartford, Alabama.

"Mama and papa were always very close and they had a good marriage. I don't remember ever hearing them quarrel."

Quote by:
Dora Barnes Cook

"My Father farmed for a living and hunted for intertainment. In the 1930's, it would be reasonable to say that he did both for a living, for we ate considerable fish and game in those lean years. It was all so good I didn't realize we were having hard times until I started studying about it in school. Fox hunting on horseback was his favorite sport until fences got to be too numerous. Then, he started walking. The Democrats were his political party and I never knew of him missing an election. Politics was one of his subjects for discussion.

"Mama must have been a typical housewife of the time. She never worked anywhere but at home with the exception of swapping work with the neighbors in tobacco season or on hog-butchering days. I think there were very few times when she did not have something growing in her garden. She canned nearly everything, even rabbits, when we had more than we could eat. Needlecraft was one of her favorite pastimes. She made trousers for me out of feed sacks. When I wore them, people would ask me where she bought such nice linen trousers. She made herself a dress for 20 cents, once, from flour sacks. It won second prize in a fashion contest and a one week seminar at the University of Georgia. Mama was my fishing partner, and we caught many meals during the afternoons of very pleasant ramblings in the woods to ponds or creeks."

DAVID CARSON ALBERT BARNES

(Third Child of L. Theodocia Manson Perdue-Barnes)

David Carson Albert Barnes was born 29 October 1878, in Clinton, Jones County, Georgia. He was the son of Theodocia Perdue-Barnes and John Albert Barnes. Not much is known about his young life, but as a young man, he wrote letters to his cousins in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, and he kept many of the replies in an old trunk that has traveled many, many miles. These letters are very dear to his children. They contain a wealth of information. The oldest and most valuable letter was written in 1862, during the Civil War, by John Addison Wilborn Perdue to his sister, Theodocia Perdue. A copy of this letter can be found in the John Addison Wilborn Perdue chapter of this book. Copies of the letters found in Carson's trunk have been shared with many families.

By 1906, Carson had a camera and took pictures, making many reprints. The numbers, 6 and 12, for reprints are on lots of the negatives. Some of the pictures have names on them, but many do not. Names were found on some of the copies in other homes. He shared his pictures with his relatives. Often, he included pictures in his letters that he wrote to relatives in many places. As research was done for this book, pictures that he had taken were found among family pictures in many cities in several states.

One letter dated 9 January 1898, said that Carson had bought his parents a home in Eastman, Dodge Co., Georgia. He kept tax receipts showing that he paid the taxes in 1904-05-06-07, after his father died.

In 1904, he paid tuition for Monroe College, Rhine, Georgia. 1906 found him an owner of Monroe Giradean Co., a furniture store in Abbeville, Georgia. In May and June 1908, he received letters addressed to Tifton, Georgia, cfo. J. A. Perdue (Jasper Perdue).

In 1909, he enrolled in the W. R. Ruebush Normal School of Music. He loved music. Throughout the years, he attended lots of singing conventions. He sang in a quartet at Merkel, Texas, and led singing at his church after he married and settled down.

He wrote for catalogs from several colleges of Osteopathy, but in the fall of 1910, he chose North Georgia Agricultural College. He took Latin, ancient history, algebra, English, and he had a grade average of 90%. He received honors as a Corporal in the Military Department. On 8 April 1911, Carson gave a speech on "Woman Suffer-age"-addressing it to, "MR. PRESIDENT, HONORABLE JUDGES, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN." Carson's children have the hand written copy of the speech with comments of the speakers who followed him with their speeches. He had to stop college after one year due to financial reasons.

In 1912, Carson started working full time as a carpenter, and he went to Hampton Springs, Florida, for a few months; then, he went to Atlanta, Georgia. In January 1913, he joined the Carpenter Union and paid his dues for many years. As he finished a job, he usually moved to another town. He always kept in touch with his family. After leaving Atlanta, Ga., he went to Chattanooga, Tenn. From there he went to Houston, Texas, and by Christmas, he had moved to Blanchard, La., to the home of R. R. Barnes, the brother of Carson's father. He was near James Madison Perdue's family (his first cousin) and he visited them while working in Shreveport, La. On ensuing pages is a picture of Carson catching a bus, on Highway 71 in front of the Perdue home, to go back to Shreveport, Louisiana.

In 1914, he found work in Nimrod, Texas, near his Uncle Blacksher Perdue, his mother's brother. One day, Carson and Blacksher went to Louisiana to surprise Madison Perdue. Carson slipped into the barn and borrowed the horse and buggy to go get Blacksher at the station. It was a great surprise to everyone and a warm welcome to Blacksher on his first visit to Ida, Louisiana.

Then, Carson worked awhile in Galveston, Texas, before coming back to Blanchard and Ida, Louisiana. In November, 1915, there are letters addressed to Signal Mt., and Isabella, Tenn. He was working in a copper mine. Then, he went to Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, to work for over a year.

When World War I started, Carson went to Savannah, Georgia, to work in the shipyards. Late 1919 found Carson traveling again—working here awhile and there awhile—always bringing a friendly message and lots of love from one family to another. He was always welcome because he had news from the Georgia Perdue families to the Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas families. He always found a job and worked, but never stayed long anywhere. Edna Perdue, Woodson Perdue's grand-daughter, Bonaire, Ga., said she remembered him coming to Bonaire, Georgia. The children would run out and yell, "Here comes Carson!" They loved to see him come, because he always had his trunk from which he gave them candy and goodies. He always had his camera and took pictures of them, all of which have been treasured through the years.

On October 4, 1919, Carson bought 40 acres of land in the river bottoms, 10 miles northwest of Plain Dealing, Louisiana, just across the river from Ida, Louisiana. The only thing wrong, it flooded often, but then he could go fishing or duck hunting. Later, levees were made and the land made a very good farm. It is still owned by Carson's children.

He completed the 32nd Degree on 29 April 1920, to become a Mason at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, Shreveport, Louisiana. October, November, and December 1920, found Carson in Fort Worth, Texas. J. R. and Beulah Perdue-Hardy were living in Merkel, Texas, and told him about the First Baptist Church starting a new building. By this time, Carson was very good with carpentry, especially with finish work, so he went to work for them. While there, Beulah introduced him to a very wonderful young lady, Macie Ola Sharp, who attended church regularly. Carson courted her as long as he worked in Merkel, and they wrote to each other after he left. Both of them kept their letters in their special places. Seven years later they got married. The letters were still in Carson's trunk, along with letters from girls in almost every city in which he had worked.

Ola had also kept all of her letters.

In the fall of 1922, Carson went back to Georgia to visit; then, he went to Shreveport, Louisiana, to work. One of the buildings which he helped to build was the Shrine Hospital for crippled children, and another was the Selber Building in downtown Shreveport, Louisiana.

He wrote to his mother often, and his records show that he always slipped a $5 or $10 or more in each letter. When Carson received the message that his mother was very ill, he made the long journey back to Georgia. On 17 March 1924, Theodocia Perdue-Barnes died and went to be with her husband and five year old son. Then, Carson had the task of writing all the kin folks in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, the sad news. He used stationery edged in black.

He went back to Louisiana and worked until the summer of 1926. Blacksher Perdue's son, William, lived in Tres Lagunas, New Mexico, and was doing well. They had homesteaded a lot of land and ran a little grocery store and post office. Carson and some of Blacksher's family went to visit in New Mexico. Carson stayed. He signed up to homestead 320 acres of land joining William's land. He built a nice little cabin (see picture on ensuing pages), but always went to Cousin Will and Keren's home to eat. The winter came and it got colder, the snow got deeper, and by summer, Carson decided that wasn't for him—so back to Louisiana he went.

He was still writing to Ola Sharp in Merkel, Texas. He was living in Ida, Louisiana. On 25 Dec. 1927, David Carson Albert Barnes and Macie Ola Sharp were married in Merkel, Texas. Ola was born 20 Nov. 1892, the daughter of George Mason and Annie Edwards-Sharp. They moved to Ida, Louisiana, to start a home at this late date in their life. He was 49, and she was 35. Their oldest child, Emma Lucille, was born 30 Sept. 1928. Carson bought some land in Miller, Co., Ark., and moved to Doddridge, Arkansas. They had two more little girls, Lillian Marie and Mildred Beatrice.

They lived less than a mile from Arthur and Helen Perdue, who helped Ola a lot. Times were very bad. Lillian had diptheria, farming was bad, and the depression of the thirties was worse; so, they moved back to Ida, Louisiana. Carson got a job working on the new high school. Everything looked better. On 18 Dec. 1937, Carson got an early Christmas present, a son. They named him George Albert Barnes.

Carson had a house on the land across the river, and he thought he would move there. He had a sharecropper farming the land. Ola had been raised in the city in West Texas--with lots of sand--and she didn't want any part of mud between her toes, so Carson bought 40 acres in the hills about five miles east of the farm. They lived there until they died.. Two of the children, Lucille and George, live there now. Lillian got married and moved to Shreveport, La., in 1948, and she still lives there. Mildred married and lived in San Diege, California, during the Korean War. Then, they moved to Savannah, Georgia. She and her family live in Columbia, S. C., now. Lucille married, moved to Amarillo, Texas, then to San Diego, California, and back to Louisiana in 1961.

Carson was always active in Baptist church work. He kept the program for the "Second Annual South Wide Organized Bible Conference," held in Hot Springs, Arkansas, in January, 1924, and again the next year in Atlanta, Georgia. While living in Shreveport, La., he attended Queensborough Baptist Church.

There was a little country church about four miles from his home in Plain Dealing, La., and Carson and Ola took their children there regularly. Soon, he became the song leader, and was later ordained as a deacon. He was a very respected leader, but some of the families started feuding and Carson felt it would be better for the church and his family if he would worship at another Church. Later, Oak Hill Baptist Church was started closer to his home, so Carson and Ola moved their membership there. Mildred and George were still living at home, and they also moved their membership. George has gone to this church ever since. Lucille and her family have attended the church ever since they moved back to Louisiana. Lucille has been church treasurer for a long time.

Carson was a very easy-going man--seldom getting angry. But when he did, he would say, "Ah Thunder!" Ola was always able to manage the home with whatever she had. She loved to cook, and would always go around humming a little tune. Carson had a nice, big garden and a very large watermelon patch. His goal each year was to have a ripe watermelon on the 4th of July. As far as anyone can remember, he did. He had cows for milk and meat, and a hog for pork. He also had chickens and tame rabbits. One night a bad wind took the top of the incubator off, almost drowning 100 little chicks about a week old. He scooped them up, dried them with cotton, and warmed them with a kerosene lamp. He saved 75 of them. In the cold evenings, Carson would read story books to his children in front of the fireplace. Carson and Ola were the most wonderful parents for which a child could dream. Carson died 19 June 1953, and his wife, ola, lived at the homeplace until she died 25 May 1974. Both are buried at Oak Hill Cemetery, formerly called Wise Cemetery, about a mile from their home place.

Oak Hill Baptist Church News

We at Oak Hill Church are saddened in heart at the passing of our beloved deacon, Mr. D. C. Barnes. God has called him. We can say, with many of his friends who knew him, that he was a noble Christian and deacon. One would always find him in his place when church was going on. It was indeed a blessing to him and a joy to serve the Master in any way that he could. For Bro. Barnes it was just passing on to the other side. Our hearts go out to his companion and the children and his many friends. May God's grace be sufficient for you in the dark hour.

They are not lost who find the light of sun and stars and God.

Rest In Peace

LOVING MEMORIES

Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.

The voice is mute and stilled the heart,
That loved us well and true,
Ah, bitter was the trial to part
From one so good as you.

You are not forgotten loved one
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.

LETTER FROM CARSON BARNES
to
WINNETT WINDHAM, ALBERT BARNES'S NIECE

Savannah, Georgia
1918

My Dear Cousin,

I have thought of you all so often, and I decided to write again and see if I can hear from you. All the rest of them have quit writing entirely. I hope you will not forget me, too. I know you have the cares of your home and family; therefore, I do not expect you to write so often as we use to when you were single, but I think a lot of you all and would be glad to hear from you occasionally if it is but a short letter. Tell me where all the family is and how they are getting along.

I believe I was at Kenmore, Ohio, or Cayahoga Falls one when I wrote you last. Well, I left Kenmore about the 25th of August and came to Savannah, Georgia. I stopped over in Washington, D. C. two days and took a hurried view of the most beautiful city of our nation. It was a treat to have the chance of visiting the Capitol of our country. I went in the Capitol Building, visited both Houses of Congress in session. It was very interesting. They were discussing the Manpower Bill at the time I was there. I also visited the old city of Georgetown, saw Washington's Headquarters. That is the building which was used for his headquarters during the Revolution. I also went to Robert E. Lee's old home. I sat in his old office chair at his desk in his private office room. It was the old Arlington home at Arlington, Va. It is a beautiful home overlooking the Potomac River across the Potomac. You have a good view of the Capitol from Lee's mansion.

I also visited the Smithsonian buildings which is the national museum. That is a wonder to go through those buildings and see the many things of interest—just anything you can think of and many, many things you never did think of, both ancient and modern. I could have easily have spent a week there and then not have seen all the sights of interest in Washington. I made a hurried visit to the Great Zoo. I can't begin to tell you about what is in there. Well, it was two very busy days for me and they slipped by only too quickly. I was pushed for time so could not tarry longer just then. I promised myself I would go back again when I have more time.

I came here and have been at work in the shipyards ever since I landed here. I will very likely stay here until the war stops unless Uncle Sam calls me off for other service. What is Hassell doing now? Has he been called or not?

Well, I spent a couple of days with Mother (Theodocia) and Sister in September. They are getting along very well now. Mama has been rite sick this summer past. She got down thinner than I have ever seen her. She was lighter when I was up there than she has been in thirty years. She got down to about 160 pounds. Her average has been 190 to 200 for a good many years, but she is picking up again now. I had a letter from them yesterday. She has got up to 166 again.

Eddie is still in Colquitt County, Ga., farming. He has his home in Tift County. He is going back to it this winter. He has had it rented out several years.

I bought me a little home in Tennessee, but I haven't been able to improve it yet. Where is Minnie Bayne and Ellen now, and how are their families? Tell me how Uncle and Aunty are and I would like to know how Uncle Henry is these days. I guess he is still in Shreveport at carpenter's trade.

Well, how are you all getting along with the "Spanish Flu?" We have an epidemic, I believe, pretty well all over the Nation. Savannah is having her share of it. I believe about 30 deaths has been about the highest toll for one day that I have noticed. The Board of Health reported 125 new cases Saturday. That was about the most extensive advance that it has made in any one day that I have noticed. All public gatherings have been forbidden such as religious services, theaters, movies, etc. Schools have all been closed two or three weeks. We haven't had a case in our boarding house yet. I am in hopes I will escape.

Well, I could chat half the night if I was with you, but I guess I had better ring off for this time. I will send a few Kodak views I have made at different places. Hoping to hear from you soon, I will close.

Love to you all from-

Your Cousin

D. C. BARNES

(This letter exemplifies the life of Carson Barnes. It has been included as an example of his extensive traveling, and also to show that in most of his correspondence, he included pictures that he had taken.)

FOREWORD

From my earliest recollection, my parents showed interest in ancestors and other relatives. My grandmother, Theodocia Ann Griggs-Hardy, left in her own handwriting, a list of Grandfather William Hardy's sisters and one brother, who they married, and where they lived. The brother, James Hardy, came to Texas in the 1860's. My father never ceased to search for him, or members of his family after the family moved to Texas. My Mother gave me names of her Mother's and Father's families. Her double first cousin, D. C. Barnes, gave me a list of Barnes relatives--five generations. By listening to Grandfather Perdue and others tell about "olden times," I became even more interested in history and the desire to learn more about my ancestors and how they fit in and coped with the periods in which they lived.

For years, every opportunity was spent in doing research in books, from family members, and from microfilm. Other interest hindered the research, so I could not follow through. During 1980-1981, from some of those mentioned above much has been learned about the Perdue family. How glad I am that younger ones have become interested and have continued the research until we know much more about the family!

I have been asked to write in chronological order the genealogy of the David Blacksher Hamilton Perdue branch of JAMES A. and SARAH HALL-PERDUE'S family and to write characterizations of each of his children. This is to be compiled in a book with the other branches. No disrespect is meant by using first names without a title, but it is done lovingly and to make it easier.

There may be errors even though I tried to be accurate. It is regrettable that every one did not get their family data in on time. I would liked to have had names and data on all generations.

GLADYS E. HARDY-CARTER

Gladys Ethel Hardy-Carter was born 22 June 1908, in Auburn, Lee County, Alabama, the youngest of six children born to James Rue and Beulah Rebecca Perdue-Hardy. She lived in that area the first seven years of her life. In September 1915, she started to school in Opelika, Lee County, Alabama. The following March, the family moved to Texas.

Gladys graduated from Anson High School and Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene, Texas. Graduate work was done at Hardin-Simmons University, McMurry College, Sul Ross University in Texas, and Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in California.

For twenty-three years, she taught in the public schools in Texas and Washington. These were not consecutive years as she quit several times to do Baptist Denominational work—such as field work for the Texas Baptist Training Union Department with headquarters in Dallas, Texas; Elementary Director in First Baptist Church, San Angelo, Texas; worked under the Baptist Home Mission Board with headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia—in Tampa, Florida; El Paso, Texas; Ketchikan, Alaska; a district in Oregon; Manhattan Baptist Church in New York City, New York.

It was while working in El Paso that she met Dr. Calvin Guy Carter, who was her boss. He was Superintendent of Missions in El Paso Baptist Association. It was some twenty-seven years later that they married on 25 March 1972. They had a little over ten happy years together when he passed away 30 May 1982. She continues to reside in the home they shared in Granbury, Texas.

For more than sixty-seven years, Dr. Carter was a Baptist minister. He served pastorates in Oklahoma and Texas before going as missionary to Peru in South America. When they had to return early because of the health of his first wife, Amelia, he served a church in Oklahoma and one in Arkansas before returning to Texas to serve in churches and associations. The last eleven years before retirement, he served as the first president of the Mexican Baptist Bible Institute now called Hispanic Baptist Theological Seminary in San Antonio, Texas.

DEDICATION

To the memory of those who went on before, who pioneered in many areas, who fought the good fight to make the lives we live today possible and to the ones who have come after who have continued to hold those ideals high.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

To David and Gervaise Perdue, Arnold and Marie Perdue, Lucile Barnes-Cook and Lillian Barnes-Hope, their father D. C. Barnes, my Mother— Beulah Perdue-Hardy, my Uncle Mitchel L. Perdue, my Grandfather, Blacksher Perdue, my Aunt Reba Perdue-Steffey, census records, family Bibles, and other family members who gave of their time and information to make this treatise possible, I owe much. Without the information they gave and their encouragement, I could not have accomplished this.

SAGA OF THE DAVID BLACKSHER HAMILTON PERDUE FAMILY

(Fourth Child of James A. and Sarah Hall Perdue)

On the 16th October 1846, in Houston Co. Ga., a third son was born to James A. and Sarah Hall Perdue. It was a proud day for the parents, two brothers—John and James E.—and a sister, Theodocia. The names chosen for the new baby were David Blacksher Hamilton Perdue. He was called Blacksher. The family Bible has two spellings for the name—Blacksher and Blackshear. I have chosen Blacksher.

The 1850 Census for Houston Co. Georgia listed the family:

JAMES A. PERDUE	28	Farmer	Born, Georgia
Sarah Perdue	27	Housewife	" "
(DBH Perdue said she was born in Virginia)
John Perdue	10		" "
James E. Perdue	8		" "
Theodocia	6		" "
Blacksher	4		" "
Mitchell	2		" "

Later two more children were added to the record—Virginia and Philip Tess Woodson Perdue.

Although undoubtably loving and caring, apparently James A. and Sarah Perdue were strict, disciplinary parents. Their children were expected to obey. They were taught to do the things necessary in those days to help their parents which later helped them in taking care of their own families. The boys were taught to do the outside work needed on the farm, such as caring for the animals, plowing, planting, and harvesting. The girls were taught cooking, preserving food, house cleaning, weaving, sewing, knitting, quilting, washing, ironing, and some outside chores such as taking care of the chickens and maybe milking. When the older boys were away at war, many other chores were left to the girls, but the primary thing was to prepare them to be good wives and mothers.

Schools lasted only a few months out of the year. Children were fortunate to be able to learn to read, to write and to learn simple arithmetic. Often girls were not permitted to attend school, especially the oldest who was often kept at home to help the mother and to care for younger children. However, it can be assumed that the seven Perdue children were given the advantage of the schools. Letters from John, Theodocia, Blacksher, and Virginia have been preserved, as well as a short one from their mother, to bear this out. These letters give a vivid picture of conditions during the periods in which they were living.

When Georgia seceded from the Union on the 19th Jan. 1861, it was not long until the men began to enlist. John, the oldest child, may have gone first, but the date is not available. James E. and Blacksher Perdue enlisted 31 May 1862, Griffin, Georgia, by Major J. R. Griffin. Blacksher, who would not be sixteen until the next 16th October, went in as a substitute for Thomas Jefferson Harris, for which he was paid $50.00. He became a Private in Co. G., 62nd. Regiment, Georgia Volunteer Cavalry, which later became Co. G., 8th. Reg., Ga. Vol. Cavalry. This Regiment later consolidated with other regiments in a North Carolina regiment. He served under Brig. Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, nephew of General Robert E. Lee. Blacksher served until the surrender at Appomattox, Virginia, on 9th April 1865. He was paroled at Raleigh, N. C., in April 1865.

In an interview for the Citizen-Free Press, Cisco, Texas, on 7 March 1935, Blacksher told about some of his experiences while serving in the Civil War. Soon after he enlisted, his regiment was encamped near Savannah, Georgia. Word was received that the Yankees were coming to burn the bridge on the Altamaha River near Savannah. His regiment was sent out to guard the bridge for about six weeks. The Yankees did not show. He had this to say:

"While waiting for the arrival of the enemy, I had an experience that caused me to swear off from eating rice. Rations ran out while we were guarding the bridge, and our quartermaster sent word to the Savannah headquarters to send us out something to eat. Pretty soon about a freight car load of rice was sent us, but no meat or anything to cook with it, not even salt. The soldiers lived on this diet--boiled rice, without grease or salt--for the entire time we were in camp. ...While we had plenty of rice, one gets fed up on the same thing when compelled to eat it day in and day out.

"But there were times later on when we did not even have rice. While I was practically weaned from rice as a diet, yet I have seen times during that war that I believe I would have relished a nice bowl of the cereal, especially with a little grease and salt. It was those times when the enemy was near, when the only food we had was roasting ears. This was brought in by foraging squads at night. While on guard duty, we carried a few roasting ears out with us, which we ate raw, and at times, I have been so hungry, that I ate all of the corn, then chewed the green cobs. Later our rations became so scarce that some of the soldiers subsisted on parched corn. But I came through that war all together, for which I am grateful."

In addition to the three Perdue sons, the father, James A. Perdue may have enlisted at Macon, Ga., 22 Sept. 1863. At least, there was a James A. Perdue who did. He was sick much of the year he was in service, as his record shows time was spent in the hospital and other places where he did not report for duty. It seems he must have died before the war was over.

Apparently, before or during the war, the family moved to Bibb County—in or near Macon, Georgia. It may have been mentioned that John wrote a letter while in service to his sister, Theodocia, and addressed it to her to Perdue Post Office, Georgia, where it was received. Blacksher told about his parents having a store.

According to the 1870 Census, the widow, Mrs. James A. Perdue-nee Sarah Hall, returned to Houston County from Macon, Bibb County, Georgia. The census gave this list in the household:

Sarah Hall Perdue	Age 58	Farmer	Born in Georgia
David Blacksher H. Perdue	21	"	" " "
Theodocia	24		" " "
Virginia	19		" " "
Philip Tess Woodson	11		" " "
Emma	5		" " "

(Emma was Theodocia's daughter.)

As one can see, Blacksher went back home after the war to help his Mother during the trying days of widowhood and the post war period. There were six to be cared for during those lean years.

On 30 March 1871, Blacksher married Sarah Matilda Barnes. Sarah's parents were John Thomas Barnes, born 14 August 1814, and Rebecca Carner King, born 13th October 1820. They were married 12th December 1837. They had seven girls and four boys. Sarah was the fourth girl and sixth child. John T.Barnes's parents were George Barnes in Lunenburg County, Virginia, and Elizabeth Ellis-Barnes, born in Virginia.

Theodocia Perdue married second Albert Barnes who was brother of Sarah Perdue.

Blacksher and Sarah Perdue moved near Dawson, Georgia, in Terrell County. The date is not known at this time. From letters written by Blacksher and Sarah (Sallie) to Theodocia and Albert Barnes, they had been in Terrell County for sometime, in the late 1870's. Although they were able to make a living, Blacksher expressed a desire to move to a more fertile land and to be nearer a better market for produce raised. However, they were there for several more years.

These letters from Sarah (Sallie) and Blacksher Perdue will tell something of the conditions at that time. The soil was almost depleted of its growing qualities after many years of use and little replacement. Crops were poor as a result.

One letter from Blacksher was dated 25th November 1877, Terrell County, Georgia, written to his sister and Sarah's brother—Theodocia and Albert Barnes: (He had a sense of humor.) (Edited)

"...I wish you were here to help us eat black birds. We and Mr. Bradley have 30 acres in ground peas and the birds are trying to eat them up. He shot them all last week to keep them out and next week is my time to shoot them. So if you will come we will give you a bird pie or stew whichever you like best.

"I am about done gathering. I will get 5 bales of cotton and corn enough. Cane enough to make syrup enough for me.

"The land arrangements that we spoke of, I feel thankful that you are willing to go in with me. I am willing to move most any where to get close to a good market, except the neighborhood where we left. We or I will have to depend a right smart on my next year's crop. I will have meat enough to do me next year if nothing happens. We get milk and butter about what we can eat. Our potato crop was tolerably good. We will have enough to last till spring if they don't rot.

"Albert, I wish you could come to see us. I did think I would come up there, but I shan't have the chance this fall. I want you to write as often as you can. I shall look forward for the best I know and by the last of next summer, I can tell better what I can do toward getting a place. If you have a place in view or what section you want to live, write to me where it is. I don't advise any man to move to this country. If a man has capital here, he can live and get along, but if he has none it is harder to get a start here than it is in Houston County. You can't sell any produce for money but cotton. Such as peas, fodder and syrup you have to barter at low price and pay high for what you get."

A letter to Theodocia's daughter, Emma, from Sarah Perdue was dated 29th April 1879. Beulah R. Perdue was six months old. She writes about her. (Edited)

"... I am getting stronger now. The rest are all well. My baby can crawl. She has not been sick a minute that I know of. I don't know whether you would think her as pretty as your Ma's babies or not (Edward and Carson Barnes), but everyone says she is a pretty baby. Thurston is a big boy (6 years old). He can begin to spell. Think we will send him to school a little this year. ..."

Another letter which was not dated or mailed immediately, was likely written in early August, 1879. Others written 18-19 August, 1879, were mailed with the first. They are from both Sarah and Blacksher. (Edited)

Sarah writes: Albert and Docia, it has been a long time since you wrote to us. We are getting on tolerably well. Blacksher is plowing cotton. Is over the corn. It looks very nice. His cotton got killed with frost. Had nearly all to plant over. His wheat is only tolerable. I have tolerable nice garden. Good many little chickens and I am looking for a calf every day, so you see we have a prospect of living if we can only keep well. The gin pond that was near this place and supposed to have caused sickness has been drained off to nothing but a nice little branch.

"We would be glad to have you visit us this year. I would go to see you if I could, but I am afraid we will never have the money to spare. We can make a living here very easy, but money is hard to get. One can't sell anything for money but cotton and can get very little for that...."

Blacksher wrote 18th August 1879, and expressed pleasure in receiving a letter from Albert and Docia dated 20 July 1879. He wrote of regret that they had suffered a drought and had poor prospects, but they seemed to have a fair crop. He writes:

"...I suppose there were 2 new bales of cotton carried to Dawson last week. One brought 21 cents, the other 20 cents. ... I am sorry to hear that your prospects of living is so glum. I know you will make it, for I have been right there myself, but do as I have, look to the One that all help comes from with an ounce of faith and you will be blest. I have suffered for three years. It seems sometime that I was compelled to give up, but I lived through it and now my darkness is all come to light. I am satisfied with the shift and changes of this world. The chance of food is plenty at present. I shall have 7 hogs to kill if nothing happens to them. I have nearly 4 acres in ground peas and that will fatten them. We will get plenty of milk and butter from now until next year this time if nothing happens to our cow. I wish we were closer to one another.

"I have been for two weeks working on a new meeting house in one half mile of our house. It is a Primitive Baptist. We will get it done in two more weeks, then the second Sunday and Saturday before in September, it will be constituted. Then come and go to meeting with us. I will leave this for Sallie to finish."

Then Sarah wrote explaining that she wrote earlier but did not have a stamp. She put it in a box and forgot it. She would send it with the other letters. She wrote:

"...I am in better health than I have had in three years. The children look well and hearty. Beulah has 3 teeth. Goes where she pleases in the house and out of doors. Can't walk, crawls. Thurston is going to school. Is spelling very well. He is learning slowly, but goes nearly two miles by himself to school.

"We are very sorry to hear the drought has served you so bad, but keep up the courage. We have failed, too, but we have always had bread. If we were on land of our own, we could and would loan a helping hand."

To Blacksher and Sarah Perdue were born five children. Three died young. (See family Charts) Two lived to maturity.

On 10 May 1881, Sarah gave birth to a girl. On 17th May, the family had taken Sarah a tray and returned to eat their meal. When they returned to get the tray, they found her dead. The baby lived until 16 June 1881, when she, too, was buried by her Mother in New Hope Cemetery near Dawson in Terrell County, Georgia. This was a trying time for Blacksher after loosing three babies and his beloved wife. He was left with Thurston, eight and a half, and Beulah, almost two and a half. Apparently some of the family of Sarah's Mother, the Kings, lived in the area. They no doubt helped take care of the children. Beulah remembered being near some aunts.

On the 17th November 1881, Blacksher married Easter Dicie Clark who was born 16 Aug. 1864, in Tennessee. Her parents were James and Martha Clark. She had gone to Georgia to live with a family named McClendon. She had two brothers, James and John, and two sisters, Matilda Clark who married George Walker and Annie Clark, who was born 16 Feb. 1871, who married Mr. Homer Hayes. After his death, she married Bob Richardson. Matilda Walker did not leave Alabama, but the others went to Texas prior to 1900. They lived at Atwell, Texas. James spent many years at Putnam. John Clark and sister, Annie Richarson, eventually moved with their families to Dallas, Texas, where they remained until their deaths at advanced ages.

Blacksher and Easter Perdue were parents of twelve children. (See family Chart) Two died in infancy. Arris Clinton died at 13 years and 8 months with peritonitis as the result of ruptured appendix. A fourth, George Dennis, died while in Camp Bowie at Fort Worth, Texas, during W. W. I, on 5 Dec. 1917. He was in Co. L., 144 Inf. U. S. He had measles and developed pneumonia from exposure. He was sleeping on a cot in a tent with too little covering or heat in a very cold winter. His brother-in-law, James R. Hardy, went to Fort Worth to check on him to see what he could do, but little could be done then. Dennis would have been twenty-four years old on the 22nd Jan. 1918.

The other eight children grew to maturity, married and reared thirty children. Together with Thurston's six and Beulah's four, that made forty grandchildren and six step-grandchildren for Blacksher. Four other grandchildren died in infancy. (See Chart) By 1982, there were many great, great, great grandchildren. Some names have been acquired, but many have not.

The two oldest boys, Johnnie and Willie, were born in Georgia, but the exact location is not known. Between July 1884, and September 1886, the family moved to Lee Co., Alabama, where all of the other boys were born. Little is known about the years spent in Alabama, except they continued to farm and to attend the Primitive Baptist Church when there were services. There, they lived neighbors to the William Hardy family, parents of James Rue Hardy who married Beulah Rebecca Perdue, 30 Nov. 1893.

Blacksher and his family were listed in the 1900 Lee County, Alabama Census as follows:

David B., b. Oct. 1847, Ga.
Easter, b. Aug. 1864, Tenn.
John, b. Apr. 1883, Ga.
Wm. R., b. Oct. 1884, Ga.
Homer W., b. Nov. 1888, Alabama
Mitchel, b. Oct. 1891, Ala.
Dennis, b. Feb. 1892, Ala.
Arris, b. Jan. 1899, Ala.
Darris, b. Jan. 1899, Ala.

Sometime in 1900, the Blacksher Perdue family moved to Texas near Atwell, where relatives already mentioned lived. Beulah remained in Alabama with her husband and young son, James Loyd. In letters from Blacksher to his sister, Theodocia, and others, they seemed to be prospering. They were able to take care of a large family and save money. In 1901 and 1903, two girls were born to bless the home.

The two older boys married. Johnnie married Della Columbia Williams on 2 Nov. 1902. Willie and Keren Bryan married 16 Oct.1904. That left six boys and the two girls at home in 1906. How did Blacksher and Easter clothe and feed ten, three meals daily with likely frequent company, on a small farm and save money?

Easter frequently told how much she prepared just for breakfast. Those boys were all big eaters. They seemed to have contests each morning to see how many biscuits, eggs, bacon, ham, or sausage they could eat. Easter measured into a big dough bowl filled with flour, two or more gallons of buttermilk, adding seasoning and mixing the flour to the correct consistency. She filled with large biscuits, several large pans which fit into the large oven of the wrought iron range, wood burning stove, and cooked dozens of biscuits. While those were cooking in the stove, meat and dozens of eggs were fried on top. Often these boys bragged about eating a dozen or more each of biscuits and eggs plus meat and homemade syrup, jam or jelly.

Most of their food was grown at home. Garden and orchard furnished fresh vegetables and fruits. Both were prepared for winter use—either dried, canned or buried. Sweet potatoes, turnips, cabbage, and maybe other things were buried in a special made hill. A space, in a sheltered place, was dug out and lined with dry hay. The food was put in and covered with hay, then with dirt. Efforts were made to keep it dry. As food was needed, it was dug out and the hole covered. Corn and sometimes wheat were grown to be ground into meal and flour. The surplus was sold or traded as more was raised for that purpose. Hogs furnished meat and lard. Chickens furnished meat and eggs. Cows furnished milk and butter and occasionally meat. Bees furnished honey, which was a substitute for sugar at times. Sorghum cane was grown for stock food and also to use the juice for molasses. Cotton was used to spin thread as well as for batting for quilts, but most was sold. With most food grown at home with little expense except hard work, and with a surplus raised to sell for other necessities, some money could be saved.

As the boys were growing up, when their work on the farm was completed, they often were hired by neighbors to work. What they earned gave them spending money and the ability to buy some of their necessities, which helped.

In a letter from Blacksher to his nephew, Carson Barnes, written from Atwell, Texas, 3rd August 1906, he had this to say:

"Three of the boys are going to Arithmetic School. They have been going a week today. It is to last a month. The boys are all well pleased with the school. ...

"It looks like I might made 25 bales of cotton. I reckon there will be somewhere between 500 and 600 bushels of corn. This is the sixth crop here now. ...It takes from $400 to $500 to run us a year."

During their stay at Atwell, Texas, Blacksher carried the mail, which added some cash to their income. He and his family remained at Atwell for a few years. He bought a farm some eighteen miles southwest of Cisco in Eastland County, where they remained until he retired about 1927, and moved to Cisco, Texas. Although the place was sold many years ago and both houses are gone, it and the area have a warm place in the heart of the writer and likely most of his older grandchildren.

Joining the farm about a quarter mile from where the home place was located, the Haskell Community School and Cemetery were located. Some of Blacksher's children and grandchildren went to school there. Several members of the family were buried in the cemetery.

In March 1916, the oldest daughter, Beulah, and James R. Hardy with their four children moved from Opelika, Alabama to Texas. By this time only the two youngest boys, Arren and Darris (Doll), and the two girls, Lelia and Reba, were at Blacksher's home. Thurston lived near Cisco, Texas. Willie lived north of Putnam. Homer lived in the little house on his father's farm. Mitchel lived near Breckenridge in Stephens County. Johnnie lived south of Abilene, Taylor County, in the Guion Community. Dennis, unmarried, worked for his brother, Mitchel. The Hardy family settled on a farm several miles from Blacksher. From time to time the sons and families moved from place to place.

Sometime about 1924, Blacksher was helping Homer build a car garage at the little house. He was putting shingles on the roof. Someway he fell on his back to the ground. He was put carefully to bed there. Apparently, no bones were broken, although he was badly bruised and suffered much. Few expected him to ever be out of bed again. Clean living and outdoor life served to help him, along with many prayers by family and friends. He recovered and lived about another twenty years.

About 1924, Homer and family moved to Cisco, Texas, where he bought a grocery store. That was something that he had always wanted to do. Blacksher and family moved to the "little" house. Johnnie and family moved to the "big" house. Blacksher raised his last crop about that time.

After Reba married Fred Steffey, Sr. and Lelia married Jim Wedgeworth, Blacksher bought the house next door to Reba at 512 East Seventh Street in Cisco, Texas. This was about 1927. Here they remained the rest of their lives.

There were ups and downs in their lives, but the nearness of a number of children and grandchildren made each day one of expectancy. Every day several came to visit a while. Easter always prepared more food than two could eat, as few days passed that they ate alone. Often a preacher friend and wife or others came by just before lunch time to be invited to eat.

Blacksher was a great walker. He often walked to town or out in the country several miles to visit the youngest son. As he got older he used a cane. As fast as he walked, it seemed he out walked that cane. Easter could not rest until he returned. She would often look out the window to watch for him.

Blacksher was quite active for his age, well passed ninety-five. He had pneumonia several times during his nineties but over came it.

Apparently a stroke with partial paralysis and complications took him to his Heavenly home on 29 Aug. 1943, at the age of ninety-six years, ten months and thirteen days. He was buried at Cisco, Texas.

Easter lived until 13 Mar. 1949, when she joined him at eighty-four years and almost seven months. Both were mourned by family and a host of friends. Lelia and Jim Wedgeworth moved in the house with Easter after Blacksher died. Jim also died and left Lelia with her daughter, her husband and family. While they were away from home, the house burned. Arren and Bell bought the lot which joined the lots they had purchased from Fred and Reba Steffey some years before.

By 1982, one by one all the children except the youngest have joined the parents. (See Charts) None so far lived as long as their parents. Beulah came the closest at eighty-one.

The Perdue name goes on with grandchildren and their families. So far as known by the writer, the grandchildren and their families have honored their heritage. Great monetary wealth has not come to many, although all have a comfortable living, but the heritage of a great name, honor, virtue, and integrity is rather to be chosen than great riches. The descendants of David Blacksher Hamilton Perdue have that asset to their credit. May no one ever bring dishonor to that name.

CHARACTERIZATIONS OF PERDUE FAMILY MEMBERS

It is difficult to separate most of the D. B. H. Perdue Family members to characterize them, as they were tied so closely together— especially husbands and wives. The writer has been asked to characterize certain ones, but none can be left out. Since there is no other way, I will have to draw on my own reminiscences. It has been my privilege to be able to spend time in each of the homes. There I was able to better understand and learn to love each Uncle and Aunt and their parents.

David Blacksher Perdue was a great man. Enough cannot be said to fully picure his strong Christian life and character. All his children and grandchildren loved and respected him as did all who knew him. He was of the old school. His word was respected without any doubt. He loved his family and every one. His door was always open to anyone. He was a helpful neighbor. He had great respect for women. To him their place was in the home to do a woman's work, although he was not adversed to helping in the kitchen when help was needed.

At least two things he thought women should not do—whistle and chop wood. His adage was "A whistling woman and a crowing hen was sure to come to some bad end." While carrying the mail out of Atwell in the early 1900's, he told about stopping more than once to chop wood for women he saw chopping. How many today would do that?

(After writing this, our postman came by one day while my husband, Guy Carter, was changing a tire on his car. He stopped and helped him finish changing it. How about that?)

As his parents before him, Blacksher was a loving, though strict, disciplinarian parent. He expected children to be obedient. The writer heard him tell this story when she was around seven years old. Friends, with a small girl, were visiting them. He greatly admired the attractive, little girl. He seemed to think she was about perfect. She would walk around the living room with her hands behind her, looking at all the pictures and objects often attractive to little ones, but she would never touch a thing. Many times I would emulate her, hoping he would see me and admire me. My parents also taught me not to bother things. Although I liked to whistle as I worked or played, I was very careful not to if he was near.

About 1914, Blacksher went to Opelika, Alabama, to visit Beulah, his oldest daughter, who was very ill. That was the first time I ever saw him. Apparently this was spring or summer time, as I seem to recall the older children were at home. However, it could have been only on Saturday. There was a trained nurse to take care of Beulah during the day. A Black woman came in after breakfast to clean up, to cook lunch and the evening meal. Usually most of the laundry was sent out to be washed, yet there were chores for all of us to do. While washing some clothes one day, the visiting Grandfather helped the girls with the washing, as well as other things. He endeared himself in their hearts.

When chores were done, he would often sit on the front porch and doze while one or more of the grandchildren combed and braided his hair and long whiskers, as long as they liked. He was a novelty to them. They regretted to see him leave to return to Texas.

Later, when the Hardy family moved to Texas in 1916, my association with my Grandfather continued. As I grew older and more understanding, my love and appreciation of him grew.

He worked hard most of the first 80 years of his life. When he moved into Cisco with few chores to do, he was miserable and restless much of the time. At first, there was a cow, chickens and a garden to attend to, but that did not take long. He would do the churning and some of the dish washing. In warm weather, he would sit on the front porch. Since the house was near the Texas and Pacific Railroad, he enjoyed watching the trains go by. He counted the cars of the long freight trains. There were many passenger trains in those days, too. Especially during the 1930's depression years, hundreds of hoboes "rode the rails." Jobs and money were scarce. Many railroad men turned their heads and let them ride. Even these were counted. At times he dozed. Other times he would hum or sing the sacred heart tunes which he learned in his youth. Often times he had visitors who came by for a chat. Some of the children and grandchildren came by each day.

The Grandparents seldom missed an opportunity to attend services of a Primitive Baptist Church. When they moved to Cisco there was no church, so they had to go to other communities to church. It was my privilege to drive for them several times. Sometimes others would take them to Sunday services or to the Association Meeting which lasted several days.

Then preachers were invited to the Perdue home for services on Saturday night. As the crowd grew, all the furniture was moved from the east room. Benches and chairs were moved in. Even then the crowd often overflowed to the porch and other rooms.

Blacksher would walk all over town the day or so before a service to invite people. The crowd grew. A house and lot were found which Blacksher bought to be renovated and made into a meeting house. Members did most of the work. As the church grew and was financially able, a building was bought which had been used by another church group. It was more adequate and not far from the Perdue home.

This was not the first time Blacksher had helped to provide a meeting house for his beloved church, as was told above. Until his health prevented he was faithful in attendance.

So much could be written about Blacksher that it could fill a book. How much did he owe to his beloved wives? As the saying goes, behind a successful man is one or more women. Besides his Mother, two women meant much to Blacksher.

Sarah Matilda Barnes and Blacksher were married for about ten years—1871-1881. She was the Mother of Thurston and Beulah who grew to maturity. Three babies died young. Little is known about Sarah or Sallie as she was called. Her letters quoted above show something of her character. She was a loving, concerned wife and mother with an abiding faith in God. Pictures show that she was a beautiful woman.

Beulah and Thurston both had an enlarged picture of their Mother. Thurston's picture was hung in one of the bed rooms. His wife, Maggie, told me that every time Blacksher visited them, that soon after greetings, he would go in and look at that picture, then return to sit with the group to visit.

It is not known just when Easter Dicie Clark came into Blacksher's life. Likely they were neighbors. On 17th Nov. 1881, Blacksher and Easter were married—a marriage which lasted more than sixty years. Although only a little more than seventeen years old, Easter made the companion and housewife needed to make the house a home. During the next twenty-two years, Easter presented Blacksher with ten boys and two girls. Moves were made from Georgia to Alabama, then to Texas with at least three or four moves in Texas.

Although given an opportunity to respond to their thoughts about their parents and grandparents, none of the grandchildren have done so. At this time, 1982, only one of Blacksher's children is living, Mrs. Reba Perdue-Steffey. She had this to say which expresses beautiful thoughts about her parents:

"My Father was a good, honest, hard-working man. Also a good Christian. My Mother was a hard working person who knew how to help take care of what was made. We had an orchard on the farm. Mother canned and dried fruit and made preserves. We always had a garden. Mother would can and dry vegetables. We always had food in the cellar. We had cows for milk and butter. We had chickens for eggs and to eat. We raised hogs for meat and lard. I started sewing by the time I was big enough to sit up at a machine. I learned to make our dresses. I also made shirts for the boys. Most of my brothers were grown and gone by the time I was big enough to do much, but I made shirts for my nephew, Malcome Perdue, who was my age."

Easter was a loving, concerned Mother and Grandmother. Although my step-grandmother, I never thought of her other than my own grandmother. So far as I could tell, she never showed any difference between me and her own beloved grandchildren.

When Lola Perdue-Owens and I were in the first grade at the Haskell Community School near the Grandparents, we would make a picture or something to give to Grandmother as we passed there enroute home. We would race to see who could get there first. Of course, Grandmother bragged on our handwork and acted very pleased to receive it.

Easter always looked forward to church meeting days and especially the Association Meetings which lasted several days. She always welcomed any of their church people and especially the preachers. There was always a place at the table for them or a bed if needed.

When they moved to town, her duties were much less, but she always had lovely flowers. In the spring and summer their front yard was full of blooms of various kinds of flowers. She spent some time each day with her flowers in the front yard and chickens in the back. She looked forward to the daily visits of some of the children and grandchildren.

Grandmother liked to play dominoes. When I have been with them, as soon as the evening meal was finished we would play. She was a good loser which seldom happened, but she got pleasure out of winning. She like to down two-three as the opponent could not score with the first play. I can still see her laughing as she made a good play or won. We enjoyed the game.

She, too, liked to sit on the front porch and count the train cars as they passed about a block away. In her seventies her sight improved and she did not need glasses at least for distance.

Some of my happiest days were spent with those two saints. To them, it was always a joy to see their children and grandchildren come. Some came daily. When those two passed from the picture, something of me did too. As they and others of the family left for that eternal home, it made Heaven a little sweeter. There should be no fear of death, as they will be there to greet us, if we have put our trust in Jesus.

DAVID THURSTON PERDUE was the oldest son, born in Georgia. He was very much like his father in many ways.

Thurston married a widow, Margaret Lee Free-Tipton about 1905. The date is not known. Maggie, as she was called, was an Eastland County native and grew up south of Cisco, Texas. She had three children when she and Thurston married— Andrew, Ethel and Lelia. At this time, 1982, Lelia survives. Thurston and Maggie had six children. (See Chart) Most of their married life was spent near Eastland, Texas.

Thurston was fond of children. I remember a few visits he made to our house when we moved to Texas. One visit especially is memorable,when he and Barnes—his oldest son—visited us on the Chesley Ranch north of Cisco. We spent one day on a river gathering pecans and had a picnic lunch. Loyd, my brother, made pictures. When Uncle Thurston went home, he bragged on the children of his sister, Beulah, so much that it was a wonder the cousins did not dislike them, but it seemed to make them want to see us. Aunt Maggie told me about it.

Thurston was strict with his children just as his forefathers had been. Especially was he strict about the girls dating. He likely thought about the times when Beulah was dating. He was always required to go with her and the date whether walking or riding.

For many years, Thurston was a trucker. I do not recall for sure how it happened, but sometime in the 1920's, he broke a leg. I think that it was a wreck in the truck. The leg did not seem to have been cared for properly, so one leg was shorter than the other which caused him to limp. He had a lift put on the shoe for that foot. A cobbler in Cisco did the work. Once in a while he would get on the train, go to Cisco, leave his shoe at the cobblers to be fixed, then go to visit his father. At the right time, he would go back to get the shoes and catch a train to return to Eastland. It was the 10th September 1940, when he fell under a train at Eastland and was killed. He was greatly missed.

For years Maggie lived alone. She moved to Ranger to live next door to her daughter, Mildred. When she could no longer walk due to arthritis and a broken hip, she moved to a nursing home. She died the 7th August, 1967. She would have been ninety-five on the 29th September, 1967. She was also missed.

BEULAH REBECCA PERDUE was the fourth of five children of her mother, Sarah Barnes-Perdue. She was the second to live to maturity. She was born in Terrell County, near Dawson, Georgia, on 3rd October 1878. In the late 1880's, she moved with her family to Lee County, Alabama. On 30th November 1893, she married James Rue Hardy, born 11th June 1873, Lee County, Alabama. They lost their first daughter and son, but a son and three daughters lived to maturity.

Beulah was only fifteen when she married, but she had already had lots of experiences which few have as young as she did. In the days when families and friends took care of the dead, Beulah was required to "lay out" a body when she was about nine years old. She got the body ready for burial. She was always ready to nurse the sick. When there was illness, people sent for "Miss" Beulah, as she was called. Many owe their lives to her nursing even after we moved to Texas in 1916.

In 1955, Beulah's children, Loyd and Gladys, visited relatives in Georgia and Alabama. Many who still remembered their parents, rolled out the "red carpet" for "Miss" Beulah's children.

Beulah had many talents. Cooking, sewing, and all kinds of handwork were among them. She was an excellent cook. Her husband often brought men home unexpectedly to eat. There was always plenty to eat.

Jim was a kind hearted man who often took in strangers. One time while still in Alabama, our family and several other families went to the home of Floyd Walker, Grandmother Perdue's nephew, for some holiday treat—likely around Thanksgiving or Christmas. We called him Uncle Floyd as he was Uncle to cousins of ours. We were spending one or more nights. Late one afternoon a stranger came and asked to spend the night in the barn as it was cold and rainy. The stranger was dark with a decided foreign accent. Everyone was suspicious of strangers and especially foreigners. Of course, they would not refuse the privilege of spending the night in the barn, but during the night the men took turns on watch. They feared the man would come to rob or maybe kill them.

My father talked to him and made friends. He discovered that he and an older brother had escaped from Turkey, but had to leave a sister. As soon as they could earn the money they brought her to America. For years she acted as an interpreter in Washington, D.C. The brothers had a store in Atlanta, Georgia, where they sold linens, notions, jewelry, and many things. Mac, as we learned his name, traveled over the country with a big pack on his back. How delighted we were to see him open that pack! He was invited to stay with us when he was in that area. Sometimes he would stay several days. People came there to buy things and to see his magic. Mother sometimes bought linens from him, but he always had gifts for her and often for the rest of the family. I still have a mirrow he gave me. We learned to love him like a member of the family. He came to see us just before we moved to Texas. He wept and promised to visit us in Texas. We heard from him a few times, but he never came.

Early in life Beulah developed arthritis which eventually left her very crippled in her hands and feet. She suffered much. Many things were tried to relieve her, but little helped. In spite of that, she continued for many years to do some cooking, sewing, and letter writing. Eventually letter writing was about all she could do. She enjoyed that and appreciated every letter and card she received. She sent lots of birthday, Christmas and other cards. She always sent a note with them. When she was in the hospital during her last illness, a couple came to visit, and said to me that they always looked forward to her Christmas card more than any, because of the note. When she passed away 2nd. November 1959, she was missed by many.

JOHNNIE MALCOME PERDUE. born 11th October 1882, Georgia, was the first born of Blacksher and Easter Clark-Perdue. He was married to Della Williams in Texas, 2nd. November 1902. She was born in Plattsburg. Miss., 20th Jan. 1880. Her parents were Moses P. Williams and Harriett M. Davis. Both Johnnie and Della were devoted to each other and good parents to their nine children. My first acquaintance with them was sometime in 1916 when Johnnie and his brother-in-law, Mr. Arthur Williams, came in his car to Grandfather Perdue's home to get our family to take us for a visit. How the six of us with our luggage and the two heavy built men were carried in that car, I do not recall, but we made it. Mr Williams lived south of Abilene a few miles, at Potosi, where he taught school. The next day we went on to the Guion Community, not far away, where we spent sometime with Uncle Johnnie. At that time, they had seven children: Malcome, 12; Thelma,11;M. D., 9; Ola, 7; Grace, 5; Kitty, 3; Fred, 1. (Myrl was born 9 August 1920, and Raymond,6 November 1921) We enjoyed our stay there. Aunt Della was a jolly person and a hard worker to take care of her family. Uncle Johnnie was a farmer who with the older children worked hard on the farm. He was a tender hearted, loving person. One day I started by a screen door and somehow snagged my leg on a nail. There is still a scar. It hurt and bled. Uncle Johnnie saw it and came to pet me and doctor it, which made me cry. I was not used to that. When we got hurt, we were expected to get up and go on. I always loved him dearly for that.

When it was time for us to leave, two covered wagons were prepared to take both families to Grandfathers. Enough food was taken to last several days of travel. I do not recall much about the trip after the first two days. The women and girls slept on the mattresses in the wagons. The men and boys slept on the ground under the wagons. I do recall that we went by Buffalo Gap. There were hills to climb. When we came to the hills, we all had to get out and walk except Mother, the drivers, and the youngest children. In my imagination, I can still see Aunt Della leading the way walking at a good pace. In that way, we saved the horses. Seemingly, we had good weather all the way which was some sixty to seventy-five miles. It is strange that I do not recall the rest of the trip.

WILLIAM RICHARD PERDUE, the second son born in Georgia on the 30th July 1884. He married Keren Bryan 16th October 1904, at Sabanna, Eastland County, Texas. She was born 31st December 1886, in Mina, Texas, the oldest child of Preston Brooks Bryan and Julia Ophlia Moss. On 3rd October 1905, their son, Richard, was born. He was adored by his parents, but on 27th January 1906, they lost him. He was buried at the Haskell Community Cemetery in Eastland County near the Perdue home place. Four girls and two boys were born later. (See Chart)

When Willie's sister, Beulah, was ill in Alabama, she was not improving very fast. Willie thought the best thing to do was to get her to Texas. He made it possible for the family to move to Texas, which they did in March 1916.

As the train carrying the family stopped at Putnam, Texas, on 25th March 1916, Jim Hardy recognized Jim Clark—brother of Easter Clark-Perdue. He was sitting on a bench with others to see the train arrive. Willie had planned to meet the train, but something caused him to be late. After waiting awhile, Jim hired a car to take the family the few miles out to the house. We met Willie about halfway there.

This was my first acquaintance with Uncle Willie, Aunt Keren, Beulah 9, Lola 6, Josie 4, and Bryon 2. Preston was born 6th May 1916, and Pauline 4 June 1919. One or more of Aunt Keren's brothers were usually there to work on the farm. That made fourteen or more at the table three times daily. There was always plenty of good, plain food. Mother was too weak to do much. The older children helped with the cooking, dish washing, house cleaning, washing, and other chores. The younger brought in wood and chips for the wood burning stoves and fire place. All this time Aunt Keren was a loving, cheerful person. All the time I have been with her, I have never seen her any other way.

Uncle Mitchel, Aunt Julia, Lillian, and Katherine were there the next morning when we awoke. They came sometime during the night. Later, Grandfather and Grandmother Perdue with the two youngest boys and the two girls came for a visit.

There was a time for work and a time to play. We all had chores to do. During the summer, we enjoyed rambling around over the pastures exploring. In the fall, we went around the area picking cotton. Uncle Willie planted a few acres of cotton in a plot for us. We gathered a bale or so from it. I have always been grateful to them for all they did for us. There are many happy memories from those days.

HOMER WOODSON PERDUE was born 25th October 1889, in Lee County, Alabama. On 22nd November 1908, he married Lillie Belle Allen who was born 4th January 1887, in Lee County, Alabama. Her parents were John Wilson and Martha Lavenia Taylor-Allen. In 1916, they lived in the little house on Grandfather Perdue's place. They worked part of the farm. They lived there until they moved to Cisco about 1924. Jessie was born 17th January 1911. Homer Leo was born 27th March 1915, and soon died. Carrie Belle was born 12th March 1918. (See Chart)

Both Uncle Homer and Aunt Lillie were jolly and a happy couple.

He was a big tease. During the spring or summer of 1916, he used a covered wagon with a bed to go to Willie Perdue's, north of Putnam. He took the Hardy family to the D. B. Perdue's home. Enroute he stopped at the Page home where we saw Mr. and Mrs. Page, their son, Tom, who married Lelia Tipton, and their families. All along the way, there was always a lot of laughter at Homer's jokes. As they neared the Perdue home, a large crowd of people were sitting or standing in the front yard. One rather large woman, wearing a big bonnet, was standing. Homer pointed her out as a Mexican woman. At that time, Texan were almost at war with Mexico, so Mexicans were not very popular, but someone to fear. It was soon discovered that the woman was Homer's beloved wife. He got a big laugh out of the joke. Anytime one was with Homer, there was always laughter.

MITCHEL LAFAYETTE PERDUE was born 3rd September 1891, Lee County, Alabama. He first married Julia Page, born 22nd April 1892, but the date of marriage is not known. She was the Mother of Lillian, born 6th April 1911, Callahan County, Texas, and Katherine, born 12th of January 1913, Cisco, Eastland County, Texas. On 15th January 1918, Julia died in Stephens County near Breckenridge. She was buried the 17th January 1918, in the Haskell Community Cemetery, Eastland. County. On 4th September 1921, Mitchel married Minnie Lee Russell, born 29th September 1890. They had over fifty happy years together.

After more than twenty-five years as Chief of Police at Cisco, Mitchel retired to his farm southwest of Cisco. For a number of years, he enjoyed doing something he had always wanted to do—raise registered hereford cows. He also had a large orchard and garden. He sold and gave away lots of produce for some time.

Mitchel was the one to whom all the family looked. He never gave advice or council unasked for, but was able to comfort many when help was needed. He has been greatly missed. Minnie was a source of help and comfort to Mitchel as well as to many others. I always enjoyed visits with them. Although Minnie had no children of her own, she raised nephews and a niece—children of deceased sisters. One, Lola Johnson-Heath came to her quite young. She and Uncle Mitchel became parents to her. At this time Minnie is in a nursing home at Baird. On September 29th, she observed her ninety-second birthday.

ARREN H. PERDUE was born 3rd July 1896, Lee County, Alabama. On the 18th October 1925, in Brown County, Texas, he married Artie Bell Combes, born 2nd September 1909, in Eastland County, Texas. They had forty years and one month of happiness before Arren was taken away on 18th December 1965. They had three children: Dicie May, born 29th March 1928; Maudie, born 8th January 1932; Marvin, born 20 May 1934. All were born northeast of Cisco in Eastland County, Texas.

Arren and Bell lived on the farm northeast of Cisco which Bell inherited from her parents. In early 1940's, they bought the house at 510 East Seventh Street—next door to his parents—from the Fred Steffeys. Bell continues to live there.

DARRIS BENTON PERDUE was born a twin on 15th January 1899, in Lee County, Alabama. His twin, Arris Clinton, died 30th September 1912. When Darris was a baby, he had lovely curly hair and looked so much like a doll that his Mother called him "Doll." That name stuck the rest of his life. Most people did not know his real name. About 1920, Doll married Eunice Shankle, born 11 April 1904, daughter of Cal Shankle and Bell Russell, who was a sister to Minnie Russell-Perdue. Three children were born to them: Irma Lee, born 27th December 1921, at Cisco, Eastland County, Texas; twins Darthey and Darris, born 10th May 1923, south of Nimrod in Eastland County, Texas.

For awhile in the early 1940's, Doll and family lived in New Mexico in the Tres Lagunas area. They returned to Eastland County. Eventually they bought land on Highway 80 between Cisco and Eastland. Here they remained. Eunice lives there today. Darthey and her husband live near her.

LELIA ARIEN (As spelled in the family Bible) PERDUE was born the 21st October 1901, in Eastland, Texas. She married James Wedgeworth in the late 1920's. The writer does not have data on the family. They had one daughter, Irene, who married Coy Marcum. They had a boy and two girls.

Lelia loved children. As she was growing up and later, if any children were around, she was usually taking care of them. She was a hard worker all her life. She always had a big garden and did a lot of canning to preserve food for the family. She has been missed.

REBA BRITTON PERDUE was born 13th August 1903, in Eastland County, Texas. On 1st May 1926, she married Fred A. Steffey, Sr., who was born 31st July 1886. For years they lived at 510 East Seventh Street next door to her parents where their four children were born. Eventually, they bought a ranch north of Cisco a few miles. Fred worked at the Post Office. After Fred's death, Reba sold the place and moved to 800 West Eighth Street in Cisco, Texas.

During the first years of marriage, Reba kept busy with her children and three step-children. Fred was an active Mason. Reba became active in the Eastern Star. One time some boys ran away from the Masonic Home for children. They were caught in Cisco. Fred was contacted. They took the boys, fed them and kept them until some one from the home could come for them. From that experience, they got the idea of getting several of the boys to spend a week or so with them during the summer. They did that for several years.

During that time, they gave the boys chores around the place to do, but they also took the boys fishing, picnicing and by other means showed them a good time.

As the children grew up and left home, Reba had more time to socialize and to be more active in her church. She does a lot of quilting and other handwork. Today, she is the only one of D. B. Perdue's children to be living.

MITCHELL WILLIAM THOMAS PERDUE

(Fifth Child of James A. and Sarah Hall-Perdue)

A-5 MITCHELL WILLIAM THOMAS PERDUE, b. Dec. 1848, Houston Co., Ga.; d. 1921, Bonaire, Houston Co., Ga.; m. 3 Jan. 1869, Houston, Co., Ga., to Sarah A. Elizabeth Pitts, b. ca 1843-1846, d. 11 Aug. 1903. Mitchell and Sarah are buried in the Pitts Family Cemetery near Bonaire, Houston Co., Ga. They had eight children.

"Mitch"

(Fifth child of James A. and Sarah Hall-Perdue)

Mitchell W. T. Perdue, called "Mitch," was born in December, 1848, to James A. and Sarah Hall-Perdue, who were living in the 10th District of Houston County, Georgia. James and Sarah already had four children who were born between 1840 and 1848.

Mitch was raised in Houston County in the Heard Community. He attended "The Poor School." During those years before the Civil War, there were few private schools, and many children, ages 6-18, were eligible to attend The Poor School, which was similar to the public schools of today.

When the Civil War began, Mitch was only thirteen or fourteen years old; therefore, he was too young to enlist in the Confederate Army. He most likely kept the family together because his three older brothers--John A. W., James E., and David Blacksher--were away from home serving in the Confederate Army. It is also believed that Mitch's father served in the Civil War, so it is very probable that Mitch was the only person left at home to farm and to take care of his mother, his two sisters, and younger brother.

After the Civil War ended, Mitch continued to live at home until January, 1869, at which time he married Sarah A. E. Pitts in Houston County. She was 23 and he was 21 years old at that time.

Mitch learned to be a "miller," and worked for several years at the Houston Factory where he operated a grist mill. From 1869 until 1900, Mitch and Sarah continued to live in Houston County. He may have moved to Bibb County, Georgia, sometime before 1900, because his wife and five children were listed in the 1900 Bibb County Census; yet, he was listed living alone in the 1900 Houston County Census. He may have been working at a grist mill in Houston County and had not moved his family back there when the 1900 census was taken.

Mitch's wife, Sarah, died 11 Aug. 1903, just two months after they had lost their daughter, Lula, who died in June of that year. Both of them were buried in the "Pitts Family Cemetery" located between Highway 96 and Bonaire, Houston County, Georgia.

In 1978, part of Sarah's tombstone was dug up when a road was being contructed in a new housing area. The Perdues were contacted and a visit was made to the site. No evidence of other graves was visible, but it can be assumed that the location of the Pitts Family Cemetery was there.

From at least 1900 until he died in 1921, Mitch operated the Thompson Mill Pond Grist Mill near Bonaire, Georgia. The water from Beaver Creek was used to run the grist mill. Mitch had two mill rocks which were used to grind corn into meal and wheat into flour. People came from many areas of the county for Mitch to grind their corn and wheat. Very few persons during those days were able to pay cash; therefore, they paid him with ground meal--one peck out of every four pecks that he ground for them.

Between 1910 and 1921, he "batched," worked at the grist mill, and visited his children and relatives. Mitch's granddaughter, Beatrice Perdue-Williams, remembers when Mitch would board a train in Bonaire and ride to Macon, Georgia, to visit her father, Charley Perdue. He would stay a week or two during each visit. Beatrice described "Grandpa Mitch" as a short, stocky, red-faced man, with gray hair, who had a lot of wit and charm. He also kept in close contact with his younger brother, Woodson Perdue, who lived near him in Bonaire, Georgia.

During the years that he operated the grist mill at Thompson's Mill Pond, he lived in a one-room house by himself, but he ate his meals with Martha and Robert Walker, who farmed the Thompson place near Bonaire, Georgia. One morning in 1921 when Mitch did not come to the Walker home for breakfast, Robert Walker went to see about him. He could get no answer when he knocked on the door, so he broke the lock, entered, and found that Mitch had died during the night. He was 73 years old. His children buried him by their mother in the Pitts Family Cemetery.

Mitch has hundreds of descendants still living in Houston, Bibb, and other Georgia counties. Many of them had never known anything about him until they were consulted for information for this book.

"MITCH"

Many of you descended from me,
And little did I envision,
What an influence I would be--
Wish I were around, just to see!

(John Marion Perdue, Sr. descended from the Jefferson Co., Ga., Perdues, and he was a brother to Olif Perdue, who married Mitchell W. T. Perdue's son, Charlie Abner Perdue.) Carrie Mae and John Marion Perdue, Sr. are buried in the New Prospect Baptist Cemetery, Rockmart, Georgia. They had five children.

About 1929, Carrie Mae and John Marion Perdue, Sr. and their family of four children moved to Rockmart, Georgia, probably from near Sandersville, Georgia. After they moved to Rockmart, they had another son born. The children got sick with measles and then, Carrie Mae took the measles. Later, she had pneumonia and died when the baby was only three months old. Three months later the father, John Marion Perdue, Sr., died with pneumonia. They left five children ranging in age from six months old to twelve years old.

Mrs. Jewel James-FitzGerald-Dyer and her first husband, Virgil FitzGerald adopted the baby, James Richard Russell Perdue, who was very ill with colitis. They changed his name to FitzGerald. He now lives with his wife and four children in Charleston, South Carolina. He and his brothers and sister have kept in close contact with one another through the years.

The Juvenile Court placed the four older children in the Harpst Home after their parents died. The Harpst Home is an orphanage sponsored by the Methodist Church, Cedartown, Georgia. They grew up in the orphanage except for short periods of time when they lived with their mother's sister, Fannie James-Champion, in Baker County, Georgia. John, Elizabeth, and Arthur spent some time there, and Elizabeth lived two years with them to attend high school in Baker County, Georgia.

JOHN MARION PERDUE, SR.

(Husband of Carrie Mae James)

JOHN MARION PERDUE, SR., husband of Carrie Mae James, was born June, 1885, Glascock Co., Ga., and died 10 July 1931 in Rockmart, Georgia. He was the son of Hillary Arthur Perdue, Jr. (b. 1851, d. ca 1905) and Elizabeth Newsome-Perdue. John Marion Perdue's grandparents were Hillary Arthur Perdue, Sr. (b. ca 1808, d. ca 1855), and Rebecca Beasley-Perdue. His great-great grandparents were Judah and William Perdue (b. ca 176?, d. 1825), Jefferson Co., Georgia. It is not known who Hillary Arthur Perdue, Sr.'s parents were, but he was listed as a grandchild in William Perdue's Will which was probated in 1825, Jefferson County, Georgia.

At this time no definite proof has been established to ascertain the relationship, if any, of the Jefferson-Glascock County Perdues with the James A. Perdue clan of Houston County, Georgia. However, two of the Jefferson-Glascock Perdues married two of the Houston County Perdues. Olif Perdue and John Marion Perdue, Sr. were brother and sister. Olif married Charley Perdue, who was an uncle to John Marion Perdue's wife, Carrie Mae James. (For the Genealogy of the Jefferson County Perdues, see Appendix IV, p.455)

(Third child of Mitchell W. T. Perdue)

C-5 AUDREY M. PERDUE, b. 1906 (She may have married a KING.)

C-6 ANNIE FOSTELLE PERDUE, b. 1907 (She may have married a Warren.)

C-7 RICHARD PERDUE, b. 1909

It is regrettable that research efforts have failed to locate any descendants of Banks and Lula Perdue. Names of his children were obtained through Georgia census records. In the 1880 Houston County Census, Banks was listed as a child, age eight, in Mitchell W. T. Perdue's household. The 1900 Dooly County Census showed Banks, age 27, and Lula with two children. By 1910 in the Crisp County Census, Banks, age 37, and Lula were listed with seven children.

The only person located who remembered anything about Banks's children was Banks's first cousin, Beatrice Perdue-Williams. She recalled the names of some of the children, and remembered that Banks got killed by a train near Cordele, Georgia. Also, she had corresponded with one of the girls, Nadine, when they were both young girls.

Census records only listed seven children in 1910, one year before Banks got killed, and according to a letter written in 1911 by Woodson Perdue, Banks only had seven children when he died. Which one of the girls listed in the census is Nadine has not been determined.

A vivid account of Banks's death was revealed in a letter found in 1983. On 18 April 1911 (Tuesday), Philip Tess Woodson Perdue wrote a letter to his sister-in-law (James E. Perdue's widow) in Tifton, Georgia. In the letter he gave this description of the death and burial of Banks Perdue:

"...Mitch is getting on very well, or at least he was yesterday morning (Monday), but he is in deep grief. His oldest son, Banks, got killed Saturday night by the train, and we got a telegram Sunday morning to come, so we went--Mitch and I--at noon Sunday. Banks lived at Richwood, about five miles from Cordele, Georgia. He left a wife and seven children. His oldest one is just twelve and his wife is in very poor health. I came back yesterday p. m. and left Mitch down there. They were to have buried Banks yesterday (Monday) at Snow, Georgia (Dooly County)..."

After reading the above letter, research was done in Crisp and Dooly Counties to try to locate Banks's descendants and to find Richwood and Snow, Georgia. Richwood, Georgia--five miles north of Cordele, Georgia, and once, a thriving small farming community--was found. Nothing remains there except a few homes and evidence that a train depot and a store may have been there at one time. Present residents of the community did not remember anything about Banks Perdue or his children.

The Crisp County Courthouse had no records of Banks Perdue in the land deeds, tax records, wills, or marriages. In the Dooly County Courthouse, marriage records were found for the two oldest sons of Banks and Lula. Banks probably was a share-cropper because there were no land deed records recorded for him in Dooly or Crisp Counties.

Snow Cemetery was located. It is located about three miles west of Unadilla, Georgia, on the Byromville Road. Some long-time residents of the Snow Community did remember Lula Perdue. She must have moved back there with her children after Banks's demise. One of the residents there described Lula as being a "bossy" lady! Having been in ill health and having seven small children to support after Banks died, she must have had a struggle in order to raise their children. One can understand her assertiveness.

Residents of Snow Community remembered when Lula died and recalled the area in the Snow Cemetery where she was buried. However a search of the cemetery showed that neither she nor Banks had tombstones.

LULA PERDUE

(Fourth child of Mitchell W. T. Perdue)

B-4 LULA PERDUE, b. Sept. 1876, Houston Co., Ga.; d. 3 June 1903, at her parents' home, Macon, Ga., after a short illness. She was buried in the Pitts Family Cemetery near Bonaire, Georgia. Lula was raised in Houston County, and she had not married when she died at the age of 28. She was listed in the 1880 Houston County Census, age 4, as a child of Mitchell W. T. Perdue. In the 1900 Bibb County Census, she was listed, age 23, born Sept. 1876, and living with her mother, Sarah E. Perdue.

CHARLIE ABNER PERDUE

(Fifth Child of Mitchell W. T. Perdue)

B-5 CHARLIE ABNER PERDUE, b. 14 Aug. 1878, Houston Co., Ga.; d. 26 Mar. 1953, Houston Co.; m. 6 Mar. 1910, Crisp Co., Ga., to Olif Perdue, b. 3 Sept. 1876, Glascock Co., Ga.; d. 10 Nov. 1937, Bibb Co., Ga. Charlie and Olif are buried in Evergreen Cemetery, Macon, Georgia.

After attending school and growing to manhood in Houston County, Charlie ventured out to work for wages on other farms. In 1910, he was farming in Crisp County, Georgia. While living by himself, he became friends with a neighbor, Will Rayburn, whose wife, Sally, was also a Perdue before her marriage. Sally was the daughter of Hillary Perdue, Jr. from Glascock County, Georgia. As far as they could determine, they were not related to each other.

Charlie met his future wife when she came from Glascock County, Georgia, to Crisp County to take care of her sister who was sick. The Rayburns asked Charlie to meet her at the train depot in Cordele, Georgia, to bring her to their home. He met her on 1 Jan. 1910, and married her three months later on 6 Mar. 1910, in Crisp County, Georgia. On December 12th of that year, their first daughter, Beatrice, was born. One year later in 1911, they moved to Gibson, Glascock County, Georgia, to farm with Olif's father, Hillary Perdue, Jr. Their second daughter, Louise, was born 12 Nov. 1913, while they were living there in Glascock County.

Soon afterward they moved to Laurens County near Dublin, Georgia, where Charlie share-cropped until the fall of 1920. About that time when the boll weavils invaded the cotton fields of Georgia, Charlie quit farming because he found it increasingly difficult to make a living for his family.

They moved to Macon, Bibb County, Georgia, where Charlie got a job in the Willingham Cotton Mill as a "slubber." A "slubber" made rope out of raw cotton before it was ready to go to the spinners to be made into thread. The thread was used to make a thick, heavy, canvas-type cloth known as "ducking."

In 1921, Charlie's father, Mitch Perdue, died. From then until 10 Nov. 1937, when Charlie's wife died, he continued to work in Bibb County, except for a year when they lived with their daughter in Bonaire, Georgia. After Olif died, Charlie moved back to live with Tom and Beatrice at Okey Woods, Kathleen, Georgia.

Charlie continued to live with them and to help with the farm chores until he died suddenly on 26 Mar. 1953, at the age of 74. He was buried in Evergreen Cemetery, Macon, Georgia, where his wife, Olif, was buried.

"CHARLIE"

Many long days in the Georgia hot sun,
I persevered, getting the farm chores done;
And, in the mill, I "slubbed" cotton each day
Proud of my life's work, I'm delighted to say!

Ballard, Willingham Baptist Church Pastor, officiated and burial was in the Evergreen Cemetery, Macon, Georgia.

Mrs. Perdue was born in Jefferson Co. Ga., Sept. 3, 1876, the daughter of Hilliary H. Perdue and Mrs. Betty Newsome Perdue, and had resided in Macon since 1921. She was a Baptist Church member.

Surviving are her husband, Charlie A. Perdue, Macon; two daughters, Mrs. Beatrice Williams and Mrs. Louise Heath, Macon; three sisters, Mrs. W.T. Rabun, Macon; Mrs. Carl Johnson, Washington Co., and Mrs. Ida Reese, Glascock Co, Ga.; seven grandchildren.

ELIZABETH BEATRICE PERDUE

C-1 ELIZABETH BEATRICE PERDUE, (First child of Charlie Abner Perdue and Olif Perdue), b. 12 Dec. 1910, Houston Co., Ga.; m. 2 April 1928, Aiken, S.C., to Thomas Newton Williams, b. 13 Oct. 1907, d. 10 Aug. 1975, son of Frances Elizabeth and George Thomas Williams. Beatrice and Tom Williams lived in Bibb and Houston Counties. They had thirteen children.

A true love story unfolds as one hears of the elopement of Beatrice and Tom Williams. They met while both were living in Macon, Georgia. They had dated for a year when they decided they wanted to get married. Beatrice was only 17 years old and had to get her parents' approval to get married in Georgia. Her father, Charlie Perdue, wanted her to wait until she was 18 years old before she married; therefore, he wouldn't sign the approval for marriage. They didn't want to wait so Tom hired a friend to drive them to Aiken, S. C., where they could be married without parental approval.

After their marriage, they lived with Tom's parents for a month before moving to an apartment next door where they resided until after their fourth child was born. During that time, Tom was a carpenter at the Kinnett Ice and Coal Company, Macon, Georgia. His duties involved keeping the wagons--that hauled ice and coal to homes--in good condition.

Later, Tom decided that he wanted to farm so they farmed one year at Rutland, Georgia. Then they moved to Houston County where he farmed at Bonaire and Kathleen, Georgia. After that he went to work as a forest warden for the Georgia Craft Company. He was on his way home from inspecting timber in Macon County, Georgia, when the jeep he was driving was hit by a train in Perry, Georgia. His back was injured and he was unable to work anymore. He received a medical retirement from the Georgia Craft Company.

Since her husband's death in 1975, Beatrice has continued to keep busy by visiting children and grandchildren, and traveling with the Senior Citizens Clubs of Warner Robins and Houston County to numerous places of interest throughout the United States. She lives by herself in Bonaire, Georgia.

Beatrice is a warm and loving person. She was seventy-four years old in December, 1983, but seems more active and vivacious than many younger persons. She has been eager to provide information on her family and ancestors.

In 1983, Beatrice has 13 children, 30 grandchildren, and 15 great grandchildren. Many of them live in Houston County, Georgia.

With 13 children, I was busy all the time;
I'm still enjoying life, very sublime.

When they were living near Cordele, Ga., he witnessed the sheriff killing a man. Later, Thomas was shot, probably because they were afraid that he knew too much and might tell what he saw. They never learned who killed him. After his death, Nannie Lee moved to Albany, Ga., where she stayed for two months before she moved back to Cordele, Ga. She rented a house and ran a small store. Nannie Lee and Thomas had eight children, many of whom were quite young when Thomas was killed in 1926, at the age of 42.

CERMILLA VIRGINIA PERDUE

(Sixth child of James A. and Sarah Hall-Perdue)

A-6 CERMILLA VIRGINIA PERDUE, born 1852, died 1895, Houston County, Ga., married 20 Aug. 1889, Houston County, Ga., to Enoch Elisha Holland, d. 1893, son of John and Mary Holland, Houston County, Georgia. Enoch Elisha and Virginia Perdue-Holland are buried at Houston Lake Baptist Church, Houston County, Georgia. They had two children: one died at birth and the other one was Robert Carlton Holland.

Cermilla Virginia Perdue's brief life was spent caring for others. After her brothers and sisters married, she remained at home to take care of her mother, Sarah Hall-Perdue, for several years.

When Virginia was 37 years old and two years after her mother had died, she married Enoch Elisha Holland in Houston County, Georgia. He had one child, John, by his previous marriage to Martha F. Leverette. Enoch's parents were John and Mary Holland of Houston County, Georgia. Brothers and sisters of Enoch were: Nancy, Eliza Jane, Dicy Ann, Charles, Isaac, and Pickney J. Holland. John and Mary Holland lived in Houston County, Georgia. His will was probated there on 7 Dec. 1857.

Virginia and Enoch's first child, born in 1889 or 1890, died as an infant. Subsequently in 1891, they were blessed with a son, Robert Carlton Holland, who was born in Houston County. When Robert was only two years old, sadness again encroached Virginia's life when she lost her husband, who died in 1893.

Ironically, Virginia lived only two years after her husband died. Her son, Robert, was only four years old when she died. Before Virginia died, she asked her only sister, Theodocia Perdue-Barnes, to take Robert and raise him for her, which she did.

In Virginia's short 43 year life span, she experienced a lot of grief and the loss of several loved ones. She was described as a very compassionate person whose faith had given her the strength to endure hardships and to care for loved ones.

OBITUARY OF VIRGINIA PERDUE HOLLAND

(Houston Home Journal, Perry, Ga.)

The vicinity of Dennard (Houston Co., Ga.) was on the 4th first called upon again to experience the sad dispensation of the insorntable ways of Providence. The "White Winged Angel" again visited us, and MRS. VIRGINIA HOLLAND, nee PERDUE, widow of E. E. Holland, of Kathleen, Ga., is no more. She was born in this vicinity in the year 1852. In the first illness her mother almost despaired of her life. Her physician gave her the encouraging assurance that she might be spared to be the stay of her in her feeble old age. Though lightly spoken to cheer the sufferer, how truly it has been verified as a prophecy. Almost her only companion and protector for years, VIRGINIA clung to and supported the failing footsteps of the old lady, of course with the aid of relatives and friends. Crushing the natural, womanly instincts which lead girls to seek in love and marriage, and new home ties, the perfection of happiness. Spartan like she gave her life and energies to the filial love and care which circumstances seemed to demand of her. When her mother (Sarah Hall-Perdue) was no more, her heart sought something around which to entwine, and when providence sent her Mr. E. E. Holland as a life partner, all seemed to sympathize with their happiness, which too soon came to a break. With the death of Mr. Holland who had become the very light of her happiness, one babe had winged its way into the dark unknown, and one, a boy (Robert Carlton), two years old, left to her almost idolatrous love and care. But her health declined, and she often spoke of the approaching end, and seemed to have a warning of its nearness. Soon she summoned her only surviving sister, MRS. THEODOCIA PERDUE-BARNES, of Eastman, Georgia, to come and be a mother to her orphan boy, 4 years old. Who can tell her feelings, how vividly she realized the frailties of human nature when she must delegate to another the care of her boy. No, indeed, that faith which had often strengthened her in her afflictions had become invaluable at this trying hour, in pointing to One who has said, "I will be a Father to the fatherless, and a Husband to the widow."

Ah, who will undertake to say that some friendly door is not left ajar, that VIRGINIA may see the shade of gloom this bereavement has cast over the hearts of so many, in testimony of the love, appreciation and respect of relatives and friends, and especially that a wiser hand than any frail mortal one will guide and protect her little ROBERT until he shall fill his mission. What that will be who will dare to guess? Yet, all will hope he will again join father, mother and family in the Great Beyond.

-- A. B.

(It is not known who the author--A. B.--of the above article is.)

"VIRGINIA"

Yes, Virginia did pass our way,
  Taking care of others every day.
How proud, in Heaven, she must be,
  Good deeds of her son, she could see!

ROBERT CARLTON HOLLAND

(Only Child of Virginia Perdue-Holland)

B-1 ROBERT CARLTON HOLLAND, b. 18 July 1891, Houston Co., Ga.; d. 21 July 1976, Telfair Co., Ga.; m. 6 Oct. 1912 to Nellie Rose Staples, b. 17 Feb. 1894, d. 22 Feb. 1976. Nellie Rose and Robert C. Holland are buried in Sharon Cemetery, Telfair County, Georgia. They had ten children.

ROBERT CARLTON HOLLAND

When researching the children of James A. and Sarah Hall Perdue, most of what was known about their daughter, Virginia, was that she had a son named Robert C. Holland. It was surmised that Robert had descendants but no one knew who or where they were located.

On an impulse, a trip was made to Rhine, Georgia, because Robert had written a letter from there to Carson Barnes in 1928. It was envisioned that some of his descendants might still live around there. In Rhine, Georgia, a lady at a hardware store said that she was raised "just down the road" from Robert C. Holland. Further questioning revealed that Robert had a daughter, Nannie Rose Ertzberter, who lived only a few miles away at Jacksonville, Georgia.

A call was made to Nannie Rose Ertzberger, who was surprised and delighted to hear from her father's relatives. During the visit with her, she gave addresses of all of Robert C. Holland's children. She also provided many of the pictures included in this section. Much indebtedness is due Nannie Rose for having the descendants of Virginia Perdue-Holland complete. Later, another daughter, Virginia Holland-Harrell, visited the writer and gave additional information about her father and his children.

Robert Carlton Holland was born in Houston Co., Ga., on 18 July 1891, the son of Cermilla Virginia Perdue-Holland and Enoch Elisha Holland. When Robert was four years old, his mother, Virginia, became very ill. She summoned her sister, Theodosia Perdue-Barnes, of Eastman, Georgia, to come to see her. She knew that she was dying, and she asked Theodosia to take Robert and to raise him for her. Robert was only two years old when his father died and four years old when his mother died.

Robert was raised by his aunt, Theodosia, at Five Points, Eastman, Ga., Dodge County. He married Nellie Rose Staples 6 Oct. 1912. He was 85 years old when he died in the Telfair County Hospital on 21 July 1976. He and his wife are buried at Sharon Cemetery in Telfair County, Georgia.

In 1926, Robert, his wife, and the six children they had at that time moved near Rhine, Georgia, where he farmed. In 1930, they moved back to Dodge Co., Ga., where they lived for two years. Then, in 1932, they moved to Telfair County and bought a farm near Jacksonville, Ga., near Blockhouse Church, where they lived many years. Later, they moved to Lumber City, Ga., to be near his son, Samuel Enoch Holland. Robert had a stroke while living there. Sometime afterward, they moved to Bibb Co., Ga., near Seven Bridges on Highway 247. In the early 1970's, he and his wife moved from there to Elberta, Georgia, where they lived until they moved to Byron, Ga. While living there, he broke his hip. He moved to the Manor Nursing Home, McRae, Georgia, to be nearer to his children.

When Robert got old--and before he went to the nursing home--he got very upset when he learned that his parents' unmarked graves had been paved over for a parking lot at the Houston Lake Baptist Church in Houston County. He made many trips there to try to get something done about it, but his efforts were unsuccessful.

Robert Carlton Holland and his wife Nellie Rose Staples-Holland had the following ten children:

LETTER FROM ROBERT C. HOLLAND

Rhine, Georgia
Feb. 10, 1928

MR. D. C. BARNES,
Dear Cousin,

Will drop you a few lines tonight in answer to your letter received some time ago. Was glad to hear from you.

I also received your wedding announcement, you have my heartiest congratulations wishing you and yours a long prospers and happy life. Have you moved on your place in Louisiana?

Hope you are well. We are all well now but we have had a time ever since Christmas with flu and malaria fever. All have gone to the school house tonight to a play except me and the two least ones. Virginia has a part in the play.

Well, I am still at the same place and farming the same way. Have my land all broke except about two days plowing. I had a letter from cousin Emma a few days ago. Bud was sick with cold and risings in his head. His mother died a few days before I got the letter.

Guess you have heard of Dolph Burnam's trouble. He killed a man at Rhine and he is in the Eastman jail. Most people think he is bound for the electric chair.

Well, as I don't know of any news to write will close for this time as I am sleepy.

With love from me and mine to you and yours, I am as ever

Your Cousin,
R. C. Holland
Rt. 1, Rhine, Ga.

(This letter was found in Carson Barnes's trunk by Carson's daughters, Lucille Barnes Cook and Lillian Barnes Hope. Carson kept in contact with his relatives in many places, and he saved his letters and pictures. We are indebted to him for many pictures and letters used in this book.)

PHILIP TESS WOODSON PERDUE

(Seventh Child of James A. and Sarah Hall-Perdue)

A-7 PHILIP TESS WOODSON PERDUE, b. 1 Jan. 1857, Houston Co., Ga.; d. 18 Nov. 1923, Houston Co., Ga.; m. 1875-1876, Narcissa Kelley, b. 17 June 1855, Jones Co., Ga., d. 30 Jan. 1916, Houston Co., dau. of Sidwell and Anna Wilson-Kelley. Woodson and Narcissa are buried in the Bonaire Methodist Cemetery, Houston Co., Ga. They had seven children. (Edna Perdue with Woodson in picture.)

PHILIP TESS WOODSON PERDUE

Philip Tess Woodson Perdue was born in 1857 in Houston County, Georgia, the youngest child of his parents, James A. and Sarah Hall-Perdue. He lived his entire life in Houston County.

Woodson's early life was undoubtedly very difficult. Three of his older brothers--and most likely his father--were in the Confederate Army. His mother was listed as Head of Household in the 1870 Georgia Census, which indicates his father had died. While quite young, he had to assume many responsibilities to help care for his mother and sisters.

Woodson often told his children about his parents hiding their meat, food and other possessions during the Civil War. They had heard of the destruction made by the Union Army as they marched through Georgia to the sea. Woodson was only a small child--six to eight years old--but he remembered that incident vividly.

By 1880, Woodson had married Narcissa Kelley. They lived many years in the Heard Community, 10th District, Houston Lake Road in Houston County. While living there, their sons helped him farm, and their daughters worked at the Houston Factory. They ran four looms weaving cloth, which was baled and hauled to Kathleen to be shipped. They earned about 40 cents a day. One son, George, recalled having to walk about four miles each noon to carry his sister's lunch to them in a tin bucket.

In 1905 and 1907, Woodson purchased land from J. M. Heard and William B. Watson in the Bonaire Community. He moved his family there to live in the "Watson House." By 1910, the only children left at home were "Lizzie" and George. George had married in February, 1910, and his wife, Alma, was also living with them.

Woodson built a small house nearby where George and Alma lived until Woodson's wife, Narcissa, died in 1916. Then George and Alma moved in the house with Woodson and took care of him until he died in 1923. Woodson's home became the home of George and Alma who raised their nine children there. The home is occupied today by George's two oldest daughters, Rosamond and Edna.

Woodson has been remembered by several grandchildren as a devoted father and grandfather and a hard worker who had strong convictions, a "quick" temper, and who believed in paying "cash" for whatever he bought. In the Bonaire Cemetery, he is surrounded by those he knew and loved--his children and many grandchildren.

"WOODSON"

When as a farmer, I sank my plows
Into a fertile field,
I always felt assured there'd be
A fruitful harvest yield.
You, too, must always trust
That your deeds won't die with dust.
Be assured that you will reap,
Seeds that you have plowed deep.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY PHILIP TESS WOODSON PERDUE

1909, 1911

The following letters were written by P. T. Woodson Perdue to his sister-in-law, Martha Jane Kelley-Perdue-Owens. She was the widow of James E. Perdue before she married Jonathan Owens.

Bonaire, Georgia
May 5, 1909

Mrs. J. P. Owens
My Dear Sister,

Your letter to hand today. Was glad to hear from you, but was indeed surprised to get a letter from you. We all are well, as usual, at present. Hope these lines will find you all the same. Well, Martha Jane, you ask me in your letter for MITCHES address. If you wish to communicate with him, in regard to your pension, his address is "M. W. Perdue, Bonaire, Ga. R.F.D. #1.

As to Lige Etheridge, he has been dead for several years. I hope you will have good luck in getting your pension. I do not remember very much about my brother, JIM (James E. Perdue). Probably MITCH can help you and advise you more concerning your pension , as he is a good deal older than I, and was also in the War. (If Mitch served in the Civil War, no descendants know anything about it; neither have any records been found.) As for me, I do not remember anything much about it, and can't give you no advice in regard to it. If I knew of any way I could assist you in getting your pension and it was in my power to help you, I would gladly do so. Well, how is JASPER and MAT getting on these days? We never do hear a word from any of them down there. We wrote FRANK KELLEY a long time ago, but guess they didn't care to hear from us again, as they never answered. I got a letter from BLACK (Blacksher) yesterday. He and family are all getting on well. He wrote me it hadn't rained out there in Texas, where he lives, since '22 of last Oct. Said his cotton would never come up until it rains.

I have a right pretty stand of corn, and my cotton is up, looking very well. I guess I will have to ring off for this time. If you ever feel like you can, would be glad to have you stop by and see us all some time. We live right near Bonaire, just about 1/4 mile from "town." I'll remain,

Very Respectfully,
Your BROTHER-IN-LAW
WOODSON PERDUE

Will have to ask you to excuse this sorry stationery, as I am out of any kind, except this.

P.S. (to letter on previous page)

I guess you knew ROBERT HOLLAND has been up here all this year going to school. School was out today. There will be a picnic near here Friday. The young folks are all expecting to go. Don't suspect I can get off. I haven't but two of my children with me now, one boy and girl. Reckon them and Robert will go.

Bonaire, Georgia
April 18, 1911

Dear Martha Jane,

Your letter was received last week. I was somewhat surprised to hear from you again, as it had been so long since I had wrote you. Was sorry to hear of JASPER and MAT'S illness--hope they will soon get better. We are all getting on very well at present. There has been quite a lot of sickness up here this winter--several cases of pneumonia, which some resulted in deaths, but we have been fortunate, to not have any here at home, but my oldest son (JOHN) had a little step-son that had a right bad case, but everybody has had bad colds.

Well, I had a letter from BLACK (Blacksher) last week. He wrote that he was getting on well. He still has four boys and his two little girls with him. He has ten children living, by his last wife. His address is D. B. Perdue, Atwell, Texas. MITCH (Mitchell) is getting on very well, or at least he was yesterday a. m., but he is in deep grief. His oldest son, BANKS, got killed Sat. Night by the train, and we got a telegram Sun. a. m. to come, so we went, Mitch and I, at noon Sunday. He lived at Richwood, about five miles from Cordele, Ga. He left a wife and seven children, his oldest one just twelve, and his wife in very poor health. I came back yesterday a. m. and left MITCH down there. They were to have buried BANKS yesterday p. m. at Snow, Georgia.

Well, Martha Jane, you remember I was small, and not large enough to remember anything much concerning the War (Civil War), but have found out that a Mr. Joe Vinson, R.#1, Wellston, Ga. was in the War with JIM (James E. Perdue). MITCH said he was, and John and Lace Rarefield of Dublin, Ga., I hear was also in the War with him. And old man Tom Adkins I think was with him. He lives out between Perry and Ft. Valley, and I reckon gets his mail at Perry, but I don't know about the routes--maybe he will get a letter if you'll just address it to Perry, Ga. Old man Dave Adkins is dead. Them are all the ones I know of, and can think of now. Wishing you success, I am as ever

WOODSON PERDUE

(Descendants say that Woodson could not write. Probably, his daughter, Lizzie, wrote these letters for him. Martha Jane saved the letters.)

Sunday Night
Oct. 5, 1902

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barnes
Eastman, Georgia
Dear Aunt and Uncle,.

I take my pencil in hand tonight for the purpose of dropping you a few lines to let you hear how all was gettin on especially your dear boy (Carson). He says he is mending slowly. Papa went to let the Doctor know how he was getting on this evening. He had taken all the medicine that he left for him Thursday night. The doctor sent him another dose of calomel to take tonight. We haven't sit up with him since Thursday night until tonight. I am sitting up tonight giving him medicine. Carson rests very well and seems to be very well contented, which I trust he is. His fever is not broke yet, but was cooler today than has been. He has more quinine to take yet. He hasn't tried to sit up any since Eddie left. Well I guess Eddie reached home yesterday (Saturday). I hope he enjoyed his trip up here. I don't guess he had a very jolly time going back by himself.

Well, I believe those lines leave the family all up. George picked cotton too hard Saturday and had a fever that night, but was up today. He picked cotton away from home and was trying to make fifty cents that day by three o'clock. He just did make it. Well, we had company today. Mr. Cul Barker and family, sister Annie and family. Tell Eddie he missed it by not being here today. Mr. Barker's daughter is a sweet old girl. She is about 14 or 15 years of age. Well, John and Will haven't got back yet. I suppose they will get back sometime tomorrow. Well, as I do not know anything that would be interesting to write, I guess I had better close for this time. Write right away. Carson said he was anxious to hear from you all. I am as ever your loving niece.

POETRY WRITTEN BY MARY PHILIP PERDUE

(Mailed to Carson Barnes in 1897)

When you are sitting all alone,
And thinking of the past
Remember that you have a cousin
Whose love will always last.

Love is to the human heart
As sunshine is to the flowers,
But friendship is the purest gift,
In this cold world of ours.

HENRY T. AND MARY PHILIP PERDUE-BARKER

POETRY BY MARY PHILIP PERDUE

(Mailed to Carson Barnes in 1897)

Remember me, my loving Cousin,
When ere this little verse you bend.
It is a sigh of love to thee,
And in return, remember me.
When rocks and hills divide us,
And you no more I see,
Remember it was your cousin,
Who wrote these lines for thee.
When years and months have glided by,
And on this page you cast an eye,
Remember twas a cousin sincere,
That left this kind remembrance here.

GEORGE ERVIN PERDUE, SR.

(Fifth child of Philip Tess Woodson Perdue)

George Ervin Perdue, Sr. (b. 1889) was the next to the last child born to Philip Tess Woodson Perdue and Narcissa Kelley-Perdue. He was born and raised in the Heard Community on Houston Lake Road, Houston County, Georgia.

He and his brothers helped with the farming and farm chores, attended school, and went to church in the Heard Community. When George and his brothers were not assisting their father on the farm, they worked for others. George was known as a good "cotton picker." Once, he picked enough cotton by 3:00 p. m. to earn fifty cents, which in those days was a lot of money.

As a young man while attending church, he met the Renfroe family. He became a good friend to Edgar Renfroe, who brought him to his parents' home one Sunday after church to eat dinner. It was there that he met Edgar's sister, Alma Renfroe, who was sixteen years old. Alma recalled in later years that George was extremely quiet that first visit; however, on subsequent visits "to eat Sunday dinner," he became progressively more loquacious. Consequently, they began "dating." The dating "escapades," which were in a buggy, consisted of going to church, parties, and square dances. After dating for two years, they were married 27 Feb. 1910, at her parents' home, which was located on the banks of Bay Gall, near Warner Robins, Georgia. Rev. Stanford, the Primitive Baptist Pastor, performed the ceremony.

They lived for a year with George's parents in their home at Bonaire, Georgia. Then they built a small house nearby where they lived until George's mother died in 1916. Their three oldest children--Rosamond, Ervin, and Edna--were born while they lived in the "little" house. After Narcissa died, Woodson needed someone to live with him, so George, Alma, and their three children moved in the home with him. David Alfred Perdue, Sr. (b. 1916) was their first child born after they moved there. They continued to live in the Woodson Perdue home after Woodson died in 1923. They raised all of their children there, and the home and land is still in the family today.

George's father deeded Lot 21, 11th District to him on 8 Feb. 1922. (Houston Co. Deed Book 30, p. 491). George and Alma later bought land that had once belonged to Alma's grandfather, John King. John King had willed Lots 220 and 221, 5th Land District, to his children. His daughter, Frances Winnie King-Renfroe and her husband had bought the other 4/5 interest in Lot #220, 5th Land District from Frances Winnie's sisters. (Houston Co. Land Deed Book 39, p. 447) After the death of Alma Perdue's mother, Frances Winnie King-Renfroe, George and Alma bought the remaining interests in Lot # 220 from the heirs. George and Alma sold that King-Renfroe land a few years before George died in 1974.

George and Alma Perdue were well-known throughout Houston County. George farmed all of his life, but he found time to participate in activities of the community and the schools of Houston County. He enjoyed sports and attended most of the schools' sports events until he was in his eighties.

George had a great sense of humor and wit as well as a serious disposition. When he said something, everyone knew that he meant it! He and Alma were strong disciplinarians and instilled in their children a desire to excel in whatever they attempted.

Often described as a "Saint on earth," Alma Renfroe-Perdue exemplified the true meaning of "wife and mother," that belongs to a lost era. She devoted her full energies to caring for her husband, children, and grandchildren. She was a superior cook and homemaker. She prepared meals daily--served at a big long table--that would be considered a feast by most families today.

Both George and Alma Perdue lived a long fruitul life, both having died the same year at age 85. George died 27 Jan. 1974, and Alma died 25 August 1974. They left a visible void in the lives of their children and grandchildren, who adored them.

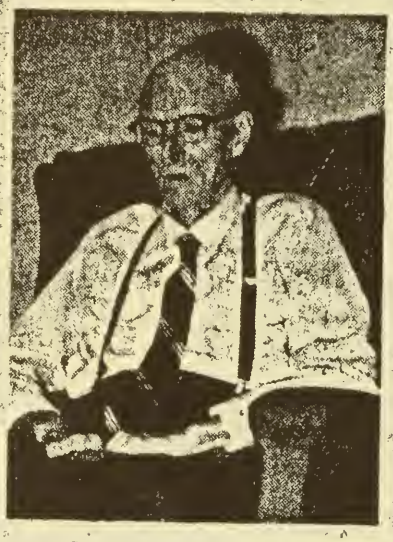
Bonaire Man Praises Houston Red Cross 1972



G. E. PERDUE SR.

When it comes to testimonials, G. E. Perdue Sr. of Bonaire has some words to say about the Red Cross blood program.

Twice this year, in February and just last month, as a patient in St. Joseph Hospital in Augusta, Perdue has received blood provided by the Houston County bloodmobile.

"I was born and raised in Houston County," he said, "and it made me feel good to know I was receiving blood made possible by my home folks, and not having to buy it."

At 83, Perdue admits that his activities are somewhat limited, but not too much. There are few basketball games played by local schools that he does not attend. He is interested in young people, he says, and hopes he can still have a part in molding their lives. "These young folks are the future citizens," he said. "They are the ones that do the blood giving so old people of the county don't have to worry when they get sick and need it."

When the bloodmobile comes to Houston County on its quarterly visits, it is Perdue's daughter, Mrs. Richard Talton of Perry who is one of the Red Cross volunteer workers. She is on of eight Perdue children. Others include Houston County School Supt. David A. Perdue Sr., Mrs. Rosamond Sanders, George Ervin Perdue Jr., Miss Edna Perdue, Phillips W. Perdue, Miss Margaret Perdue and John Perdue.

Perdue is just one of countless persons who have benefitted by the Red Cross blood program here. Because Houston County is under blanket coverage, it gives every resident the right to receive blood through the Red Cross, regardless of whether he or a member of his family has contributed to the bloodmobile.

This plan will continue as long as Houston County's 1,000 yearly quota is met. The bloodmobile visits are scheduled quarterly, and the cooperation of Houston Countians was cited last year by the Atlanta Regional Blood Center in Atlanta. The local Red Cross unit received a certificate of appreciation from meeting its quota 100 per cent.

C-2 GEORGE ERVIN PERDUE, JR., (Second child of George Ervin and Alma Monroe Renfroe-Perdue), b. 4 Aug. 1913, Bonaire, Houston Co., Ga.; d. m. 24 Dec. 1938, Bibb Co., Ga., to Ophie Viola Holt, b. 11 Mar. 1911, d. 6 Mar. 1984, the daughter of Thaddeus Clarence and Sarah Elizabeth Walker-Holt.

George Ervin Perdue, Jr. was born in Bonaire, Georgia. He graduated from Bonaire High School in 1930. He worked on his father's farm as a young boy through adulthood. As a young man, he met a young teacher, Ophie Holt, whom he dated for six years before they married in 1938 in Bibb County, Georgia.

In 1939, Ervin bought the Feagin Farm in Bonaire, Georgia, and they moved into the Feagin home. In 1983, they had lived there for 44 years. During this time Ervin has accumulated several hundred acres of land. Being a successful farmer has required perseverance, hard work and intelligent planning. In addition, he operated a dairy for several years.

In addition to being a serious hard-working farmer, Ervin finds time to live an interesting life. He charms his host of friends with his "witty" personality and sense of humor! He is known and respected throughout Houston County, Georgia.

OPHIE VIOLA HOLT-PERDUE, late wife of Ervin Perdue, was born in 1911 in Bibb County, Georgia. In 1918 her parents moved from Bibb County to Byron, Georgia. Ophie was in the second grade.

After graduating from high school, she attended Teachers' College, Athens, Georgia--now, the University of Georgia. When she graduated from college in 1933, she began her thirty-five year career in the teaching field. After her marriage in 1938, she taught at Bonaire High School. During this time, she became the mother of two children--Betty and "Sonny" Perdue.

Throughout her teaching career, she taught hundreds of students in Crawford and Houston Counties. After teaching many years at Bonaire, she taught English and reading at Warner Robins High School until she retired in 1973. Many of her former students attest to the fact that she was a "great teacher!"

Sadness filled the hearts of all the Houston County Perdues when Ophie Holt-Perdue passed away on Tuesday, 6 March 1984. She was a devoted wife, mother, and grandmother, as well as a benevolent and sincere friend to hundreds of Houston Countians. She will be missed.

D-1 BETTY JEAN PERDUE, (Oldest child of Ophie Holt-Perdue and George Ervin Perdue, Jr.), b. 11 July 1940, Houston Co., Ga.; m. 24 Dec. 1959, Bonaire Baptist Church, Bonaire, Ga., to Jimmy Daniel Griffin, b. 22 Sept. 1936, d. 28 Jan. 1980, the son of Marvin Griffin, Jr. and Ruby Phillips-Griffin of Perry, Georgia. Jimmy Griffin is buried in the Bonaire Methodist Church Cemetery, Bonaire, Georgia.

BETTY JEAN PERDUE graduated from Warner Robins High School in 1958, and attended North Georgia College and Georgia Southern College. After her marriage in 1959, she and Jimmy lived in Starke, Florida, and Charleston Heights, South Carolina. They moved back to Houston County in 1962 when Jimmy became affiliated with George Ervin Perdue, Jr. in the dairy business. In 1968, Betty and Jimmy established the Houston Fertilizer Company, Bonaire, Georgia.

Betty and Jimmy, with their three daughters, lived near Kathleen, Houston Co., Georgia. Before Jimmy died in 1980, he was serving as a Houston County Commissioner. After his demise, Betty offered herself for election to finish Jimmy's term of office as commissioner. She was elected and held the honor of being the first female commissioner in the history of Houston County. At the end of that term of office--although having served commendably as a commissioner--Betty decided that she would not seek office again in order to devote her energies to her three daughters and to their business, the Houston Fertilizer and Grain Company, Bonaire, Georgia. She remains active in the affairs of Houston County, and is presently serving as a member of the Houston County Board of Elections.

Betty and Jimmy have three children.

David A. Perdue, Sr. was often described by the newspapers as a "Giant" in the Houston County Schools. An editorial in a local Houston County newspaper summed up David's twenty year tenure as school superintendent as follows:

"Perdue and the school system are almost synonomous. No one is ever going to replace David Perdue, the longtime superintendent of the Houston County School System, who was highly honored recently with a retirement dinner, gifts, and a Chevrolet pick-up truck given by school personnel, business people, and friends.

"In a transient county like Houston, this means that Perdue has had an influence on the vast majority of people who have gone to school here. There just aren't that many people around whose public schooling predates the Perdue era. During his 20 year tenure, we have seen the school population grow from 10,000 students to 16, 000 students, and the number of classrooms has increased from 331 to 800. Construction during his tenure included 12 new schools, 25 additions, a vocational center, and a stadium. The annual budget has grown from 1½ million to over 24 million.

"He has run a tight ship and clearly been the boss of what is considered one of the best school systems in Georgia. We are proud of the school system and for that we have David Perdue to thank. We wish him well in his retirement."

Since his retirement after 41 years of service in education, when people ask him what he is doing, he replies, "Nothing, and I have all day to do it!"

Gervaise Wynn-Perdue, wife of David A. Perdue, Sr., graduated from Irwin County High School in 1943, Abraham Baldwin College in 1944, and the University of Georgia in 1946, with a B.S.H.E. Degree. Post Graduate degrees included: Master's Degree from Mercer Univ., Macon, Georgia, 1959; 6th Year Specialist in Education (Ed.S.) Degree, 1966, University of Ga.; and 7th year of college in Gifted Education and Educational Supervision from the University of Georgia, 1972.

Gervaise and David have lived in Warner Robins, Georgia, since their marriage in 1947, except for one year when they lived at Pope Air Force Base, North Carolina, during the Korean Conflict. They have three children: David A. Perdue, Jr., Dennis Brian Perdue, and Deborah Kaye Perdue.

NARCISSA KELLEY PERDUE

(Mrs. Philip Tess Woodson Perdue)

Narcissa Kelley Perdue's ancestors came from South Carolina to Jones Co. Ga., in the early 1800's. Some of the earliest Kelleys in Jones County were Randol, James and John Kelley who were listed in the 1811 Jones Co. Tax List. The earliest Jones Co. Kelley marriage recorded was James Kelley and Peggy Campbell in 1813 (p. 835 Jones Co. Marriages). In 1813, there was a John Kelley living in the Northwest corner of Jones Co., called Cornucopia or Sugar Hill. (p. 274 Jones Co. History)

Soon after Jones County was opened for settlement (Jones was formed from Baldwin Co. in 1807), Sam Kelley owned a farm on Sandy Creek, where Griswoldville, also known as "Piney Woods," is located. Sam was the father of Miles and Wash Kelley. (p. 459 Jones Co.History) It has been partially documented that Narcissa Kelley's father, Sidwell Kelley, was a brother to Miles, Wash and William O. Kelley, all of whom were listed in the 1850 Jones County Census. Their birth dates indicated they could have been brothers, and they all lived close together in the 47th Land District. Their birth dates were: Miles Kelley, 1807; Sidwell Kelley, 1810; Washington Kelley, 1813; William O. Kelley, 1821.

According to descendents of Franklin Madison Kelley, brother to Narcissa Kelley Perdue, he was a cousin to Martha Jane Kelley (daughter of William O. Kelley, b. 1821), who married James E. Perdue, brother to Narcissa's husband, Philip Tess Woodson Perdue.

Narcissa Kelley Perdue was described by her daughter-in-law, Alma Renfroe Perdue, as a very beautiful woman, who was a devoted wife and mother. Narcissa died at her home in Bonaire, Georgia, in 1916.

When researching Narcissa Kelley Perdue's ancestry, only census records had contributed to the findings until an obituary of Mr. Leamon Rooks was printed in the Macon Telegraph. Perdue relatives knew they were related in some way to him. The obituary gave the name of a sister, Mary Brown Harvill, who lived in Macon, Ga. A visit to see her in 1981 revealed that she had her mother's trunk which was full of old pictures and numerous old letters. It is regrettable that most of the pictures were unlabeled, and Mary Harvill said that there was no one still living that could identify them. More than likely they were pictures of Narcissa's parents and grandparents.

The letters, written between 1890-1904, were from Narcissa's sisters and relatives. They provided a descriptive history of what life was like in Houston County, Ga., in the late 1800's. Malaria was widespread and many died from it. Others moved away from Houston County. Money for those who farmed was scarce. Many of the women worked in the Houston Factory, where they operated looms. Entertainment consisted of parties at various homes, picnics and all-day church functions.

Letters in the trunk indicated that Frank M. Kelley, brother to Narcissa, had lived near Moultrie, Georgia; therefore, a trip was made to Moultrie, Ty Ty, Tifton, and Chula, Georgia, to see if any descendants were still living there. Most of his descendants were located and visited which helped to unravel more information about Narcissa's parents, brothers and sisters.

For the benefit of the descendants of Narcissa Kelley Perdue, wife of Philip Tess Woodson Perdue, who may wish to do future research on the Kelley ancestry, a brief synopsis of her brothers and sisters will be given here. To give all of the Kelley descendants would require another book. (See the JAMES E. PERDUE chapter for more KELLEY information.)

THE KING FAMILIES OF HOUSTON COUNTY, GA.

Alma Renfroe Perdue (Mrs. George Ervin Perdue, Sr.) was the great-granddaughter of JOHN KING, SR., b. Va. or N. C., d. 1846, in Crawford Co. Ga. For the benefit of those descendants who may wish to pursue the KING research, some of the accumulated data and King descendants will be given in this section.

Family tradition handed down through generations of Kings is that the Kings came to America on the Mayflower Ship in 1620. Records show that there were no Kings on the Mayflower; however descent could have been through some of the daughters of the original 104 passengers. Frequent statements are made claiming descent from a certain passenger on the Mayflower, when in fact there was no such passenger, or if there was, he left no descendants. Of the 49 passengers who left descendants, ten were wives, nine were sons and six were daughters of other passengers. Eliminating those 25 as duplicate ancestors, there remains only 24 heads of families. In the Mayflower Lineage Books' Index, there are many Kings listed, which gives some credence to how the family tradition got started.

Documents have proven that the Houston Co. Kings migrated from Virginia to North Carolina, Rockingham County, to Jones Co. Ga., before moving to Houston County, Georgia. The first King family to migrate to Houston County soon after it was formed in 1821, was NEHEMIAH KING, SR.

Nehemiah, b. 1770-1780, and his only known brother, JOHN KING, SR., were born in Rockingham Co. N. C. Nehemiah married 29 July, 1794 Rockingham Co. N. C., to Director Williams. Bondsman was Thomas Larkin, and the witness was Peter Watson. John King, Sr. married 31 July 1797, Rockingham Co., N. C., to Priscilla Williams, a sister to Nehemiah's wife, Director Williams. Nehemiah was the bondsman for his brother's marriage.

Most of Nehemiah's children were born in N. C., between 1795 and 1818, before he and his brother, John King, Sr., moved to Jones Co., Ga. Nehemiah was not listed in the 1820 Jones Co. Census, but his brother was listed. At least four of Nehemiah's children married in Jones Co. in 1824 and 1825. Nehemiah probably moved to Houston County in the late 1820's.

In the 1830 and 1840 Houston Co. Censuses, Nehemiah was living in the Upper 5th Land District. Lot 241, which is on the North side of Robins Air Force Base, was owned by Kings from 1829-1840. There is a cemetery located there with graves in it. Many of the early Houston Co. Kings are probably buried there.

Nehemiah's Will was recorded in Houston Co. Ga., 26 Oct. 1840. (Will Book A., pp. 146-147) In it, he named his wife, Director, and 12 children. Other information about Nehemiah King and his children was obtained from the following sources: 1830, 1840, 1850, 1860, and 1870 Houston Co., Ga., Censuses; Houston and Jones Co., Ga. Land Deeds; marriage records in Rockingham Co. N. C., Jones and Houston Counties; Superior Court Mintues, Houston Co., Georgia.

NEHEMIAH KING'S CHILDREN

NEHEMIAH KING, b. 1770-1780, Rockingham Co., N. C., m. 29 July 1794, Rockingham Co., N. C., to Director Ann Williams, daughter of Allen Williams. Nehemiah may have been the son of Thomas King, Sr. of N.C.

Dennis McClendon was the son of Dennis McClendon, Sr., and Elizabeth Maxwell. His will was proved 12 Jan. 1863, Houston Co., Ga. (There may have been other children.)
9. WILLIAM KING, b. Ca 1807, N.C.; m. Mary about 1827-1828. Their children were: Ison, b. 1829, Ga.; Nancy, b. 1832, Ga.; Julian, b. 1835, Ga.; Mary, b. 1842, Ga.; Amanda, b. 1845, Ga. (Dates in Censuses indicate that these were William's children, but it has not been documented.)
10. THOMAS KING, b. Ca 1813, N. C. In 1850 Houston Co. Census, he was listed with the following: Nancy, age 21; Sarah, b. 1834; Margaret, b. 1839; William, b. 1841; and Levi, b. 1843.

11. LEVI KING, b. Ca 1811, N. C., m. Susan Herrington on 29 Dec. 1833, Houston Co., Ga. Levi was executor of his father's Will. Children listed in the 1850 Census of Houston Co., Ga., were: John, b. 1834, Ga.; Rebecca, b. 1838, Ga.; William, b. 1840, Ga.; Thomas, b. 1842, Ga.; Jackson, b. 1845, Ga.; Levi King, Jr., b. 1847, Ga.; and James, b. 1849, Ga.

12. GEORGE WASHINGTON KING, b. Ca 1818, N. C.; may have married Martha. Children listed in the 1850 Houston Co. Census were: Nancy; William, b. 1837; John, b. 1838; Narcissa, b. 1839, and Ailsa, b. 1841. Living in the household with them were: John Brim, age 17; Dennis Moreland, age 16; and Julia Hawkins, age 21, b. Alabama.

(Nehemiah's children are not listed in the order of their birth. Limited research has been done on Nehemiah's family because the focus of this research has been on his brother, John King, Sr.)

NEHEMIAH KING was the only King living in Houston Co., Ga., in 1830. By 1840, there were several King families: Nehemiah King, Sr. Thomas King, b. 1813, son of Nehemiah; Thomas King, Sr., b. 1813, son of John King, Sr.; Nehemiah King, Jr. (probably son of John King, Sr.); Levi King, b. 1811, Nehemiah's son; and John King, Jr., b. 1812, son of John King, Sr. They were living in the 5th Land District.

The King families living in Houston Co., Ga., in 1850 were:

James King, b. 1797, N.C., wife, Elizabeth; Thomas King, b. 1800, N. C., wife, Matilda; William King, b. 1807, N. C., wife, Mary; Levi King, b. 1811, N. C. wife Susan; John King, Jr., b. 1812, N. C., wife, Marion; Thomas King, b. 1813, N. C.; George W. King, b. 1818, N. C. wife, Martha; Thomas King, b. 1819, Ga.; Allen King, b. 1823, Ga.; Benjamin King, b. 1826, Ga., wife Sarah; Nancy King, b. 1814, S. C. (wife of James King, son of John King, Sr.)

Most of the above persons were either children of Nehemiah King, or his brother, John King, Sr. Most of them were living in the Fifth Land District of Houston County, Georgia, which is the upper part of Houston County.

NEHEMIAH KING left many descendants. There are some persons who are doing research on his family. Perhaps, they will publish a book on the Kings sometime in the future.

JOHN KING, SR.

John King, Sr. is the oldest proven ancestor of Mrs. George Ervin Perdue, Sr., and the King descendants given in this section.

The KING families who settled in Houston County, Ga. were truly pioneers. One has to admire their venturesome spirit. Probably the lure of better lands for farming brought them South from North Carolina to Jones Co., and then to Crawford and Houston Counties.

Hardships and illness were everyday occurrences. Log cabins and houses had to be built, land had to be cleared for farming, and provisions for food had to be made for their large families. Many of the Kings brought slaves with them or acquired them after they came. Nevertheless, the task that lay before them would be considered a formidable endeavor today. Most everything required to sustain their families had to be grown on their plantations. Obviously from land deed records, it appears that the Kings of Houston County, by today's standards, would be considered very successful and wealthy land owners.

Records indicate that the Kings were from Virginia and moved across the Virginia-North Carolina line into Rockingham Co. N. C. shortly after the American Revolution. In 1788 to 1800, there were several deed records in Rockingham Co. N. C. that showed land being bought by Kings. The State of North Carolina deeded 200 acres of land on Jacob's Creek on 15 Apr. 1788, to Thomas King, Sr. Then, in 1790 and 1795, Levi King was deeded land by the State of N. C. on Jacob's Creek and Big Troublesome Creek. This Levi King died in 1811, Rockingham County. He had two daughters and only two sons, Henry and Joseph King.

In 1791, Thomas King, Sr. bought land on Rockhouse Creek. Also, he sold land in 1796, to John King. John King bought 60 acres of land on Rockhouse Creek in 1795. (Deed Books B, C, D, Rockingham, Co.)

Levi King and Micajah King were listed as families of N. C. with Revolutionary Service. (Early Families of N. C., Counties of Rockingham and Stokes with Revolutionary Service, V. 2, pp. 29, 153) Thomas King, Sr. probably served in the Revolutionary War since he was awarded land by the State of North Carolina in 1788.

Evidence indicates that John King, Sr. was the son of Thomas King, Sr. Both John King, Sr. and his brother, Nehemiah, named a son Thomas, probably after their father. Levi King of Rockingham Co. N. C., who died in 1811, was probably closely related since both John King, Sr. and Nehemiah named a son Levi.

By 1815, there were 12 Kings listed in the Tax Lists of Rockingham Co. N. C. Among them were John King and Semiah (could have been Nehemiah). (1815 Tax Lists, Rockingham Co., N. C.) Most all of John King, Sr. and Nehemiah King's children were born in N. C., before they migrated to Jones County, Georgia, in the early 1820's.

In the 1811, Jones Co. Tax List, one John King was listed. He owned 200 acres on Beaver and Walnut Creek and 300 acres on Camp Creek. In the 1821 Land Lottery of Jones Co., Ga., John King, Sr. drew Land Lot 212, District 5, in Houston Co., Ga., which is located on the northern line of the county.

The Kings listed in the 1820 Jones Co., Ga., Census were: Jacob, Edward W. (son of John King, Sr.), Newton, John, and John King, Sr. John King, Sr. was over 45 years old, and the other John King was about 26 years old. This younger John King was not the John King, Jr. who moved to Houston County because John King, Jr. was only 8 years old.

In 1830 Jones Co. Census were listed these Kings: Martin, William, Jessie, George C., William, Thomas, and John King (the one that moved to Houston County, and who was the grandfather of Mrs. George Ervin Perdue, Sr.).

The only King family in Crawford Co., Ga., in 1840 was Jesse King, age 40-50. John King, Sr. moved from Jones Co., Ga., to Crawford Co. shortly after 1844. He was listed in the 1840 Jones Co. Census, but was in Crawford County by 1846, when he made his will.

In his Will, made 16 Feb. 1846, probated 16 Nov. 1846, he named 13 children, two of whom were deceased. His wife had died before he made his will. He named his son, Levi G. King, Executor.

Information about JOHN KING, SR. and his children has been verified through the following records: 1820, 1830, 1840, 1850, 1860, 1870, 1880, 1900, and 1910 Census Records of Jones, Houston and Crawford Counties; wills of Crawford and Houston Counties; wills, Land Deed Abstracts, 1815 Tax Lists, Early Families with Revolutionary War Service, and Marriage Records of Rockingham Co. N. C.; Jones Co. History, Land Deeds, 1811 Tax List, Marriage Records, Land Grant Records; Land Deeds of Crawford Co.; Houston Co., Ga. Wills, Marriages, Land Deeds, Superior Court Minutes, and King relatives.

CHILDREN OF JOHN KING, SR.

JOHN KING, SR., born in Rockingham Co., N. C., died 1846, Crawford Co., Ga., m. 31 July 1797, Rockingham Co., N. C., to Priscilla Williams, daughter of Allen Williams. She died before 1840. They had 13 children.

The following children of JOHN KING, SR. are not listed chronologically according to birth. Much more research needs to be done on this family. The main focus for research at this time has been for JOHN KING, JR.

1. THOMAS KING, b. 1801, Rockingham, N. C.; m. 13 Jan. 1825, Jones Co., Ga., to Matilda Reynolds. He lived near his brother, John King, Jr., in the Lower Fifth Land District of Houston Co. in 1850. JOHN KING, JR.

John King, Jr., whose descendants are given in this section, was born in Rockingham, N. C. in 1812. He was about 6-8 years old when his father, John King, Sr. moved his family to Jones Co.Ga. John King, Jr. lived in Jones County, Clinton District, until after his first marriage in 1833, and before 1840. He was living in the Lower 5th District, Houston Co. Ga. in 1840. In the 1850, Houston Co. Census, he was listed with his wife Marion and five children. Marion died before 1860, and he married Sarah A. (Sanders, some researchers claim). They had five children before she died in 1873. John King, Jr. later married Nancy Hudson, b. 1829, d. 8 Apr. 1899, and they had no children.

All of the Kings were large land owners in the 5th Land District of Houston County. John King, Jr., at one time, owned Lots 220, 221, and 222 in the Lower 5th District, and 30 acres in Lot 16 in the 11th District of Houston Co. The old King plantation, which included many hundreds of acres, was located near Wellston, Ga., now called Warner Robins, Ga. All of Nehemiah King's sons and some of the sons of John King, Sr. lived near each other and near John King, Jr. in the 5th Land District. Pleasant Hill Road in Warner Robins, Ga. was probably named after the Pleasant Hill Primitive Baptist Church, for which the Kings donated five acres of land.

The homeplace of John King, Jr. was on Lot 222, 5th District, Houston Co.,Ga. He and many of his children and relatives are buried in the King Family Cemetery, which is located on Booth Road, Lot 222, near Warner Robins, Ga.

Several Kings owned slaves in Houston County in 1864. They were: W. T. King, 3 slaves; J. L. King, 7 slaves; Benjamin King, 2 slaves; John King, 1100 acres, 21 slaves; J. H. King, 1 slave; Nancy King, 1 slave; Mrs. Eliza King, 2 slaves; John King, 10 slaves; John H. King, 4 slaves. (1864, Slave Owners in Houston County, Georgia)

John King, Jr. was a very responsible, honest individual who assumed the responsibility for taking care of many of his relatives. He was appointed administrator of his brother's estate (JAMES KING) on 19 Nov. 1842. He also was guardian of James's four children. He was also the guardian for Mary W. King, who was probably his grandchild. She was living in his home in 1870. He also served as his sister's attorney to collect her share of her father's estate. A copy of that transaction will be given here because it gives the relation of John King, Jr. and John King, Sr., and plainly states that John King, Jr. is residing in Houston County, Georgia.

Land Deed Records, Crawford Co. Ga., p. 669.

I, PLEASANT KING, of Talladega Co. Alabama, have appointed John King, Jr. of the State of Georgia and Houston County, my true and lawful attorney for me to recover and receive from executor of John King Senior's estate any sums of money due me from estate.

Dated: 25 Nov. 1846 Pleasant King
Recorded: 30 Apr. 1852
Witnesses: Thomas King
Charles R. Law, J.P.

John King, Jr. died 13 July 1891, age 79. His obituary in the Houston Home Journal stated that he was one of the oldest and estimable citizens of the Lower Fifth District, Houston Co. Ga. The obituary stated that he was familiarly called "Uncle John" by all of those who knew him.

His property was later owned by his daughter, Frances Winnie, and her husband, Green Monroe Renfroe. Their daughter, Alma, and her husband, George Ervin Perdue, Sr. subsequently became the next owners of this land, which they farmed for many years. It was auctioned and sold in small tracts in the early 1970's.

RENFROE

The Renfroes may have come to Warren and Washington Counties from Anson County, North Carolina. An Enoch Renfroe was given a land grant, No. 4530, Anson Co., N.C., 14 Oct. 1783, S.E. of Peedee River. His sons, namely Enoch, Nathaniel, Joel, and Stephen also got land grants in Anson Co.,N.C. Prior to that, John Renfroe in Edgecombe Co.,N. C. mentioned a son, Enoch, in his will which was probated in 1748. This could have been the Enoch from Anson Co.,N.C. mentioned above.

There was an Enoch Renfroe who made a Will in Warren Co.,Ga. in 1802. He could be the same Enoch mentioned in John Renfroe's Will make in 1802, Edgecombe County, N.C.

Elisha Renfroe owned 300 acres of land when he was listed on the 1825 Tax Digest in Washington Co., Ga. He also was listed in the 1820 and 1830 Washington Co. Censuses. The relationship has not been determined between Elisha Renfroe and the other Renfroes of Warren and Washington Counties, although it seems obvious that they were related. Both Elisha Renfroe and Enoch Renfroe named a son, Nathaniel.

In 1820, the only Renfroes in Georgia were in Washington, Morgan, and Jones Counties. Those in Washington County were: ELISHA, Enoch Sr., John, Enoch, Jr., Nathan, Peter, and William. The only Renfroe in Morgan Co. was Stephen. In Jones Co. were: Joel, Nancy Nathan, Jr., and Stephen.

Living in Washington County in 1830 were the following Renfroes: ELISHA, Enoch Sr., Enoch Jr., James, John, Nathan, Samuel, and William, Sr. By 1840 the only Renfroes left there were James B., Anne, Nathaniel, James M., and William.

Nathaniel Renfroe of Washington Co. bought land, Jan. 1842, in Houston Co., Ga., District 10. He was the son of Elisha Renfroe and the father of Bryant Renfroe, Alma Renfroe-Perdue's grandfather.

The Renfroe Home was located on Fagin Mill Road (now known as Moody Road). The Renfroe estate was originally part of John King, Jr.'s plantation. Frances Winnie King-Renfroe inherited part of it, and she and her husband bought the rest from her brothers and sisters.

Including approximately 400 acres, the Renfroe farm reached from the edge of Wellston, Ga. (now Warner Robins, Ga.) to Fagin Mill Pond (now Wilkinson's Pond). Bay Gall Creek ran through the property. Part of the property was later owned by their daughter, Alma and her husband, George Ervin Perdue, Sr. After Alma and George sold the land in the early 1970's, the new owners destroyed the old Renfroe home.

JEFFERSON COUNTY, GEORGIA

WILLIAM PERDUE, SR.

176? - 1825

Quote by a great-grandson, John Thomas Perdue, when celebrating his 93rd birthday. Printed in Col. # 22, Feb. 14, 1980, of Ancestoring Through Georgia Newspapers.

"My great-grandfather, Mr. William Perdue, came over from Ireland to settle in Ashville, N. C., during the first part of the seventeenth (?) century. He later came to settle in Georgia, in what is now known as Jefferson County. My ancestors had to wait three days for the water to go down so that they could cross the Savannah River. He brought with him his seven sons and two daughters. He lived to be 96 years of age and his elder son lived to be 106 years old."

(The ages above would seem to be incorrect because the oldest William to reside in Jefferson County, Ga., lived only about 65 yrs. Records do not indicate any of his sons lived to be 106 years old.)

William Perdue, Sr. received a grant of 300 acres on Reedy Creek in Jefferson County (formerly Warren County), Georgia. He moved there before 1795. Jefferson was formed from Warren and Burke County in 1796.

William Perdue, Sr. married Judah ? and they had the following children:

1. JAMES T. PERDUE, 178? - 1844, married Mary
2. WILLIAM PERDUE, JR. 178? - 1828, married Barbara Rowland and 2nd. to Ann Palmer
3. JUDAH PERDUE, 178? - 18??, married Henry Whitehead
4. BENJAMIN PERDUE, 1795 - 18??, m. Rachel Anderson

7. DICEY PERDUE, 1797-1889, m. Abraham Beasley

(Information on the ensuing pages concerning the sons of William and Judah Perdue was extracted from census records and from the tax digests and other records in the Jefferson County Courthouse, Louisville, Ga.)

EPILOGUE

We come now to the "omega" and last page of the JAMES A. PERDUE AND DESCENDANTS book. For the author, it is a time of "gratified relief" that the historical account of the Perdues of Houston County, Georgia, will be recorded.

This saga traces the Perdues from their appearance in the wilderness of Houston County in the early 1800's to the present computerized age of the 1980's--finding descendants scattered throughout the United States.

To past generations this saga is a chronicle of their struggles and a tribute to their lives. To present generations, it is an affirmation of their ancestry--an appreciation and admiration for their ancestor's contributions, albeit small, to the advancement of mankind. To future generations it is a legacy, perhaps viewed as an imperfect saga of human foibles and accomplishments.

Through this microcosm of the original Houston County Perdues it is envisioned--and desired--that future generations may find strength in the chaos of their civilization with the assurance that their ancestors met the challenges of their times with dignity, valor, and integrity.
